By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Kimberly Beth Smith, Miss Gobles, became Miss Blossomtime 1976 Monday night in a spectacular patriotic pageant, "Our American Heritage," in the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

A capacity audience saw the 30 contestants parade in military costume before a stage-size American flag, show off their Bicentennial costumes before an early 20th century home and park, and display their evening gowns before a huge map of the United States.

As the competition narrowed, the girls paraded against a more than life-size Statue of Liberty and returned to the American flag background for the finale.

Miss Berrien Springs, Corby Yvette Dixon, was first runner-up. Second runner-up was Theresa Ann MacGregor, Miss

Three Oaks. Bicentennial dress award went to Dena Hartlerode, Miss Sodus. She wore a dress which was at one time on display in the Brooklyn museum in New York.

The dress was an 1880 "Paris Original" two-piece floor length suit made of black velvet with taffeta petticoat to rustle the train. Her hat was a handsewn original with black ostrich plume and she carried a handsewn muff and wore high-top lace shoes.

The new queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith, Route 1, Gobles. A senior at Gobles high school, she is 18, has light brown hair and green eyes, and is 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches tall. She was Gobles Junior Miss in 1974 and won the DART Good Citizens award this year. She plans to attend Taylor

BH Mayor's Pay Raise Scrubbed By Legal Opinion

The Benton Harbor city commission Monday night voted unanimously to reject a recommendation that the mayor receive a salary of $25,000 a year and that city commissioners get pay raises.

The action came after the city commission heard a legal opinion from Atty. K. Morris Gavin that invalid procedures were used during the creation of a city compensation commission in 1974 and that, therefore, its recommendations of pay boosts for the mayor and commissioners are "of no effect."

Gavin's opinion reinforced an earlier opinion from former City Atty. Yvonne Hughes that the recommendations were improper and invalid, although he disagreed with her that the city charter prohibits a discrepancy in salaries between the mayor and other commissioners.

The compensation commission recommended last Dec. 29 that the mayor receive $25,000 a year while the mayor pro-tem's pay be raised to $40 a meeting and other commissioners receive $30 a meeting. The mayor and all commissioners presently receive $5 a meeting under provisions of the city charter.

"I'm pleased that the opinion clears the air," Mayor Charles F. Joseph said last night. "I'm pleased that we took the time — and the flak — to get these questions answered."

"I appreciate the people in the community who were patient and did not let people, especially the press, put pressure on us to act."

Joseph said he had never been asked by the compensation commission, or by anyone else, if he wanted a $25,000 salary.

Commissioner Charles Yarbrough noted that Gavin's opinion addressed only the legality of the compensation commission's recommendation and not the propriety of paying a part-time mayor $25,000 a year.

According to Gavin, the city still has the power to set up another compensation commission, although under state law it can meet only in odd-numbered years.

The commission voted in January to seek opinions from Gavin and Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley after Atty. Hughes ruled the recommendations improper. Gavin since has been retained on a fee basis to perform other legal work for the city. Atty. Hughes was fired Feb. 23.

Gavin last night blamed "bad advice" from former City Atty. Carl Cooper for mistakes made in establishing the compensation commission. Among the mistakes he cited were:

— The city commission failed to designate terms of office for the seven compensation board members, who should have been assigned terms of from one to seven years. Gavin called this the "most harmful" mistake.

— Since seven members were appointed, a majority of four would be required to take official action, he said. But members of the compensation commission thought there were only five members, and thought it proper when three members voted the pay raises. Because the three members did not represent a quorum their recommendations were invalid, Gavin said.

— Although seven members were named to the commission, according to state law a city the size of Benton Harbor should have had a five-member compensation commission, Gavin said.

— The members were not instructed to answer their letters of appointment, Gavin said. He said this was contrary to state law and caused the mixup about the number of members on the commission.

Although her name wasn't mentioned at last night's meeting, Atty. Hughes and Gavin agreed on all of the above points. Gavin disagreed with Atty. Hughes on three points:

— He said that the state law which creates compensation commissions gives it the power to set different salaries for the

John Platts Chosen President Of ARIC

Members of the Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC) Monday elected John H. Platts, chairman and chief executive officer of Whirlpool Corporation, as their new president.

He succeeds Lester J. Tiscornia, president of Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., who held the top council seat for the past four years. Tiscornia declined reappointment.

The area improvement organization, comprised of top executives of industry and business in the Twin Cities area, elected officers for the coming year at their annual meeting held at the Whirlpool Administrative center north of the Twin Cities.

Edward T. Donahue, executive vice president and general manager of the Clark Equipment Co. Construction Machinery division, was chosen vice president, replacing Platts.

Eitel O. Eberhardt, chairman of Inter-City Bank, was re-elected as secretary-treasurer, the position he has held since ARIC was founded in 1967.

Elisha Gray II, then chairman of Whirlpool Corp. and now retired, led formation of the council in 1967, and served as its president until late 1971. Gray had envisioned a vehicle to try to reverse deteriorating conditions in various parts of the local community.

Platts, the new president, had supplied the organizational format for ARIC, suggesting to Gray a community council like Platts had headed when he was a Whirlpool division manager in Evansville, Ind.

Purpose of the organization is to bring the talents of top private executives and the resources of their firms to bear on community problems.

The ARIC board voted a resolution of thanks to Tiscornia for "outstanding service to ARIC and the community" during his four years as president.

Tiscornia had followed Gray as president of the organization.

In other business, trustees agreed to continue the organization's emphasis on nine areas of community concern. These areas are: Education, employment, social services, health, housing, welfare reform, crime prevention, juvenile delinquency, and family planning.

Members of the council, in addition to the officers mentioned above and the firms they represent are:

John P. Banyon, Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.; Willard J. Banyon, Palladium Publishing Co.; August Brogno, Whirlpool Corp.; Clifford Emlong, Emlong

Smietanka Will Seek Re-Election

Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka today announced he will seek re-election to a full term as prosecutor. Smietanka, a Republican who has been with the prosecutor's office six years, said he decided to again seek office after closely examining all the alternatives. "I enjoy my work and feel it's contributing something in Berrien county," Smietanka added.

The 34-year-old Smietanka was appointed prosecutor in February, 1974, to fill a vacancy created when former prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor resigned, and was elected that November to fill the unexpired term.

He joined the prosecutor's staff in March, 1970, as administrative and appellate assistant and was made chief assistant prosecutor in 1972.

Smietanka said he decided to run again because "with the grand jury, and other areas, we're starting things which I want to see through." Berrien's first citizen's grand jury was initiated early this year at the request of Smietanka, and has so far returned indictments against two St. Joseph attorneys.

Smietanka received his undergraduate degree from Oblate Fathers Scholasticate in Pass Christian, Miss., and was awarded his law degree from John Marshall School of Law in Chicago.

Payola And Our Balance Of Payments

Bestowing a favor up a customer or those of his employers in a position to grant or kill a sale by the supplier has been a way of doing business ever since the cavemen discovered the convenience of swapping articles and skills between themselves.

It is one of the many baser traits in human nature which never should have been allowed to flower, but even Moses chose to ignore the fact when delivering the Ten Commandments to his people.

The dictionaries have a harsh word for the practice. They call it a bribe and describe it in the general term of something that serves to induce or influence to a given line of conduct.

About 20 years ago some disgruntled personages in the radio and television industries disclosed that getting a Top 20 rating for a song could depend on greasing the palm of an influential disc jockey and that some winners on the 64 Dollar Question quiz show received advance briefings on the questions.

Within the trade a name for the practice had been around for several years. The insiders called it payola.

The dictionaries now list payola as a part of the English language and describe it as "an undercover or indirect payment for a commercial favor (as to a disc jockey for plugging a song)."

The payola scandal did not toss the disc jockey into the list of obsolete jobs, nor put the quiz show out of business. Nobody went to jail. No radio or TV station owner lost his broadcast license. A few station executives received some inhouse chastisement and temporarily were shifted to lesser paying assignments.

The only casualties of note and not really for very long were a few members in the executive suite sporting egg on the face.

That jollity corresponds drastically with the hue and cry arising over the disclosure of many U.S. firms bribing high placed personages in foreign countries to acquire and to maintain their export trade.

The practice ranges from keeping some influential people on an unofficial payroll to greasing the palm of a local dock wallop to unload a cargo.

The IRS last week announced it was sending out special auditing teams to ferret out unauthorized deductions of payola as a claimed expense of doing business.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is wrestling within itself on issuing a set of guide lines on what payments a company should report to its stockholders and what kickbacks are deemed to be inconsequential.

While waiting for the SEC to issue a book on the subject, many firms are tumbling over themselves to reveal what they guess the Commission will call improper payola.

Saturday night on a campaign swing back from California, President Ford told a Wisconsin audience he is appointing a special commission to look into illegal payments.

It is always unassailable doctrine to be against sin and when business is found to be stepping over the line the din for purification becomes deafening.

Unfortunately the outcry equates foreign payola to bribing a city building inspector to accept substandard materials for a public project here at home and fails to take into account the consequences of what may happen if Washington pushes it purging process further.

The inescapable fact is that payola is standard operating procedure for foreign business firms engaged in the export trade.

Great Britain, for example, so desperately needs export business that she does not put her rigorous exchange controls on payola. An English traveler is severely limited to how many pounds he can spend on a foreign vacation. A British exporter can ship out as many as he thinks necessary to meet what the Whitehall Treasury euphemistically calls "the custom of the country."

Foreign airlines, all government owned, regularly rebate to their good customers.

If U.S. businessmen are forbidden to fight fire with fire, we may as well forget trying to do business abroad and in the process lay off those American workers in those plants shipping U.S. products across the seas.

Sin is sin can be only way of looking at any dereliction, but there is such a thing as killing the patient simply for the sake of curing him.

'Thank You' Her Message To Physicians On 'Doctors Day'

Editor,

March 30th has been designated by someone, somewhere as "National Doctors' Day". The Auxiliary to the Berrien County Medical Society would like to share these thoughts with the community. We, the public, are the victims of television and newspapers. Newspapers pride themselves on printing the news, as it is, as free from prejudice as possible and television makes no claims except to be entertaining. Therefore, physicians frequently are reported and depicted as unfaithful to wives; narcotic addicts; handsome young fellows with not much on their minds but nurses; making grave errors in surgery or diagnosis; heroes in discovering some rare something-or-other and generally being described in terms that very, very few physicians would recognize themselves.

Most physicians are still a dedicated bunch of human beings who represent a life-line to gravely ill people. They are also the confidante of many people who suspect they are ill but really need someone to talk to. While the physician practices his profession, he often spends many hours in surgery, which is physically exhausting. He often experiences frustration in confronting a baffling diagnosis, which is mentally exhausting. And, those human beings called doctors, most often be a father, a son, a husband, a business executive, an arbitrator, or a community leader — and many times all at once.

Mrs. James H. Grove, President, Berrien County Medical Society Auxiliary, 1975-76

SAYS SCHOOL CLOSING WILL HURT COMMUNITY

Editor,

My family and I are residents of the Jefferson Elementary school district in St. Joseph. My concern about the possible closing of our neighborhood school prompts me to write this letter.

We have been told by Mr. Aldrich, superintendent of schools, and by Mr. Percy, business manager for the St. Joe schools, that their concern is the St. Joe community, and that by closing a neighborhood grade school they will be doing the community a great service. I think not!!

The main concern seems to be...you guessed it...money. The money that could be saved in closing a grade school seems to be a paltry percentage out of a $5 million dollar annual school budget when the possible disastrous effects are considered.

We bought our home here 7 1/2 years ago (when our first child was 6 months old) with the future foremost in our minds. We thought this to be an ideal location — 1 1/2 blocks to elementary school (Jefferson) and 3 or 4 blocks to either junior high or high school, pleasant neighborhood, quiet streets — no heavy traffic, but most of all homes that were affordable to young middle-income families. All in all, a nice place to live.

Now, we are told that our school has been considered for

Editor's Mailbag

possible closing in June. Public opinion logically opposes the closing of any school. A neighborhood grade school brings young families to communities like ours. If the school is kept as is, our neighborhood will thrive and homes will maintain their property values. As older resident retire and move away, homes will become available in the price range affordable to young couples and the area could experience a real population increase in children.

If the school is closed, property values will drop (perhaps severely), young families will not buy here and the neighborhood will eventually be left in the hands of the very old and very poor.

A neighborhood like that becomes a malignancy — homes aren't kept in repair, old people must live in fear and it never stops with just one locale. The city could very possibly end up like so many others — the downtown areas would become slums and the city would slowly — but surely — die.

The very backbone of a thriving community is a good school system, with the children in their own neighborhoods —

Soviets Sour Own Victories

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Technically, the Russians usually do a superb job in their underground support of Marxist revolutionaries. They keep a low profile, keep a door open for withdrawal without loss of face, inject small amounts of money and arms into a wide front probing for an opening; then pump-in assistance lavishly when it appears their help will turn the tide. They waste no tears on lost causes.

When it comes to following through however, the Russians apparently forget the rules they follow so effectively in promoting revolutions and wars.

For instance, look at the recent ouster of the Russians by Egypt and its cancellation of a mutual defense treaty with Moscow.

The Russians bumbled by attempting to interfere in Egyptian civilian and military politics. They shut off spare parts and supplies when they couldn't have their way. No country will take such abuse and the Egyptians had an option: they could turn to the West, and did.

The Russians made the same mistake in dealings with Mao Tse-tung's China. They supplied Peking with nuclear know-how, technicians and aid, then demanded that Mao follow Russian policy in the Far East and in South Asia. When Mao refused, the Russians abruptly pulled their men and aid, leaving Chinese industrial development in a shambles and building an enemy difficult to eradicate. Mao mistrusted Moscow to begin with but his views were far from universal among Chinese Communist leaders.

Moving on to Eastern Europe — East Germany, Poland,

Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Albania in particular; Yugoslavia and Albania have openly broken with Moscow. There have been serious revolts in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, despite the strong presence of Russian troops in or about their borders. Rumania is kept in check by the same overriding presence.

One country after another in the various African countries, assisted by the Soviets for their own ends, has moved to weaken those ties and to build relationship with the U.S. and the West after a period of growing suspicion of the Russian presence.

Of those lands allied with Russia but not so close as to be threatened by Soviet troops, Castro's Cuba stands out as the one which seemingly has not soured its relationships, though the Cubans have had provocation. Perhaps it is because Fidel Castro has learned that he can milk the Soviet Union for billions in continued assistance and secure the backup he needs to move around the world transporting revolutions; a policy he attempted in Latin America but which blew up in his face.

Now we shall see what happens in Angola. Will the victories of the Marxist faction stick? The work of the Cuban expeditionary force, from all accounts, was not impressive but the victors had an overwhelming supply of arms and equipment. ## November Is A Divided Issue

Now that the Ford primary victories have for all practical purposes terminated the Reagan insurgency, conservatives who backed Ronald Reagan as a challenge to the status quo are deeply divided about the November election. They agree on larger goals, but not on tactics. At present, they seem to fall into three main groupings:

1. A sizable number will support Gerald Ford with varying degrees of enthusiasm. They argue that he is to be preferred to any likely Democrat. They recognize Ford's shortcomings from their point of view. Nothing much will be done about busing, astonishing though busing is in fact and in principle.

Nothing will be done about racial quotas in vast areas of our national life.

Nothing will be done about the social welfare bureaucracy.

2. Interestingly enough, a second group of conservatives argues that 1976 may be the year to support a plausible Democrat such as Henry Jackson or even Hubert Humphrey or Jimmy Carter. The reasoning goes this way. American foreign policy is the critical area now, and things do not change very rapidly in domestic policy anyway. Foreign policy obviously suffers at present from divided government.

As a Republican president, Ford has little or no power to discipline wayward senators and congressmen of the opposing party. Such politicians often seek frivolous publicity by seizing upon foreign policy and national security issues. The Sovietization of Angola means little to a Senator John Tunney, who can pause in his jet-setty existence to announce his own Angola policy. Damaging the CIA does not disturb the sleep of an Otis Pike. But a President Jackson, Humphrey, or Carter could pick up the phone and bring the congressional clowns back inside the tent.

As for spending and bureaucracy, look at Jerry Brown in California and Michael Dukakis in Massachusetts. And who recently said the following: "Why can't liberals start raising hell about a government so big, so complex, so expensive and so unresponsive that it's dragging down every good thing we've worked for?" Edmund Muskie, that's who.

3. A third group of conservatives is now mounting a serious "new party" organizational effort and may get on the ballot in all or most of the 50 states. They believe that the Republican Party as presently constituted is a status quo party and the principal impediment to conservative reform, and would be glad to help defeat it. They think that Ford-styled Republicanism has its priorities exactly inverted. Conservative on economic issues and complacent on the social issues, it has no way of expanding by recruiting disaffected Democrats.

Rather than four more years of the past, these conservatives will choose the unknown future. They are eager to pull the plug on Ford and the old Republican Party and wait for 1980. The strength of this movement could easily determine the outcome of the 1976 election.

Better To Be Cautious Evaluating 'Swine Flu'

When the mass immunization program against "swine" flu virus was announced in Washington, Dr. Albert Sabin, polio vaccine developer and one of the health authorities consulted on the flu question, commented that the matter was one in which those involved would be damned if they did and damned if they didn't.

In opting to go ahead with a $135 million program to inoculate as many of the 215 million Americans as will take advantage of the vaccine, the United States at this time appears to be going alone. No other nation has announced a similar program. Several are investigating the possibilities, but others already have announced they consider the precaution a waste of effort.

Canada will announce within a matter of days whether it will adopt a similar crash immunization program. Contrasting is the view of Prof. Soeren K. Suerensen, director of the Danish Board of Medicine, who said: "Here in Denmark we see no purpose whatsoever in organizing public vaccinations against flu which would give protection against a specific type of virus for no more than a year."

What brought the "swine" flu strain to the front burner of medical attention was an outbreak of the virus which was responsible for 20 million deaths worldwide in 1918-1920, among a few soldiers at Fort Dix, N.J. One soldier died from the virus.

Whether that one case was sufficient to warrant a nationwide inoculation plan is, as Dr. Sabin noted, the unanswerable question. Given the unknown future of this particular virus and the demonstrable results of its last major attack, it is far better to err on the side of caution.

Payola And Our Balance Of Payments

Bestowing a favor up a customer or those of his employers in a position to grant or kill a sale by the supplier has been a way of doing business ever since the cavemen discovered the convenience of swapping articles and skills between themselves.

It is one of the many baser traits in human nature which never should have been allowed to flower, but even Moses chose to ignore the fact when delivering the Ten Commandments to his people.

The dictionaries have a harsh word for the practice. They call it a bribe and describe it in the general term of "something that serves to induce or influence to a given line of conduct."

About 20 years ago some disgruntled personages in the radio and television industries disclosed that getting a Top 20 rating for a song could depend on greasing the palm of an influential disc jockey and that some winners on the 64 Dollar Question quiz show received advance briefings on the questions.

Within the trade a name for the practice had been around for several years. The insiders called it payola.

The dictionaries now list payola as a part of the English language and describe it as "an undercover or indirect payment for a commercial favor (as to a disc jockey for plugging a song)."

The payola scandal did not toss the disc jockey into the list of obsolete jobs, nor put the quiz show out of business. Nobody went to jail. No radio or TV station owner lost his broadcast license. A few station executives received some inhouse chastisement and temporarily were shifted to lesser paying assignments.

The only casualties of note and not really for very long were a few members in the executive suite sporting egg on the face.

That jollity corresponds drastically with the hue and cry arising over the disclosure of many U.S. firms bribing high placed personages in foreign countries to acquire and to maintain their export trade.

The practice ranges from keeping some influential people on an unofficial payroll to greasing the palm of a local dock wallop to unload a cargo.

The IRS last week announced it was sending out special auditing teams to ferret out unauthorized deductions of payola as a claimed expense of doing business.

The Securities and Exchange Commission is wrestling within itself on issuing a set of guide lines on what payments a company should report to its stockholders and what kickbacks are deemed to be inconsequential.

While waiting for the SEC to issue a book on the subject, many firms are tumbling over themselves to reveal what they guess the Commission will call improper payola.

Saturday night on a campaign swing back from California, President Ford told a Wisconsin audience he is appointing a special commission to look into illegal payments.

It is always unassailable doctrine to be against sin and when business is found to be stepping over the line the din for purification becomes deafening.

Unfortunately the outcry equates foreign payola to bribing a city building inspector to accept substandard materials for a public project here at home and fails to take into account the consequences of what may happen if Washington pushes its purging process further.

The inescapable fact is that payola is standard operating procedure for foreign business firms engaged in the export trade.

Foreign airlines, all government owned, regularly rebate to their good customers.

If U.S. businessmen are forbidden to fight fire with fire, we may as well forget trying to do business abroad and in the process lay off those American workers in those plants shipping U.S. products across the seas.

Sin is sin can be only way of looking at any dereliction, but there is such a thing as killing the patient simply for the sake of curing him.

'Thank You' Her Message To Physicians On 'Doctors Day'

Editor,

March 30th has been designated by someone, somewhere as "National Doctors' Day". The Auxiliary to the Berrien County Medical Society would like to share these thoughts with the community. We, the public, are the victims of television and newspapers. Newspapers pride themselves on printing the news, as it is, as free from prejudice as possible and television makes no claims except to be entertaining. Therefore, physicians frequently are reported and depicted as unfaithful to wives; narcotic addicts; handsome young fellows with not much on their minds but nurses; making grave errors in surgery or diagnosis; heroes in discovering some rare something-or-other and generally being described in terms that very, very few physicians would recognize themselves.

Most physicians are still a dedicated bunch of human beings who represent a life-line to gravely ill people. They are also the confidante of many people who suspect they are ill but really need someone to talk to. While the physician practices his profession, he often spends many hours in surgery, which is physically exhausting. He often experiences frustration in confronting a baffling diagnosis, which is mentally exhausting. And, those human beings called doctors, must often be a father, a son, a husband, a business executive, an arbitrator, or a community leader — and many times all at once.

Berrien County Medical Society Auxiliary, 1975-76

SAYS SCHOOL CLOSING WILL HURT COMMUNITY

Editor,

My family and I are residents of the Jefferson Elementary school district in St. Joseph. My concern about the possible closing of our neighborhood school prompts me to write this letter.

We have been told by Mr. Aldrich, superintendent of schools, and by Mr. Percy, business manager for the St. Joe schools, that their concern is the St. Joe community, and, that by closing a neighborhood grade school they will be doing the community a great service. I think not!!

The main concern seems to be...you guessed it...money. The money that could be saved in closing a grade school seems to be a paltry percentage out of a 5.5 million dollar annual school budget when the possible disastrous effects are considered.

We bought our home here 7½ years ago (when our first child was 6 months old) with the future foremost in our minds. We thought this to be an ideal location — 1½ blocks to elementary school (Jefferson) and 3 or 4 blocks to either junior high or high school, pleasant neighborhood, quiet streets — no heavy traffic, but most of all homes that were affordable to young middle-income families. All in all, a nice place to live.

Editor's Mailbag

possible closing in June. Public opinion logically opposes the closing of any school. A neighborhood grade school brings young families to communities like ours. If the school is kept as is, our neighborhood will thrive and homes will maintain their property values. As older resident retire and move away, homes will become available in the price range affordable to young couples and the area could experience a real population increase in children.

If the school is closed, property values will drop (perhaps severely), young families will not buy here and the neighborhood will eventually be left in the hands of the very old and very poor.

A neighborhood like that becomes a malignancy — homes aren't kept in repair, old people must live in fear and it never stops with just one locale. The city could very possibly end up like so many others — the downtown areas would become slums and the city would slowly — but surely — die.

The very backbone of a thriving community is a good school system, with the children in their own neighborhoods —

Soviets Sour Own Victories

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Technically, the Russians usually do a superb job in their underground support of Marxist revolutionaries. They keep a low profile, keep a door open for withdrawal without loss of face, inject small amounts of money and arms into a wide front probing for an opening, then pump-in assistance lavishly when it appears their help will turn the tide. They waste no tears on lost causes.

When it comes to following through however, the Russians apparently forget the rules they follow so effectively in promoting revolutions and wars.

For instance, look at the recent ouster of the Russians by Egypt and its cancellation of a mutual defense treaty with Moscow.

The Russians bumbled by attempting to interfere in Egyptian civilian and military politics. They shut off spare parts and supplies when they couldn't have their way. No country will take such abuse and the Egyptians had an option: they could turn to the West, and did.

The Russians made the same mistake in dealings with Mao Tse-tung's China. They supplied Peking with nuclear know-how, technicians and aid, then demanded that Mao follow Russian policy in the Far East and in South Asia. When Mao refused, the Russians abruptly pulled their men and aid, leaving Chinese industrial development in a shambles and building an enmity difficult to eradicate. Mao mistrusted Moscow to begin with but his views were far from universal among Chinese Communist leaders.

Moving on to Eastern Europe — East Germany, Poland,

Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Albania in particular. Yugoslavia and Albania have openly broken with Moscow. There have been serious revolts in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary despite the strong presence of Russian troops in or about their borders. Rumania is kept in check by the same overriding presence.

One country after another in the various African countries, assisted by the Soviets for their own ends, has moved to weaken those ties and to build relationship with the U.S. and the West after a period of growing suspicion of the Russian presence.

Of those lands allied with Russia but not so close as to be threatened by Soviet troops, Castro's Cuba stands out as the one which seemingly has not soured its relationships, though the Cubans have had provocation. Perhaps it is because Fidel Castro has learned that he can milk the Soviet Union for billions in continued assistance and secure the backup he needs to move around the world transporting revolutions, a policy he attempted in Latin America but which blew up in his face.

Now we shall see what happens in Angola. Will the victories of the Marxist faction stick? The work of the Cuban expeditionary force, from all accounts, was not impressive but the victors had an overwhelming supply of arms and equipment. The question now is whether they have the ability to hold their control — quite a different matter from winning a war. And if they do retain control, will the Russians botch the relationship.

November Is A Divided Issue

Now that the Ford primary victories have for all practical purposes terminated the Reagan insurgency, conservatives who backed Ronald Reagan as a challenge to the status quo are deeply divided about the November election. They agree on larger goals, but not on tactics. At present, they seem to fall into three main groupings:

1. A sizable number will support Gerald Ford with varying degrees of enthusiasm. They argue that he is to be preferred to any likely Democrat. They recognize Ford's shortcomings from their point of view. Nothing much will be done about busing, astonishing though busing is in fact and in principle.

Nothing will be done about racial quotas in vast areas of our national life.

Nothing will be done about the social welfare bureaucracy.

2. Interestingly enough, a second group of conservatives argues that 1976 may be the year to support a plausible Democrat such as Henry Jackson or even Hubert Humphrey

The reasoning goes this way. American foreign policy is the critical area now, and things do not change very rapidly in domestic policy anyway. Foreign policy obviously suffers at present from divided government.

3. A third group of conservatives is now mounting a serious "new party" organizational effort and may get on the ballot in all or most of the 50 states. They believe that the Republican Party as presently constituted is a status quo party and the principal impediment to conservative reform, and would be glad to help defeat it. They think that Ford-styled Republicanism has its priorities exactly inverted. ## Docking Easement Request For Dredge Tabled By SJ

St. Joseph city commissioners last night tabled a request from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for a five-year easement to dock the dredge barge along the St. Joseph river just below the bandshell.

The corps' request is for docking privileges from April through June each year while the barge is dredging the harbor.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the corps wants the river front below the bandshell because it will avoid raising and lowering the Blus, somland bridge each time the barge docks if the ship has a berth upstream.

Commissioners Lee Selent and William Gillespie questioned the request and suggested the easement agreement be for just April and May and on a year-to-year basis. Gillespie termed the location a "prime" area for recreation boaters.

The commission voted to have Hepler contact the corps of engineers to work out a new agreement.

Also last night, the commission approved $1,875 be granted to Harold Howard, 1221 Mowhawk lane, for repairs on his home under the city's direct grant - loan subsidy program for home repairs. Hepler noted that over $7,000 in four direct grants has been issued to date. Howard's was the fifth direct grant approved.

Last night's meeting lasted about 20 minutes and was chaired by Commissioner Warren Gast in the absence of Mayor Franklin Smith and Mayor Pro-tem Joseph Hanley.

'Right-On-Red' Taboo At 4 BH Intersections

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted to exempt four intersections from the new "right-turn-on-red" law.

Because of heavy pedestrian traffic, right turns on red are prohibited at these intersections: Brittain avenue and Pipestone street; Broadway and Empire avenue; Empire and Colfax avenues, and Wall and Market streets.

Signs will be erected at the intersections informing motorists that right turns on red lights are prohibited.

The new state law permitting right turns on red lights takes effect tomorrow. Turns on red may be prohibited at certain intersections. Motorists must stop first before turning on red where turns are legal.

The commission voted 6 to 2 to withhold payment of a $15 bill to All Time Pest Control for services at the public works building.

Mayor Charles Joseph, who presented the resolution, said payment should be held up until it was determined who authorized All Time Pest Control to do the work.

Maurice Bishop, leader of a recall drive against Joseph and four city commissioners, is owner of All Time Pest Control. Earlier, Joseph leveled charges in a newsletter stating that Bishop had received $3,115 from the city for pest control services during the past year and a half. Commissioners Edmund Eaman and Arnold Bolla voted against withholding payment of the bill and Charles Yarbrough abstained.

The commission accepted a low bid of $34,025 from General Building Maintenance of Benton Harbor to make improvements at Union and Hall parks. The improvements will include a new shelter area with picnic tables, restrooms, and storage facilities at Union park and general upgrading of both parks.

Five BH Musicians Top Rated

Five members of the Benton Harbor high school band received Division I ratings at the instrumental state Solo and Ensemble festival held in Vicksburg Saturday.

Receiving Division I ratings were Linda Blizer, for a horn solo; Tom Keizer, piano solo; Kim Faulstich, flute solo; Nancy Nettleton, flute solo; and Mary Mummaw, cornet solo.

STATE LICENSE: James B. DeVries, of the John DeVries agency, St. Joseph, has been licensed as a property and liability insurance counselor by Michigan Department of Commerce Insurance division. About 120 people in state have received designation of insurance counselor since law was enacted in March, 1973. License requires passing examination. There are about 25,000 licensed property and liability agents in state. DeVries agency has been doing business in Twin Cities 30 years.

Funds for the improvements will come from the city's federal Community Development block grant and the bid approval carries the stipulation, as required by the federal government, that General Building Maintenance employ minorities in the parks improvement project.

A public hearing was set for April 19 on the city's 1976-1977 tentative $8 million budget.

The commission accepted the resignation of Rev. T.N. Wilkins from the city planning commission. Wilkins said in a letter to the commission that he was resigning because of business reasons.

The commission passed a resolution of sympathy to the family of Howard Wilkins, a retired Benton Harbor policeman with more than 17 years of service. Wilkins died Friday.

Royalton Site Designated Michigan Centennial Farm

By JERRY KRIEGER

A farm that has been owned by three generations of descendants of one of the early forerunners of the wave of German immigrants into Berrien county in the 18th century has been designated a Centennial Farm.

A 15-acre farm owned by William and Theora (Warsco) Nace at 524 East Marquette Woods road, Royalton township, was so designated by the Division of Michigan History. It has been in possession of the same family since William Warsco (now spelled Warscu), grandfather of Mrs. Nace, bought it in 1872.

A portion of the present Nace home was a house on the property already when her grandfather purchased the tract, according to Mrs. Nace. Both she and her father, John Warscu, were born in the home. The Naces, who have owned the property the past 41 years, farm the land, located about 1¼ miles east of US-31 on Marquette Woods road.

William Warscu came to this country with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Warscu, from Stettin, Germany, in 1856. He was nine when his parents bought 80 acres that year at what is the northeast corner of the US-31 and Marquette Woods intersection. Mrs. Nace said family history reports that tract was along what was little more than a trail through the wilderness at the time. The family laboriously cleared the land of woods and brush by hand to farm it.

When it was time for William Warscu to start on his own as a young man, he purchased the 15 acres, now designated as the Centennial Farm, about 1¼ miles from his parents' homes-road. He sometime later purchased an adjoining 15 acres to increase his acreage to 30.

A Centennial Farm certificate has been provided to the Naces by the Division of Michigan History. A large metal Centennial Farm marker will be sent to the owners by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

Since the Centennial Farm program was started in 1948 by the state department, more than 3,000 Michigan farms have been certified as Centennial Farms.

Arrested on a federal warrant charging being a convicted felon in possession of a firearm was William Louis Harris, 26, of 397 Colfax avenue. He was scheduled to be taken to Grand Rapids for arraignment in Federal District court.

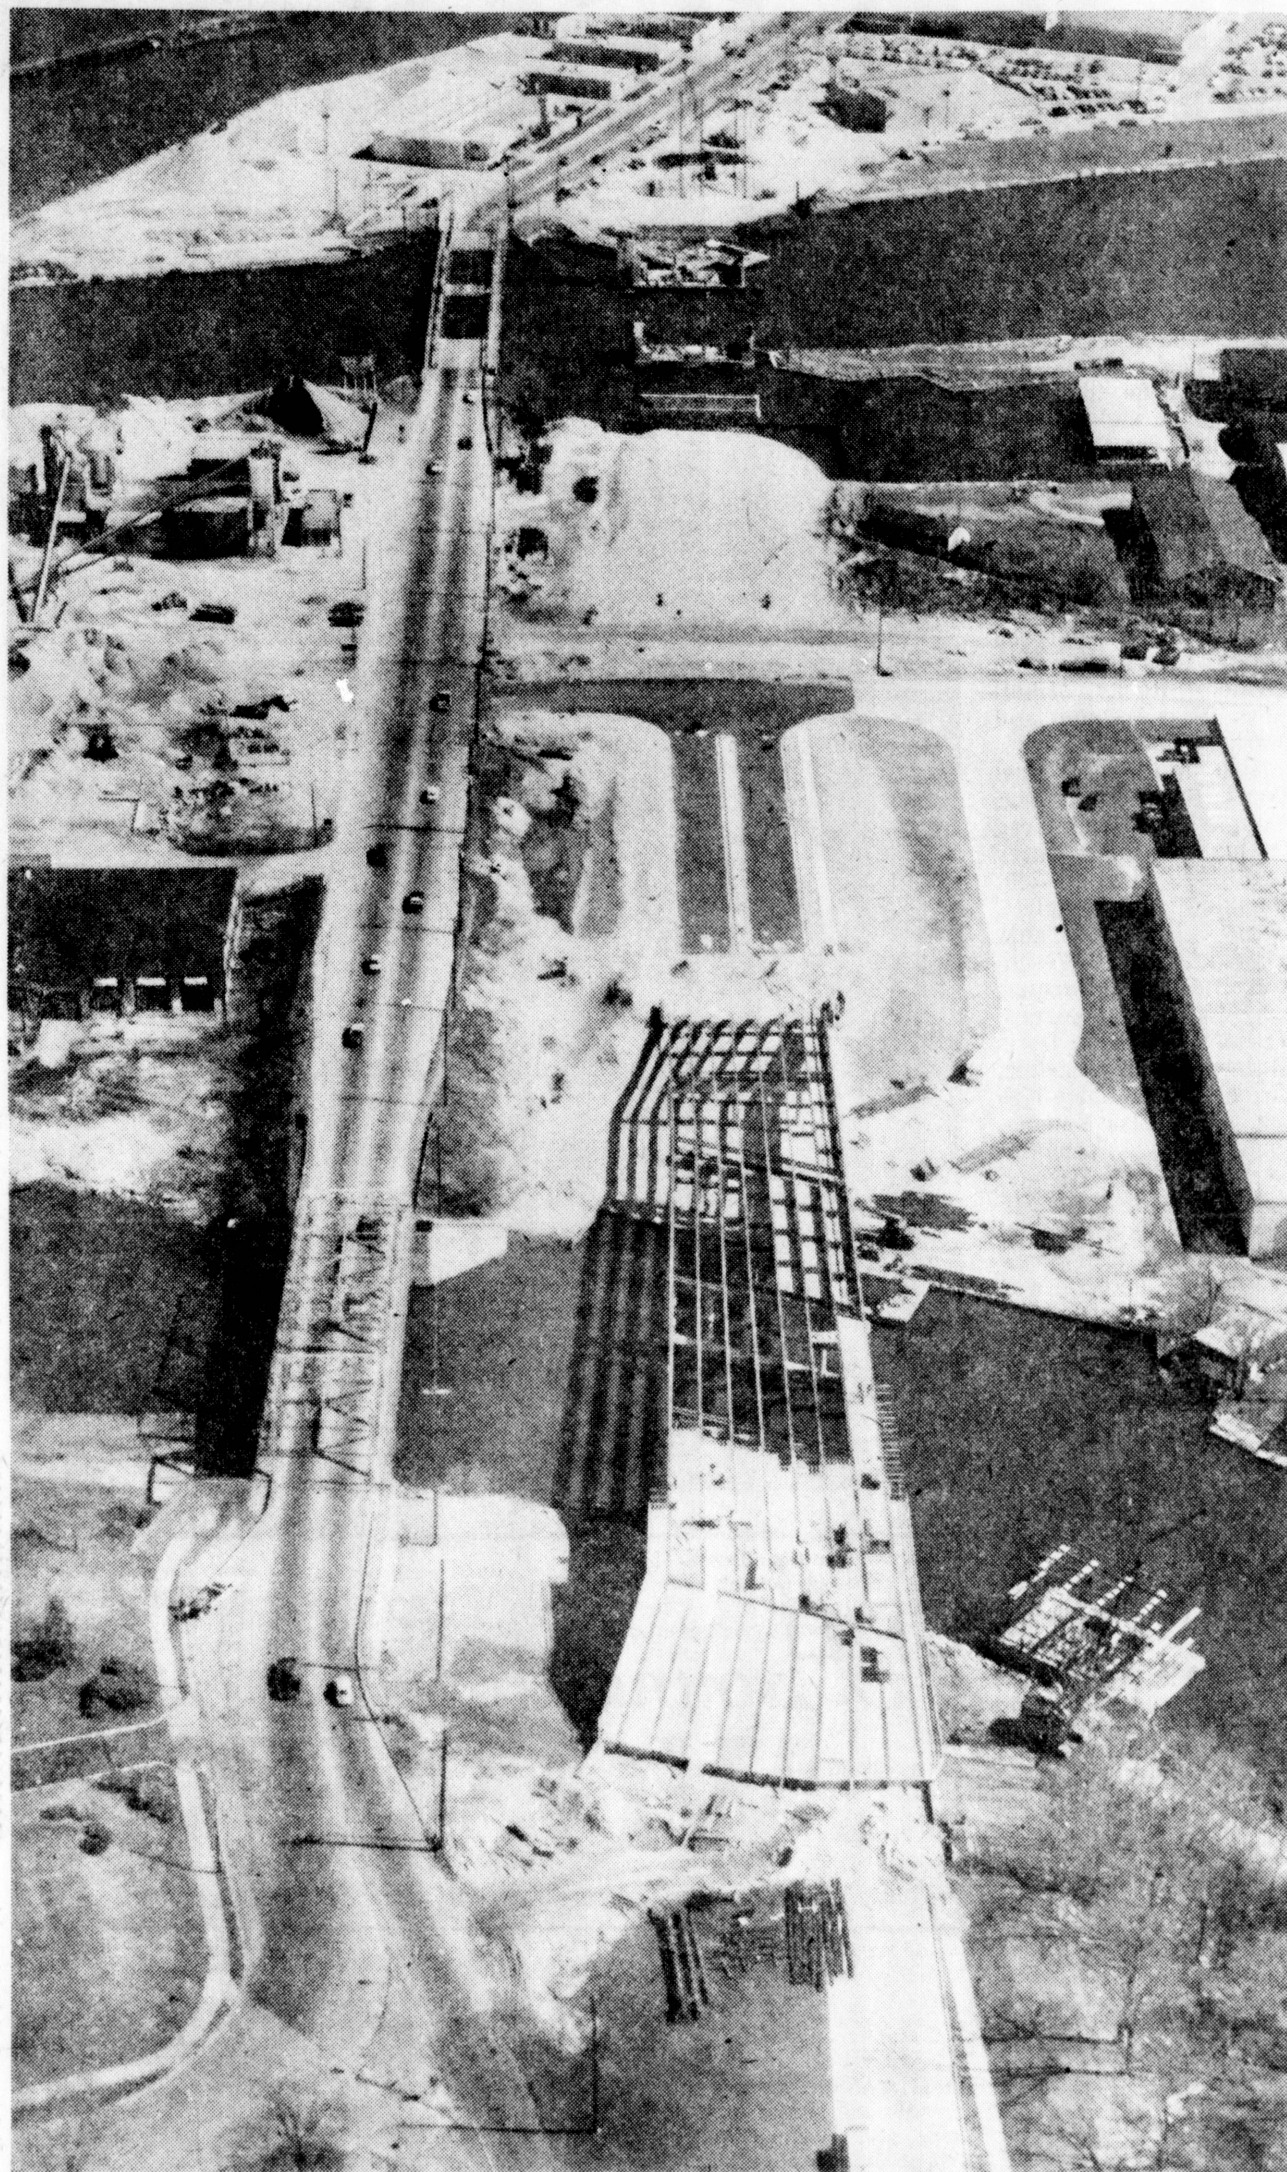

Federal agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were contacted and the warrant issued. The metro unit reported Harris previously had been convicted in Berrien county on a charge of breaking and entering.

Officers confiscated a 16-gauge shotgun and 22 caliber rifle that was reported stolen in Arkansas, according to the metro unit.

year easement to dock the dredge Hains along the St. Joseph river just below the bandshell.

The corps' request is for docking privileges from April through June each year while the Hains is dredging the harbor.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the corps wants the river front below the bandshell because it will avoid raising and lowering the Blossomland bridge each time the Hains docks if the ship has a berth upstream.

Commissioners Lee Selent and William Gillespie questioned the request and suggested the easement agreement be for just April and May and on a year-to-year basis. Gillespie termed the location a "prime" area for recreation boaters.

The commission voted to have Hepler contact the corps of engineers to work out a new agreement.

Also last night, the commission approved $1,975 be granted to Harold Howard, 1221 Mowhawk lane, for repairs on his home under the city's direct grant - loan subsidy program for home repairs. Hepler noted that over $7,000 in four direct grants has been issued to date. Howard's was the fifth direct grant approved.

Last night's meeting lasted about 20 minutes' and was chaired by Commissioner Warren Gast in the absence of Mayor Franklin Smith and Mayor Pro-tem Joseph Hanley.

SJ Student Is Honor Graduate

EAST LANSING — Robert VanArkel Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. VanArkel, 387 East Glenford road, St. Joseph, graduated with honors from Michigan State university here with a bachelor's degree in horticulture.

VanArkel's name was not included in a release from the university announcing the March 13 graduates.

'Right-On-Red' Taboo At 4 BH Intersections

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted to exempt four intersections from the new "right-turn-on-red" law.

Because of heavy pedestrian traffic, right turns on red are prohibited at these intersections: Britain avenue and Pipestone street; Broadway and Empire avenue; Empire and Colfax avenues, and Wall and Market streets.

Signs will be erected at the intersections informing motorists that right turns on red lights are prohibited.

The new state law permitting right turns on red lights takes effect tomorrow. Turns on red may be prohibited at certain intersections. Motorists must stop first before turning on red where turns are legal.

The commission voted 6 to 2 to withhold payment of a $15 bill to All Time Pest Control for services at the public works building.

Mayor Charles Joseph, who presented the resolution, said payment should be held up until it was determined who authorized All Time Pest Control to do the work.

Maurice Bishop, leader of a recall drive against Joseph and four city commissioners, is owner of All Time Pest Control. Earlier, Joseph leveled charges in a newsletter stating that Bishop had received $3,115 from the city for pest control services during the past year and a half. Commissioners Edmund Eaman and Arnold Bolin voted against withholding payment of the bill and Charles Yarbrough abstained.

The commission accepted a low bid of $34,025 from General Building Maintenance of Benton Harbor to make improvements at Union and Hall parks. The improvements will include a new shelter area with picnic tables, restrooms, and storage facilities at Union park and general upgrading of both parks.

Funds for the improvements will come from the city's federal Community Development block grant and the bid approval carries the stipulation, as required by the federal government, that General Building Maintenance employ minorities in the parks improvement project.

A public hearing was set for April 19 on the city's 1976-1977 tentative $6 million budget.

The commission accepted the resignation of Rev. T.N. Wilkins from the city planning commission. Wilkins said in a letter to the commission that he was resigning because of business reasons.

The commission passed a resolution of sympathy to the family of Howard Willming, a retired Benton Harbor policeman with more than 17 years of service. Willming died Friday.

Royalton Site Designated Michigan Centennial Farm

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm and Features Editor

A farm that has been owned by three generations of descendants of one of the early forerunners of the wave of German immigrants into Berrien county in the 19th century has been designated a Centennial Farm.

A 15-acre farm owned by William and Theora (Warsco) Nace at 524 East Marquette Woods road, Royalton township, was so designated by the Division of Michigan History. It has been in possession of the same family since William Warskow (now spelled Warsco), grandfather of Mrs. Nace, bought it in 1872.

A portion of the present Nace home was a house on the property already when her grandfather purchased the tract, according to Mrs. Nace. Both she and her father, John Warsco, were born in the home. The Naces, who have owned the property the past 41 years, farm the land, located about 1¼ miles east of US-31 on Marquette Woods road.

William Warskow came to this country with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Warskow, from Stettin, Germany, in 1856. He was nine when his parents bought 80 acres that year at what is the northeast corner of the US-31 and Marquette Woods intersection. Mrs. Nace said family history reports that tract was along what was little more than a trail through the wilderness at the time. The family laboriously cleared the land of woods and brush by hand to farm it.

When it was time for William Warskow to start on his own as a young man, he purchased the 15 acres, now designated as the Centennial Farm, about 1¼ miles from his parents' homes-stead. He sometime later purchased an adjoining 15 acres to increase his acreage to 30.

A Centennial Farm certificate has been provided to the Naces by the Division of Michigan History. A large metal Centennial Farm marker will be sent to the owners by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

Since the Centennial Farm program was started in 1948 by the state department, more than 3,000 Michigan farms have been certified as Centennial Farms.

Feds Grab BH Man

A Benton Harbor man was arrested on federal charges Monday after Berrien County Metro Crime unit officers said they received information that a man was attempting to sell guns.

Arrested on a federal warrant charging being a convicted felon in possession of a firearm was William Louis Harris, 26, of 397 Colfax avenue. He was scheduled to be taken to Grand Rapids for arraignment in Federal District court.

Federal agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were contacted and the warrant issued. The metro unit reported Harris previously had been convicted in Berrien county on a charge of breaking and entering.

Officers confiscated a 16-gauge shotgun and 22 caliber rifle that was reported stolen in Arkansas, according to the metro unit.

Firemen Say Food On Stove Leads To Blaze

Food left on a stove resulted in a fire at the home of Marsha Robinson, 772 Thresher avenue, Monday shortly before 6 p.m., Benton Harbor firemen said. Firemen extinguished the blaze that damaged parts of a wall, cabinets and curtains in the kitchen area. There were no injuries reported, firemen said.

HOME TOUR: Mrs. James Tomisa stands in formal dining room of her home, which will be one of four included in the ninth annual home tour sponsored by Town and Country club of the Coloma-Watervliet area Sunday, April 25. (Staff photo)

A spacious home overlooking Paw Paw Lake, and a rustic colonial tri-level home will be among homes featured at the ninth annual tour sponsored by the own and Country club of the Coloma-Watervliet area Sunday, April 25.

The tour will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Tickets at $2, may be purchased from any club member or at Baults drug store, Coloma, Watervliet Rexall drug store, or at any of the homes included in the tour. Tickets may also be obtained from Mrs. William Bussener from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., the day of the tour at Washington elementary school, Coloma, where the Coloma Lions club will be sponsoring "Pancake Day" from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Maps and programs will be available at the school and also at the homes. Refreshments will be served at Watervliet high school the day of the tour.

Proceeds from the event will go to the Community hospital in Watervliet, the Coloma Ambulance fund, and to send handicapped children to summer camp.

The home overlooking Paw Paw Lake belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Smith, and the colonial tri-level is owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Tomisa.

Other homes on the tour include those of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Andrus and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durfee.

The Smiths' home on Beechwood Circle in Watervliet combines the old with the new. Overlooking a backyard swimming pool as well as Paw Paw Lake, the house features antiques and collectors items throughout. A fireplace of rustic design in the family room is made of large hand-made brick, also used on the exterior of the home. The fireplace has a four-by-six foot opening and also a built-in grill. The family room also features a "Captain's Quarters" social center with a rare wrought iron fixture.

Matching chandeliers hang in the dining area and foyer. An open staircase leads from the foyer to the upper level. An antique commode set is displayed in the master bedroom, and Mrs. Smith's childhood bedroom set, which has been antiques, occupies the guest bedroom. Each boy's bedroom features a unique decor, and a bathroom is designed with a hilteway laundry area.

The tri-level home of Mr. and Mrs. Tomisa on Tannery drive, Coloma, features a grandfather clock and etageres displaying family treasures in the living room. A painting purchased in Spain is seen in the formal dining room, along with a formal Mediterranean dining set.

Sliding glass doors from the dinette and kitchen area overlook flowers, woods, a stream and ponds with duck and geese.

The lower level features a fireplace with beam mantel and raised hearth in the family room. Also on the lower level is a den and a utility room.

Paintings are featured throughout the home. Bedrooms are on the upper level, and the daughter's bedroom features an unusual decor.

Mrs. Howard Baker is chairman of the planning committee for the tour. She is assisted by Mrs. Robert Culver, co-chairman, and Mrs. Charles Scherer.

Other committees include Mrs. James Spica and Mrs. Danny Mitchell, tickets; Mrs. Robert Hutchinson, Mrs. Charles Abrams, Mrs. Walter Reinhardt Jr. and Mrs. Redmond Sage, posters; Mrs. Tim Fied, Mrs. Greg Blevins, Mrs. Dinn Mastri and Mrs. Victor Pethick, program; Mrs. Webster Durfee and Mrs. Bessener, flowers, and Mrs. Lowell Barrieklow, Mrs. Tom Sten-neck and Mrs. John McCreery, refreshments.

Also, Mrs. Ronald Clark, Mrs. Robert Morlock, Mrs. Eleanor Cooper and Mrs. Raymond Rogel, table decorations, and Mrs. Culver, Mrs. Webster Durfee, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Cooper, advertising.

Say

Vows

Miss Shirley Ann Ross and Lawrence Paul Eva exchanged wedding vows March 26 in the chapel at Peace Temple United Methodist church, Benton Harbor. Dr. Carlos Page performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. John Dahms, 251 Parker, Benton Harbor, and William C. Ross, 908 Park, St. Joseph. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Eva, 233 Forest Beach road, Watervliet.

The bride wore a light brown cotton polyester gown and carried carnations and roses.

Attendants were Mrs. Richard VanErman and Richard A. Eva Jr., brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the church.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will make their home at 233 Forest Beach road, Watervliet.

The bride is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and attended Lake Michigan college and Sourbourne college, France. She is a graduate of Muskegon Community college. Her husband, a graduate of Benton Harbor high school, is employed in the plant stores department at the Donald C. Cook Donald C. Cook Nuclear Plant, Bridgman.

Almost Unbelievable

EAST LANSING — Graduating with the second highest grade point average winter term at Michigan State university is quite a feat.

But achieving that grade point average at the age of 51, while keeping a home and a family of four running smoothly at the same time, borders on the unbelievable. Except in Mary Baron, who did it, and who now has a bachelor's degree in elementary education.

"Organization and discipline, that's all it takes," said Mrs. Baron. "I discovered that I could go to school and be a housewife and mother, too, if I were organized."

"Even so," she laughed, "it still took me eight years to get my degree. Fortunately, I wasn't in a hurry. I wanted to enjoy myself and I did."

Mrs. Baron had taken classes from time to time after finishing high school in 1942, but didn't decide to go back to school seriously until 1967. "Even then," she said, "I looked at it more as a hobby than anything else. I wasn't serious about getting a degree until I realized I was a junior, and could easily earn one."

Mrs. Baron had some help along the way. Her husband, Milton, who is director of Campus Park and Planning Division at MSU, kept encouraging her, as did her two children, Richard, 20, a sophomore at MSU, and Amy, 15, a sophomore in high school.

"Having your family support you is absolutely necessary if you're going to try to go back to school," she said.

Mrs. Baron encourages everyone to give going back to school a try. "People who fear competition from younger people are fooling themselves," she said. "The fact that you're older doesn't mean you've stopped using your brain. In fact, I discovered older students have more motivation than some young ones I encountered. Older students are there because they want to be."

Indoor Plant Begins With Soup

Easy indoor gardening begins with soup! This theory is not as farfetched as it sounds.

Prepare Mexican Chili Beef Soup, garnish with avocado and save the seed. Then follow the instructions for growing your own avocado plant.

MEXICAN CHILI BEEF SOUP

One can (cerves and one-fourth ounces) chili beef soup

One soup can water
Two strips bacon, cooked and crumbled
Sliced avocado

In saucepan, gradually blend soup and water. Add bacon. Heat, stir occasionally. Garnish with avocado. Makes about two and one-half cups, two servings.

To grow an avocado plant, follow these instructions.

Rinse the seed to remove pulp.

Trim off the pointed end of the seed.

Poke three toothpicks around the middle of the seed, like a belt, and suspend the seed, broad end down, in a glass of water (the water should reach half-way up on the seed).

Place glass in a warm location, but out of direct sunlight. Additional water should be added as it evaporates.

The seed will crack after two to six weeks and a main stem will rise from the top, a network of roots from below.

When the main stem is six inches high, prune it to half the size.

Pot the seed when roots are thick and leaves appear on the stem. Place in a terra cotta pot, ten and one-half inches in diameter, with pebbles on the bottom and rich humus soil in top.

Place pot where it will get several hours of sunlight. Water to keep soil evenly moist.

Symphony Salutes Bicentennial

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Twin Cities Symphony proved Sunday that America can be proud of its musical heritage in a concert at St. Joseph high school.

The concert was a salute to the Bicentennial and featured works by American composers—all of whom are still living.

The concert was an unusual blend of diverse works and was at times sensitive and at times smashing!

The afternoon began with the "Star Spangled Banner" and there is something very moving to hear the national anthem played by a symphony orchestra.

It was a concert in which it is difficult to single out one work as the best because they were all so impressive.

Under the leadership of Robert Vodnoy, conductor and music director, the symphony has reached a stature that the public no longer has to leave the area to hear fine music.

The musicians were extremely effective in Leonard Bernstein's Overture to "West Side Story" performing with a fierce delineation of spirit in the striking score.

The audience brought Barry Ross, guest violinist, back repeatedly with its applause for his performance of Samuel Barber's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra."

His violin was at times like a singing voice and its sweetness was tempered by the evenness of the symphony. The second movement was especially beautiful with a sensitive melody and rich sounding harmonies. Dr. Ross' performance was delicate and refined as he displayed his superb skill.

In Aaron Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man," the horns and percussion were featured, at first animated and then more song-like showing their important roles in the orchestra.

Dr. Charles J. Hall, a member of the music faculty at Andrews university, was present for the premiere of his revised version of his "Reclatative for Orchestra," which was warmly received by the audience. The original version of the work was premiered in Houston, Tex., in 1971. It is a more modern work with the French horn was extensively featured.

Vodnoy promised the audience "fireworks" in Walter Piston's Suite from "The Incredible Flutist," and the performance was indeed full of surprises.

The symphony was brilliant as it moved through the sleazy hour in the marketplace with vendors and customers and then a tango. As the circus arrived, suddenly there was a blowing of a loud whistle and shouting. Charlotte Wuepper was featured in the solo of the flutist and gave an exquisite performance. The orchestra then moved on to a minuet, a waltz, the striking of the clock, a dance and the explosive polka finale.

Sunday's concert not only proved the richness and diversity of American music, but also of the Twin Cities Symphony under Vodnoy's direction.

Membership Drive Art Winners Named

Jim Bettison, a Benton Harbor high school student, is the winner of the art contest sponsored by Twin Cities Symphony in conjunction with its current membership drive.

Bettison was among Benton Harbor high school students who painted windows at Fairplain Plaza. He painted the window at Rohring's. As first place winner he will receive a $50 cash award.

Second prize was also won by Benton Harbor high school students for the window they painted at Farmer and Merchants bank at Fairplain Plaza. Receiving gift certificates from The Hennes Company, St. Joseph, were Dorothy Logan, Earl Mines, Joyce Shurn and Harry Williams.

Third prize was won by Lake Michigan Catholic high school students Jeanne Brown and Elizabeth Seewerdt for the window they painted at the Sherwin Williams company, St. Joseph. They received gift certificates from The Recordation, St. Joseph.

Fourth place winners are St. Joseph high school students Mary Barnhart, Kay Czlar and Jill Ziebart for the window they painted at Brown's Locksmith, St. Joseph. They were awarded gift certificates from the Hall of Cards and Books, Fairplain Plaza.

Receiving honorable mention were Lakeshore high school students Tim Piner, Julie Starkus and Linda Ziemke for the window they painted at the Purple Possum at Stevensville Village Square and Vanessa Hadady for the window she painted at The Country Shop, Stevensville Village Square.

Judges were David Nelson, art teacher in the St. Joseph public schools; Foster Willey, area artist, and Michelle Spencer, art teacher at the St. Joseph Art Center.

All prizes were awarded during the March 28 concert of the Twin Cities Symphony.

The membership drive for the 1976-77 season is currently underway and season tickets for the nine concerts may be secured by contacting the Symphony office, 520 Pleasant street, St. Joseph.

For the first time, a modified form of reserved seating will be available with tickets in the central portion of the auditorium priced at $13 for adults, $7.50 for students and senior citizens and $30 for families. Peripheral and rear seat will be $10 for adults, $5 for students and senior citizens and $25 for families.

All concerts will be performed in St. Joseph high school except for the Christmas concert which will be at Lakeshore high school.

As an incentive to purchasing tickets early, the first concert of the 1976-77 season will be held Sunday, April 18, this year at 4:30 p.m. at St. Joseph high school.

Free Advice

Dear Ann Landers: You have

mentioned Planned Parenthood in your column from time to time for women, who are plagued by unwanted pregnancies. I for one, need to know which contraceptive would be best for me. I cannot afford to go to a doctor and pay the price of a visit for information I know is available free. But where do I go?

Will you please tell women like me how we can locate the nearest free clinic? It would be a very useful service. Thank you. — One Who Wants A Child By Choice, Not Chance

Dear One: In the past when I have recommended Planned Parenthood I have said, "Look in your phone book." At the risk of sounding like a broken record, I repeat the advice. Look in the phone book. Seven in ten persons live in areas served by a Planned Parenthood agency. The three in ten who do not should phone the Planned Parenthood agency in the nearest large city and ask for guidance.

In 1854, Eliza Graves Otis demonstrated his safety device, in New York to skeptics who worried about elevators falling. Mr. Otis stepped into the eleva-

Today, elevators are the safest means of transportation known to man. If the safety device should fail (a most uncommon occurrence) a governor goes to work and releases safety clamps against the guide rails. This brings the car to a smooth, gliding stop. So relax, everybody. — P.T.C. Of N.Y.

Popular Milk Products

Two dairy products that have been shelf-stallers for most of the year are becoming more popular as year round favorites, according to Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Agent at Kalamazoo.

The products are canned evaporated milk and sweetened condensed milk.

Evaporated milk, often used in cooked candies, is actually a very versatile product that can be a convenience throughout the year. This canned milk is made with fresh, fluid whole milk which is first pasteurized and then sent through a vacuum process where over half of the water content is removed. The concentrated milk is then homogenized, vitamin D is added and finally the milk is sealed in cans and sterilized by heat.

Another similar product available on the market is evaporated, skimmed milk, which has less milk fat and therefore fewer calories. Though similar to regular evaporated milk, it is not as rich tasting.

Evaporated milk may be used undiluted, partially diluted or reconstituted completely. Basically this form of milk is whole milk at double strength so if one part water is added in one part evaporated milk, it will be almost whole milk.

Some consumers like to use a combination of dry milk and reconstituted evaporated milk in place of fluid whole milk. This saves on the milk bill while keeping tastes similar. Used at full strength, evaporated milk lends extra body and creaminess to sauces and desserts.

Evaporated milk may be substituted in recipes calling for buttermilk, sour milk or sour cream. To substitute, follow these simple instructions:

To substitute in place of buttermilk, add a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice to the milk before using. Add one tablespoon of vinegar to one cup of reconstituted evaporated milk (one-half cup water, one-half cup evaporated milk) and you have instant sour milk. Add one tablespoon vinegar to one cup evaporated milk straight from the can to make sour cream for use as dips or over baked potatoes.

When stored properly, unopened cans of evaporated milk keep several months. Store unopened cans of evaporated milk in a cool place, preferably not above 70 degrees nor below freezing. Before opening the can, clean the top with a damp cloth. Once opened, the milk should be stored in the original container. Keep the top covered and use it in four or five days. Don't freeze this milk. Freezing causes separation and loss of the smooth texture.

Evaporated milk may be used in place of whipping cream. If chilled first, it will make a delicious whipped cream. To stabilize the foam, add one teaspoon of lemon juice per can before or during the whipping.

Sweetened condensed milk has become increasingly popular too for such things as quick, no-cook candies and pies or simple cookie recipes. Though cost of the ingredients in some of these recipes is usually higher than most conventional recipes, so is the taste.

Don't get confused when buying and using sweetened condensed milk and evaporated milk. They're not the same product at all and cannot be substituted for each other.

Sweetened condensed milk has had sugar added before the evaporation process. The end product is yellowish in color and thicker and sweeter than evaporated milk.

Sweetened condensed milk has a caramel-like flavor and appearance. Its 40 to 45 per cent sugar content acts as a preservative.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Sometime in the spring my 4-year-old daughter will have a hernia operation. I recall your attitudes about small surgery. Does this hold true for a hernia operation?

Mrs. G.A.W., Kan.

Dear Mrs. W.: Children who are properly prepared before they go to the hospital for any kind of surgery have a totally different experience than the child who is not prepared.

When a child is armed with the truth and one of its parents can spend the night at the hospital, a nightmarish situation can be converted into a wonderful growth experience of childhood.

Children who, without explanation, are separated from their family and their own secure room, understandably experience a feeling of abandonment.

Psychologists and psychiatrists agree that even a single experience may have a permanent effect on the sensitive mind of a child.

When children are told the purpose of an operation, the reason for anesthesia, and all of the details that they will experience, the emotional aftermath is markedly reduced.

Hospital administrators have learned over the years that when mothers stay overnight with their children, the need for nursing care is reduced by more than 75 per cent. The added security that a child has in the presence of a parent supports him even during painful moments.

To help parents prepare their children for any kind of surgery, I have supervised the writing of two storybooks for the children. They were written initially for the psychological preparation of children for tonsillectomy. The same rules apply for operations for hernias, eye surgery and almost all other types of elective surgery. The variations that exist can be filled in by the ingenuity of the parent.

Going to the Hospital (Random House) is a pop-up storybook with life-like mechanical illustrations that visualize for the child what he can expect at the hospital. Bettina Clark is the author.

A Visit to the Hospital (Grosset and Dunlap) was written by Francine Chase and serves to offer support to the child prior to surgery. Both books have been highly recommended by psychologists, educators and child development groups.

Children armed with the truth can grasp the impact of surgery without severe emotional trauma.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye-care booklet available called, "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Eye booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. ## 'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Spelling, Writing Also Bad!

Dear Ann Landers: What is happening to education in this country? Especially the letter "C." Has it dropped out of the alphabet?

I hear people everywhere say, "I wanna do this" and "I'm gonna do that." They can count to "twenty" but have "plenny" of trouble getting the news straight if they are "innersted" in "correct pronunciation. Then there are those who run two words together and kill the ending of the last word. For example, "Don'tcha wanna come over?" Or "Why can'tcha go to the movies tonight?"

When the teachers in Chicago were picketing I heard a picketer tell a TV reporter, "I'm livin' on da near nort side now." The man next to her (also a teacher) asked, "Do ya like it dere?" A third teacher in the picket line said she had just returned from Ireland. "Where in Ireland did you go?" she was asked. "Edinburgh," was the reply.

Is it any wonder Johnny can't read and Mary graduates after twelve years of school with an eighth-grade education? I am — Boggled.

Dear Bog: If what you hear makes you sick, you should see what I get in the way of spelling and penmanship from high school students.

I am deeply concerned about the deterioration of basic education in this country. The sooner we get back to the three "R's" the better.

mentioned Planned Parenthood in your column from time to time for women who are plagued by unwanted pregnancies. I for one, need to know which contraceptive would be best for me. I cannot afford to go to a doctor and pay the price of a visit for information I know is available free. But where do I go?

Will you please tell women like me how we can locate the nearest free clinic? It would be a very useful service. Thank you. — One Who Wants A Child By Choice, Not Chance

Dear One: In the past when I have recommended Planned Parenthood I have said, "Look in your phone book." At the risk of sounding like a broken record, I repeat the advice. Look in the phone book. Seven in ten persons live in areas served by a Planned Parenthood agency. The three in ten who do not should phone the Planned Parenthood agency in the nearest large city and ask for guidance.

The late Philip Hal Sims was a giant in every way. He stood six foot three and weighed around 300 pounds that didn't include much fat. He was unquestionably the greatest auction bridge player and no slouch at the game of contract.

Today's hand was misplayed by Oswald Jacoby (then a very young player). Sims, who was watching, said "You really chucked that one."

Jacoby won the diamond lead in dummy, played the king of trumps and was down one when East showed out on the second lead of the suit.

Today, every expert knows the standard safety play with this combination. You lead a heart to your ace at trick two and then lead back toward dummy. If West plays a low heart you stick in dummy's nine. This will lose a trick to a doubleton queen, but that will be all you lose. Against the actual holding of four to the queen-10 in the West hand you also lose one trick but not two.

Suppose East held four to the queen-10. West would show out. You would rise with dummy's king and lead a third trump toward your jack.

Suppose the trumps broke 5-0. You would have to pay off.

Ask the Jacobys

A North Carolina reader wants to know how to score seven diamonds redoubled and made with an overtrick. It seems the defenders revoked and made just one trick.

The answer is that the revoke penalty only applies to tricks taken at the revoking trick or later and under no circumstances will it cost the revoking side more than one trick if it only takes one trick.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Ford Strike Ends At Axle Plant

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Local 228 have "a settlement with some teeth in it" and Ford Motor Company's axle plant is back in business today after a five-day strike.

The strike — over working conditions — had threatened to close Ford assembly plants across the country because of a shortage of vital parts.

The settlement, ending a walkout that began last Wednesday, was highlighted by commitments to hire more cleanup and maintenance employees.

Ford has promised to hire 80 employees, including 40 workers who will be assigned to production and maintenance cleaning, according to Local 228 President Bill Oshinski.

Officials for Local 228 — which represents the plant's 6,100 union members — said the vote was 877-396 with two void ballots.

"It sets down some basic understandings on cleanup and repairs," said Don Forchione, administrative assistant to UAW Vice President Ken Bannon.

Forchione said the dispute centered on worker complaints about oily floors, fumes, exposed wiring, unsafe rolling stock, dangerous steel-handling practices and poor housekeeping.

Oshinski said bad wiring would be repaired and protective devices around machinery renovated.

PATRICIA HEARST

State Trial 'Unlikely'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A member of Patricia Hearst's defense team says he would be surprised if the newspaper heiress ever goes on trial on state charges.

Miss Hearst, convicted of bank robbery after trial in a federal court in San Francisco, was arraigned under tight security Monday in a state court on 11 felony charges of kidnapping, assault and robbery. She was calm and expressionless as she stood before Superior Court Judge Jack E. Goertzen to hear the charges read.

The charges Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris face stem from a May 1974 incident in which she shot up an Inglenood sporting goods store to cover an escape by the Harris after an alleged shoplifting attempt. Two kidnappings and a car theft followed.

Miss Hearst was ordered to return to Los Angeles April 14 to enter pleas to the state charges. That is two days after she is to be sentenced on the bank robbery conviction.

"I can't imagine her being tried anywhere in the world," said Al Johnson, one of her attorneys.

Graduated Personal Income Tax Introduced In House

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A resolution calling for a graduated personal income tax in Michigan has been introduced in the state House.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said Monday his proposal would establish a tax ranging from 3 per cent for low-income persons to 10 per cent for higher incomes.

The current rate is 4.6 per cent. State voters twice have rejected ballot proposals to authorize a graduated income tax, and should the legislature approve Montgomery's resolution, it also would be placed before the voters.

The resolution has been referred to the House Committee on Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights. It would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber to go on the ballot.

"It would relate directly to the ability to pay — we would take the burden off the low-income," Montgomery said.

"We've made the Michigan income tax as progressive as it can be without a graduated tax — with this graduated tax it would be a little more progressive."

Montgomery said the tax, which would take effect next year, is designed to produce the same amount of money as the current levy.

Montgomery said more than half the people in Michigan would pay less under his proposal, however.

He released figures that showed a single worker paying less until he or she passed the $16,000-a-year figure in taxable income. Then they'd pay more. For a married couple, the break-even point comes at just over $30,000 in taxable — not gross — income.

For example, a single person with a taxable income of $12,000 after exemptions would pay $489 under the Montgomery plan, and pays $552 now. But a single person with a taxable income of $50,000 would pay $3,850 and now only pays $2,300.

A married couple at the $12,000 taxable income level would drop from $552 in taxes now to $400. At $50,000, they would pay $2,800 instead of the $2,300.

is for brisk!

State Health Code Update Ready

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A 600-page proposal for a state Public Health Code to streamline and update Michigan health laws will be submitted to the governor and the legislature within a month.

A 22-member panel which includes 10 legislators ironed out last-minute technicalities in the report Monday to complete some 16 months of work.

Proposals include major changes in licensing laws to require regular relicensing of health professionals, and creating a list of basic medical services available to every Michigan citizen.

If approved by the legislature, the panel's many proposals would have "a gradual rather than an acute effect" on public health in the state, said Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, who headed the legislative group on the panel.

Kehres said the major problem impeding effective health care in Michigan is governmental overlap in providing those services.

"What this report intends to do is be a catalyst to bring all these units together," he said, "and from that we hope more time can be put into delivery of health care services."

If implemented, the panel's recommendations may not save anyone any money, though, he said.

"Everybody out there feels the need to upgrade health care, but that tends to do something to costs," he said.

Among the major recommendations from the Public Health Code Revision Project are:

—Relicensing laws to require relicensing of medical professionals every four years with proof of continued competency.

—Allowing unlicensed people with proper training to do things like give immunization shots when an epidemic threatens, take blood pressures and do vision and hearing tests under the supervision of a licensed physician.

—Changing penalties for medical facilities which violate public health laws. Daily fines of $1,000 would force compliance, code writers say, rather than forcing the Public Health Department to close the facility to get results.

—Setting down what minimum medical services are available to everyone in Michigan, along with a central information source to tell people where to get the help they need.

Ford Strike Ends At Axle Plant

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Local 228 have "a settlement with some teeth in it" and Ford Motor Company's axle plant is back in business today after a five-day strike.

The strike — over working conditions — had threatened to close Ford assembly plants across the country because of a shortage of vital parts.

The settlement, ending a walkout that began last Wednesday, was highlighted by commitments to hire more cleanup and maintenance employees.

Ford has promised to hire 80 employees, including 40 workers who will be assigned to production and maintenance cleaning, according to Local 228 President Bill Oshinski.

Officials for Local 228 — which represents the plant's 6,100 union members — said the vote was 877-396 with two void ballots.

"It sets down some basic understandings on cleanup and repairs," said Don Forchione, administrative assistant to UAW Vice President Ken Bannon.

Forchione said the dispute centered on worker complaints about oily floors, fumes, exposed wiring, unsafe rolling stock, dangerous steel-handling practices and poor housekeeping.

Oshinski said bad wiring would be repaired and protective devices around machinery renovated.

PATRICIA HEARST

State Trial 'Unlikely'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A member of Patricia Hearst's defense team says he would be surprised if the newspaper heiress ever goes on trial on state charges.

Miss Hearst, convicted of bank robbery after trial in a federal court in San Francisco, was arraigned under tight security Monday in a state court on 11 felony charges of kidnapping, assault and robbery. She was calm and expressionless as she stood before Superior Court Judge Jack E. Goertzen to hear the charges read.

The charges Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris face stem from a May 1974 incident in which she shot up an Inglewood sporting goods store to cover an escape by the Harrises after an alleged shoplifting attempt. Two kidnappings and a car theft followed.

Miss Hearst was ordered to return to Los Angeles April 14 to enter pleas to the state charges. That is two days after she is to be sentenced on the bank robbery conviction.

"I can't imagine her being tried anywhere in the world," said Al Johnson, one of her attorneys.

Graduated Personal Income Tax Introduced In House

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A resolution calling for a graduated personal income tax in Michigan has been introduced in the state House.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said Monday his proposal would establish a tax ranging from 3 per cent for low-income persons to 10 per cent for higher incomes.

The current rate is 4.6 per cent. State voters twice have rejected ballot proposals to authorize a graduated income tax, and should the legislature approve Montgomery's resolution, it also would be placed before the voters.

The resolution has been referred to the House Committee on Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights. It would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber to go on the ballot.

"It would relate directly to the ability to pay — we would take the burden off the low-income," Montgomery said. "We've made the Michigan income tax as progressive as it can be without a graduated tax — with this graduated tax it would be a little more progressive."

Montgomery said the tax, which would take effect next year, is designed to produce the same amount of money as the current levy.

Montgomery said more than half the people in Michigan would pay less under his proposal, however.

He released figures that showed a single worker paying less until he or she passed the $16,000-a-year figure in taxable income. Then they'd pay more. For a married couple, the break-even point comes at just over $30,000 in taxable — not gross — income.

For example, a single person with a taxable income of $12,000 after exemptions would pay $480 under the Montgomery plan, and pays $552 now. But a single person with a taxable income of $50,000 would pay $3,850 and now only pays $2,300.

A married couple at the $12,000 taxable income level would drop from $552 in taxes now to $400. At $50,000, they would pay $2,800 instead of the $2,300.

Death Penalty Will Be Argued

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once more the Supreme Court hears arguments on the question of whether the death penalty is such cruel and unusual punishment that it should be banned.

Is the death penalty an "insensate lottery" as lawyers for convicted men claim? Or is it "a means of self-defense for the members of society" who have a right to be protected, as one state claims?

The lives of 468 people on death rows in 30 states depend on the answers based on arguments heard by the court today and Wednesday.

It has been nearly four years since the Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that the penalty, as then applied, was unconstitutional.

All nine justices wrote separate opinions in that 1972 case of William Henry Furman

v. Georgia. Most of them objected to the fact that judges and juries had wide discretion in deciding who should live and who should die. This led to unconstitutional arbitrariness, many of the justices ruled.

Since then 34 states have passed new laws designed to meet the objections and death row cells are filling anew. The cases being heard by the court represent a cross-section of the approaches legislatures have taken to the capital punishment question.

Another capital punishment case was argued last April before the court but the justices never decided that issue.

Lawyers for the six men appealing their death sentences claim not much has changed since the court's ruling in the Furman case.

"Florida's non-mandatory death penalty statute permits the same discretionary sentencing system condemned by Furman v. Georgia," said lawyers for Charles William Proffitt, whose case is before the court.

Lawyers for Troy L. Gregg, sentenced to die for a double murder and armed robbery, said the Georgia law involves "a series of uncontrolled discretionary judgments that operate to spare the lives of some defendants while others in similar circumstances are sentenced to die."

In such a system, Gregg's lawyers say, "the penalty of death is cruel and unusual punishment because ... it will inevitably fall arbitrarily upon the isolated defendant, isolated in the sense that he failed to arouse the conscience of one of many participants in the criminal justice process who have explicit or disguised power to save his life."

The State of Georgia answers that the argument "is nothing more than a demand that we revert to a system of mandatory penalties fixed for narrowly categorized crimes so that regardless of mitigating circumstances or the personal history of the defendant, the death penalty would be automatic once guilt was determined."

Edison Awaits $178 Million Ruling

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Public Service Commission is expected to show its colors today when it decides whether to grant the Detroit Edison Co. a $178 million rate increase, the largest in Michigan's history.

The 18.5 per cent increase would boost monthly electric bills an average $3.50 for Edison's 1.8 million residential customers. Bills for commercial and industrial customers could increase even more.

Today's vote will be the first major rate decision since Daniel Denbow took over the chairmanship of the three-man commission last fall. He succeeded William Rosenberg, whom critics charged allowed utilities to collect rates that were too high.

Last month, the PSC unanimously rejected Edison's bid for $70.8 million in immediate interim relief, saying the utility failed to show it would suffer "irreparable harm" without an increase.

A PSC law judge has recommended Edison receive a $88.3 million or 9.3 per cent rate increase. Both he and the company say part of the increase should reflect expected future costs and revenues, rather than being based solely on historical trends as were past increases.

Requests also were made by interveners in the case that Edison be ordered to institute time-of-day pricing, which would charge industrial users more per unit of electricity during daylight hours.

Already Edison Chairman William Meese has charged the PSC with playing "perilous games" with Edison's customers, who live mainly in the Detroit area, Michigan's Thumb and its southeast region.

Meese said deferring rate hikes now will mean ever-increasing rates later as the company's financial picture darkens, along with possibly the homes and businesses of its customers.

Edison officials say they need the full increase to help them resume building new generating plants. Without the new construction, Michigan unemployment rates could rise to 17 per cent, they contend.

The massive rate request, filed almost a year ago, was one of the most hotly-contested in history. Testimony took several weeks and filled 5,087 pages. Fifty-four persons or local governments intervened, including Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who said Edison rates already are too high and should be cut by $84.1 million.

The United Auto Workers gave the PSC what vice president Doug Fraser called "tens of thousands" of signatures asking that rates be kept down.

Bobby Crim Will Run Again

By MARY STEVENSON

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — House Speaker Bobby Crim said Monday he will seek another House term — despite the fact that it may not be as financially advantageous as taking a job in private industry.

Crim, 44, was elected from the 82nd District in 1964, 1972 and 1974. He said at a Lansing news conference that the decision to run again was several months in the making and that the financial pros of leaving politics and entering private industry were tempting.

"But I've never made any bones about it. I prefer to be in government," he added.

Crim has been considered a possible aspirant for the governor's job. But he said the question of the 1978 governor's race "is a long way down the road." He said it had nothing to do with his decision to run again for the House.

As speaker, he runs the 66-member Democratic majority of the 110-member House.

If re-elected, he said, he will seek a second term as speaker, a post that he said no longer gives a person the power to dictate how lawmakers should vote.

"The time is long past when leadership can dictate votes. My caucus is much more sophisticated than it was 10 years ago. You don't walk in and say, 'Today we're going to vote this way.' You say, 'I think this is a good way for us to go,' and then stand back and wait for the planning to begin. It's better this way. Questions get a full hearing," he said.

Crim said one thing that helped him decide to run again was Michigan's financial situation.

"I view us now as really not having a fiscal and budgetary policy that's stable in this state," he said. "We haven't been able to get to the disease. We just treated the symptoms."

Crim said the state has to get away from its "heavy reliance on the property tax," which he called "the most inequitable tax we have."

He also said that the distribution of educational funds "has to be changed. We are still operating on the basis of chance of where a child was born as to the kind of education he may get."

Crim suggested an economic contingency fund, similar to a proposal already before the House, to help stabilize the state's economy.

Under Crim's suggestion, the state would put money into a fund in good years to use in bad years to create jobs. A portion of the fund could be used in good years, he said, to support bond issues.

Crim said a proposal by Gov. William Milliken to help get $35 million extra for financially troubled Detroit raises two questions: where the money will come from in a tight fiscal year, and whether the program will get legislative support.

Crim is a U.S. Navy veteran. He and his wife, Lila, have three sons.

Retirement Prediction

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court will rule unanimously that employers can set mandatory retirement ages as low as 40, a Michigan State University professor predicts. Harold J. Spaeth, whose computer prediction record for the court is near perfect, said recently the nine justices will not uphold a claim of age discrimination in the suit, which centers around a mandatory retirement rule for Massachusetts state police. The Massachusetts state law requires state police to retire at age 50 or after 20 years of service, whichever comes last. A federal district court ordered an officer who challenged the law reinstated to his duties. That decision was appealed to the Supreme Court, where a decision is pending. A decision declaring the mandatory retirement law unconstitutional would prompt repercussions in other government programs with mandatory retirement provisions on the state and federal levels. Spaeth said.

What a difference a mill makes!

One thousandth of a U.S. dollar; that's a mill. You'd need 1,490 of them to buy a gallon of milk tomorrow morning.

But one mill is the real issue next Monday when you vote "yes" or "no" on the proposed city of St. Joseph charter change. The proposition you will see on the ballot when you enter the voting booth reads like this:

Shall Section 13, Chapter IX of the Charter of the City of St. Joseph be amended to increase the general tax limit upon real and personal property in the City from one and one-quarter percent (12.5 mills), exclusive of any library tax, of assessed value to two percent (20 mills), including any library tax, of assessed value in any one year?

YOUR YES VOTE WILL INCREASE THE GENERAL TAX LIMIT TO 20 MILLS — BUT NOT THE TAX.

Your City Commission is on record and honor-bound to limit the actual tax raise this year to no more than one mill. But to do this, the charter must be changed. The new limit, then, is sought only as possible future protection for many years to come.

YOUR PERSONAL TAX BILL WILL BE AFFECTED APPROXIMATELY AS FOLLOWS:

Your tax will go up only $10.00 if your home's equalized valuation is $10,000.00

Your tax will go up only $20.00 if your home's equalized valuation is $20,000.00

Your tax will go up only $30.00 if your home's equalized valuation is $30,000.00

That's the difference a mill makes — to you. That's the very small price you will have to pay to keep our city in order.

So, to keep St. Joe a good place to live,

Edison Awaits $178 Million Ruling

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Public Service Commission is expected to show its colors today when it decides whether to grant the Detroit Edison Co. a $178 million rate increase, the largest in Michigan's history.

The 18.5 per cent increase would boost monthly electric bills an average $3.50 for Edison's 1.6 million residential customers. Bills for commercial and industrial customers could increase even more.

Today's vote will be the first major rate decision since Daniel Demlow took over the chairmanship of the three-man commission last fall. He succeeded William Rosenberg, whom critics charged allowed utilities to collect rates that were too high.

Last month, the PSC unanimously rejected Edison's bid for $70.8 million in immediate interim relief, saying the utility failed to show it would suffer "irreparable harm" without an increase.

A PSC law judge has recommended Edison receive a $88.3 million or 9.3 per cent rate increase. Both he and the company say part of the increase should reflect expected future costs and revenues, rather than being based solely on historical trends as were past increases.

Requests also were made by interveners in the case that Edison be ordered to institute time-of-day pricing, which would charge industrial users more per unit of electricity during daylight hours.

Already Edison Chairman William Meese has charged the PSC with playing "perilous games" with Edison's customers, who live mainly in the Detroit area, Michigan's Thumb and its southeast region.

Meese said deferring rate hikes now will mean ever-increasing rates later as the company's financial picture darkens, along with possibly the homes and businesses of its customers.

Edison officials say they need the full increase to help them resume building new generating plants. Without the new construction, Michigan unemployment rates could rise to 17 per cent, they contend.

The massive rate request, filed almost a year ago, was one of the most hotly-contested in history.

Testimony took several weeks and filled 6,087 pages. Fifty-four persons or local governments intervened, including Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who said Edison rates already are too high and should be cut by $84.1 million.

Debate Takes On A 'Get Carter' Flavor

NEW YORK (AP) — For almost an hour the candidates took turns suggesting remedies for the financial plight of the big cities — things like more federal aid for education, help with welfare costs, some kind of national health insurance.

Before they finished Monday night, the debate that began as a polite exchange had taken on something of a "get Carter" flavor.

The target was Jimmy Carter, winner of five of six Democratic presidential primaries. He and Sens. Henry Jackson of Washington and Frank Church of Idaho, Arizona

Rep. Morris Udall and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris talked urban troubles for 90 minutes in a forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

All but Church, who entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination only recently, are vying with Carter for a share of the 274 delegate votes at stake in next Tuesday's primary election in New York.

—Carter said in Roanoke, Va., before heading for New York City that he regretted having said last week that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, at 64, is too old to be president. Humphrey is not an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination but has said he would accept a draft.

The Democrats' views on "Who is Responsible for the Cities" were aired before an audience of 1,000 in a Manhattan hotel ballroom. The forum was televised by the Public Broadcasting System.

Jackson proposed a big hike in federal support for education, saying that because Americans move so often — he said "40 per cent move to another state every 10 years" — states should not carry as much of the responsibility. He also favored guarantee of municipal bonds "up to three-fourths of a given issue."

Udall proposed that the cities issue small denomination bonds with the federal government "picking up 40 per cent of the interest costs." It would be an alternative to tax free bonds that cost the federal government $2.5 billion and enrich "one and a half per cent of the population."

He did not say what the new bonds would cost the federal government.

Harris proposed a national development bank that would make loans directly to the cities and "guarantee loans for housing and for small and medium-sized businesses." He blamed urban problems on "maldistribution of wealth and income and power."

Church, saying high unemployment among urban teenagers is a "time-bomb," leading to crime and drug use, proposed an "urban conservation corps." He didn't mention a price tag for the project.

The debate took on a more personal tone after Carter said he had found "real genuine affection for New York City" elsewhere in the country. The statement produced looks of surprise from the other candidates.

Carter's promise to sit down with the mayor and the governor and work out a partnership — based on recognition that the city's ills rose out of "lack of proper management" — led

Jackson to comment:

"You can't go around the country making partnerships with cities. It's not just New York, there's a long list of cities that are in peril."

Udall said flatly he "wouldn't believe a single thing he (Carter) said here." Carter, Udall said, told upstate New Yorkers "he wasn't going to bail out New York City."

Reagan's May Offensive Opens With NBC Address

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Ronald Reagan, the first four days of May loom as crucial ones, with a set of presidential primary elections his managers believe will make or break his campaign for the White House.

First, Reagan plans an effort to define in his own terms the issues of the campaign for the Republican nomination. That process begins with a nationally televised speech by the former California governor.

Reagan's address is being taped today in Hollywood and will be televised at 10:30 p.m. EST Wednesday by the NBC television network, which is charging $100,000 to carry the 30-minute address.

With that, Reagan's campaign hopes to revive the challenge to President Ford, winner in five out of six of the early primaries. Reagan's victory was in the most recent test, a week ago in North Carolina.

The campaign overhaul was in the works before Reagan's upset 52 per cent victory there. John P. Sears, his campaign manager, said the initial goal is to define the issues in Reagan's own terms instead of responding to what has been said about him.

Sears said Reagan was able to do that in fashioning his North Carolina victory, concentrating on questions of foreign policy and defense — and on charges that the administration is letting the United States slip to No. 2 in military might.

Reagan began his race vowing to challenge what he called the "buddy system" in Washington. He apparently wants to go back to that there.

"This appears to be an unestablishment year," Sears said in an interview. "There's obviously something that is bothering people. We're making this address in an attempt to get at it. ... We need to define a few things."

The television talk will include a plea for funds, but Sears said he doubts it will bring in much more than the program costs.

Success or failure of the new Reagan push will not get its major test for a month. Reagan is not entered in the April 6 New York primary and has dropped his personal campaign for the Wisconsin primary the same day. Ford will campaign in Wisconsin Friday and Saturday.

"We don't have great expectations," Sears said. "There isn't any plan for Reagan to go there. ..."

Instead, the Reagan strategy aims at three primaries in the South and one in the Midwest, all during the first week of May.

Texas, with 100 GOP delegates, votes May 1. Sears said a victory there is essential. Then, on May 4, there are three more primaries, in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana, with 139 delegates among them.

"Get going there, and we'll have a good shot the rest of the way," Sears said.

By the same token, he acknowledged that defeats in those primaries would effectively eliminate Reagan as a credible candidate.

Israelis Fire On Rioters

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Most Israeli Arabs rejected a Communist call for a general strike today, but Israeli troops and police opened fire on rioters in one Arab village in northern Israel and killed three Arabs, police reported.

Another Arab was killed Monday night in a clash in a neighboring village. The area was put under curfew, and more police and troops were sent in.

Arabs in the village of Saknin defied the curfew orders and threw stones, torches and burning cans of kerosene at the police and soldiers. A communique said the security forces fired warning shots and then turned their guns on the crowd when it did not disperse.

Three Arabs were killed, at least six other Arabs were treated for bullet wounds, nine soldiers and policemen were injured by rocks and flaming kerosene and "some 70 villagers were arrested," the police announcement said.

The strike was called to protest the government's taking over risky, unused Arab land in the Galilee sector of Northern Israel for housing and other projects.

Most shops and many schools were reported closed in Nazareth, an Arab town in Galilee with a Communist municipal government. Police reported about a dozen minor strike incidents in various Arab areas. But they said traffic was normal in most places and that most Arabs went to their jobs.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, however, the town of Gaza closed down until the Israeli military governor sent troops into the streets and ordered shops and schools to open. The strike ended there in midmorning; an unknown number of suspected agitators were arrested.

Sizable security forces were deployed in all Arab areas.

Tension began building up among Israel's 500,000 Arab citizens — 16 per cent of the population — weeks ago when the government announced plans to requisition 5,000 acres of empty land, about 1,000 of it belonging to Arabs, for housing, schools, hospitals and industry. The government is to pay for all of the land, and some of the projects were designed for Arab workers.

The tension was fueled by unrest among the Arabs on the occupied West Bank resulting from a dispute over Jews praying in the neighborhood of Moslem shrines in East Jerusalem.

Hakah, the Israeli Communist party, which is half Arab and half Jewish and has four seats in the 120-member parliament, called on the Arabs to strike for 24 hours. Israeli officials said the aim was to stir up unrest, and 35 Arab village mayors voted against the strike.

"We don't have great expectations," Sears said. "There isn't any plan for Reagan to go there. ..."

Instead, the Reagan strategy aims at three primaries in the South and one in the Midwest, all during the first week of May.

Texas, with 100 GOP delegates, votes May 1. Sears said a victory there is essential. Then, on May 4, there are three more primaries, in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana, with 139 delegates among them.

"Get going there, and we'll have a good shot the rest of the way," Sears said.

By the same token, he acknowledged that defeats in those primaries would effectively eliminate Reagan as a credible candidate.

Israelis Fire On Rioters

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Most Israeli Arabs rejected a Communist call for a general strike today, but Israeli troops and police opened fire on rioters in one Arab village in northern Israel and killed three Arabs, police reported.

Another Arab was killed Monday night in a clash in a neighboring village. The area was put under curfew, and more police and troops were sent in.

Arabs in the village of Saknin defied the curfew orders and threw stones, torches and burning cans of kerosene at the police and soldiers. A communique said the security forces fired warning shots and then turned their guns on the crowd when it did not disperse.

Three Arabs were killed, at least six other Arabs were treated for bullet wounds, nine soldiers and policemen were injured by rocks and flaming kerosene and "some 70 villagers were arrested," the police announcement said.

The strike was called to protest the government's taking over rocky, unused Arab land in the Galilee sector of Northern Israel for housing and other projects.

Most shops and many schools were reported closed in Nazareth, an Arab town in Galilee with a Communist municipal government. Police reported about a dozen minor strike incidents in various Arab areas. But they said traffic was normal in most places and that most Arabs went to their jobs.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, however, the town of Gaza closed down until the Israeli military governor sent troops into the streets and ordered shops and schools to open. The strike ended there in midmorning; an unknown number of suspected agitators were arrested.

Sizable security forces were deployed in all Arab areas.

Tension began building up among Israel's 500,000 Arab citizens — 16 per cent of the population — weeks ago when the government announced plans to requisition 5,000 acres of empty land, about 1,600 of it belonging to Arabs, for housing, schools, hospitals and industry. The government is to pay for all of the land, and some of the projects were designed for Arab workers.

The tension was fueled by unrest among the Arabs on the occupied West Bank resulting from a dispute over Jews praying in the neighborhood of Moslem shrines in East Jerusalem.

Rakah, the Israeli Communist party, which is half Arab and half Jewish and has four seats in the 120-member parliament, called on the Arabs to strike for 24 hours. Israeli officials said the aim was to stir up unrest, and 35 Arab village mayors voted against the strike.

Teamster Contract Talks Have Reached 'Critical Stage'

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — The trucking industry's contract talks have reached what Labor Secretary W.J. Usery calls "a critical stage" in the race against a Teamsters strike threatened for Wednesday midnight. Usery and James Searce, acting director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, met all day Monday with labor and management negotiators and planned another session today.

Usery, who said a strike would be bad for the industry, the union and the nation, said late Monday that the talks were "at a very critical stage" but refused to elaborate on their progress.

The Teamsters, who earn $7.18 to $7.33 an hour and $44 a week in benefits under the current National Master Freight Agreement, originally sought a $2.00 hourly hike and $36 weekly more in benefits over three years. They have cut their demands to $1.75 an hour and $17 a week.

But the union is also insisting on a cost-of-living allowance without a ceiling on adjustments, arguing that members were penalized more than 50 cents hourly in 1974-75 wages because of the current 11-cent ceiling.

Last weekend, union members overwhelmingly authorized a strike, which would be the Teamsters' first nationwide walkout. They rejected a contract offer from Trucking Employers Inc., which represents 16,000 trucking concerns in the bargaining.

The offer, rejected by 10-1, would have added 85 cents to hourly wages and $11 a week to fringe benefits over a 39-month period.

They Like Austin

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's major radio stations apparently have no qualms about using Secretary of State Richard Austin's voice on the air even though Austin has said he will run for the U.S. Senate.

Austin's office Monday offered to 21 radio stations recorded messages reminding motorists they have one week to put on their new 1976 plates. Messages were recorded by both Austin and a department spokesman, and stations were given their choice.

Only one station — WKMF in Flint — wanted the spokesman's recording instead of Austin's, according to James LaRue of Austin's staff.

The Ford administration fears that a strike idling the nation's trucks — and with them the movement of food, goods and heavy freight — would severely impair the progress being made in the nation's economic recovery.

Richard Haupt, national director of the transportation and traffic office of Ford Motor Co., estimated Monday in Dearborn, Mich., that a nationwide Teamsters strike "would completely halt" Ford's U.S. and Canadian car and truck production within a week.

Usery said, "We are not making any preparation at this time to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction. We're seeking to negotiate an agreement." But he added that "after Wednesday, the President and the administration will certainly have to protect the health and safety of the nation."

The Taft-Hartley Act could be invoked — in the event of a strike — to force resumption of work during an 80-day cooling-off period.

There is also concern in Washington that a hefty settlement would produce new inflation later this year because of its impact on other big-labor industries.

Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," a movie whose message of hope and perseverance has special meaning to the people who fought for 15 years to get it made, became the first film since 1934 to sweep the four most prestigious Academy Awards.

"Cuckoo's Nest" was named best picture of the year.

Jack Nicholson, as the leader of a rebellious group of mental hospital inmates, and Louise Fletcher, as the strong-willed nurse who keeps them in line, won the top acting Oscars for 1975. Milos Forman was named best director. In addition, Lawrence Hauben and Bo Goldman took best screen adaptation honors at the 48th annual presentations Monday night.

Comedian George Burns, 80, became the oldest actor ever to win an Oscar. His supporting performance in "The Sunshine Boys" was his first motion picture part in 37 years. Lee Grant was named best supporting actress for her role as an adulteress in "Shampoo."

Southern Tornadoes Kill 11; Hundreds Hurt, Homeless

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes have cut a swath of destruction across Arkansas and Mississippi, killing 11 persons, injuring more than 220 and leaving hundreds of others homeless.

State police said six persons were killed in Arkansas and more than 70 were injured. Five were killed and at least 150 were injured in Mississippi, state Civil Defense officials said.

"This is unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Arkansas Gov. David Pryor as he toured the devastated town of Cabot, hardest hit in the twisters that roared through the two Southern states Monday.

Five died in Cabot, a community in central Arkansas 20 miles northeast of Little Rock. The sixth victim in Arkansas was killed when a tornado struck the town of Dresco, about 100 miles north of Little Rock.

State police earlier said six persons had died in Cabot, but officials reported today that a man listed as dead was later found alive there.

Most of Cabot's business district was demolished, and state police said 65 buildings on an eight-block stretch of Main Street were either destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Mississippi, five persons were killed when a tornado tore through the town of Canton.

Mississippi National Guard troops joined local police late Monday in patrolling the debris-lined streets of Canton and enforcing the 10 p.m. curfew ordered to prevent looting of the town's demolished businesses.

In Arkansas, the Lonoke County sheriff's office said, "The whole main street of Cabot has been flattened."

The Arkansas governor, who arrived in Cabot a few hours after the tornadoes hit, ordered 80 National Guardsmen to the storm-ravaged town. Thirty-five Air Force security policemen and 40 state troopers were brought in to help sift through the debris, direct traffic and prevent looting.

Portable generators supplied electricity for rescue crews and other officials, and utility company crews worked to restore telephone, gas and electric service.

Cabot Mayor Willie Ray said he was at City Hall when the National Weather Service telephoned a warning about 3:35 p.m. Ray said he saw the tornado coming and told city officials to "blow the whistle," a warning device which can be heard several blocks from City Hall.

Ernie Bailey, 37, a Cabot real estate salesman, said he watched the tornado approach a school filled with children. Then, he said, the twister "just sort of popped to the side of the school and went on by."

In Canton, an agricultural town of 10,000 about 20 miles north of Jackson, the tornado cut a five-mile-long swath through residential, business and industrial areas.

Witnesses said it touched down on Interstate 55, about two miles west of town, overturned a tractor-trailer truck and sent two cars tumbling through a nearby pasture. The twister moved northeastward, tearing up a poultry processing plant and a casket company, wrecking trailers and frame houses and flipping roofs from other dwellings.

The storm hit the town's business district and wrecked a large cotton compress, damaged roofs and shattered windows in shops and offices. At the town square, it uprooted large oak trees and ripped away part of a cupola atop the Madison County Courthouse.

The storm then skipped by a residential neighborhood before destroying a furniture plant where authorities said one of the town's five victims was killed by a falling steel beam. Several injured persons were trapped for a while under the plant's wreckage.

Most of the homeless in Canton were lived on the east side of town. Some moved in with friends and others went to a Red Cross shelter at a local school.

One of the refugees at the school was Joe Styles, a farm laborer whose apartment was demolished.

"You can just say that 183 North Hickory Street ain't there no more," Styles said. He pointed to the tattered clothes he was wearing and said, "This is all I've got."

Another tornado touched down in the Mississippi town of Newton, injuring nine persons and damaging between 150 and 200 houses.

pink slipped teachers are not rehired, the average class size in the district will increase from about 26 to 30.

This year, the school district had 154 full-time teachers with a student population of 3,108.

He said some programs may also have to be cut, but he did not know yet which ones or how many.

The board also approved a proposed budget of $3,838,809 for 1976-77 which will be sent to the county tax allocation board. The budget reflects a $267,564 increase over the present operating budget of $3,571,245.

The preliminary budget is used by the county to set the school district's allocated millage. Barrett predicted the allocated millage would be about the same as it was in 1975, 9.376 mills.

In another area, the board instructed Barrett to prepare a study on the costs involved in establishing a new voter precinct for Hagar township.

Coloma Eyes June Vote, 'Pink Slips' 25 Teachers

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night voted to notify 25 teachers they will be laid off in June and may not be rehired next fall because of a possible lack of finances.

Supt. William Barrett said the majority of the pink slipped teachers will not be rehired if voters in June turn down a request for additional operating millage. He said the district will seek an additional 2.4 to 2.8 mills in June.

Barrett said the additional millage would raise the total operating levy next year to 25.3 to 26 mills. In 1975, the operating levy was 23.376 mills and an additional 2.304 mills were levied for debt retirement.

If approved, the additional millage would raise about $270,000 to $240,000 from local taxes and increased state aid.

The pink slipping action was taken last night because the school district is required by state law to give its probationary teachers 60 days notice when they are laid off.

Kay Erickson, school board president, said all 25 teachers would be needed next year to maintain the existing educational programs. He said the board's action was only a "precaution" in the event voters fail to approve a millage increase.

Barrett said he did not know yet exactly how much revenue the school district will receive for next year from local and state sources. He said the state has not yet approved a school aid formula for the 1976-77 year, and he said he does not know what the total equalized valuation (SEV) will be for the district in 1976.

Without knowing the SEV, he said he could not determine exactly how many mills will be needed for operations.

He said if the majority of the

Watervliet May Drop 13 Teachers

WATERVLIED — Thirteen teachers were notified by the school board here last night they will not be rehired after this school year unless financing and staff openings materialize.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said the action was taken because of the uncertainty of the district's income next year and because of a requirement that teachers be notified 60 days in advance if they are to be laid off at the end of the school year. The school year ends in June.

Gravitt said he hopes to recall all of the 13 for next year if financing is available and if positions become available through normal departures of others in the teaching staff.

Gravitt said he was projecting a teaching staff of 87 or 88 next school year instead of the current 92-member level. The decrease, he said, was due in part to a gradual decrease in enrollment.

The board's action was similar to that of other school districts in southwestern Michigan in preliminary efforts to prepare for the 1976-77 school year. According to Gravitt, he expects to make a recommendation to the school board in April on how much should be sought in a property tax millage election this year.

In another financial area, the board adopted a tentative 1976-77 school year budget for submission to the Berrien county tax allocation board. The budget amounts to $2,083,744 compared to the present revised budget of $1,990,000.

Gravitt said the increase was to meet inflation-swelled operating costs and supply equipment needs.

The board also voted to permit a high school senior to finish his senior year in the high school although his family recently moved to Coloma. It denied the request of the students' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Miller, to permit their younger children to finish their education in the district.

Gravitt said the board's action was in keeping with its no tuition student policy.

SOUTH HAVEN

Students Take Part In Chamber Session

SOUTH HAVEN — Approximately 100 South Haven high school students and area businessmen were participating in a "Youth-Business Dialog" program today sponsored by the Greater South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce.

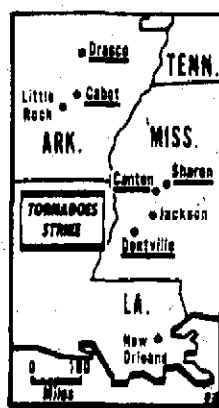

The program, held at Fidelity's resort, is designed to explain the American free enterprise system to high school age youth, according to A. W.

Roberts, Chamber executive vice president.

The program involved 80 high school students and 20 businessmen. Featured speakers included John Wagon, comptroller of South Haven Rubber company; State Rep. Ed Fredericks; South Haven Mayor Richard Lewis and Frohnman Johnson of the state Chamber of Commerce.

Speedy Session

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In one of their speediest Monday night sessions over, legislators called it quits after 15 minutes to watch the Michigan-Indiana game. Earlier Monday, members of the House were asked to be in their seats by 7:50 p.m. — 15 minutes earlier than usual — so that they could take attendance, act on routine business and leave to watch the game. In the Senate, a resolution was adopted proposing that the Senate not resume until Michigan becomes National Collegiate Athletic Association champion.

Southern Tornadoes Kill 11; Hundreds Hurt, Homeless

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tornadoes have cut a swath of destruction across Arkansas and Mississippi, killing 11 persons, injuring more than 220 and leaving hundreds of others homeless.

State police said six persons were killed in Arkansas and more than 70 were injured. Five were killed and at least 150 were injured in Mississippi, state Civil Defense officials said.

"This is unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Arkansas Gov. David Pryor as he toured the devastated town of Cabot, hardest hit in the twisters that roared through the two Southern states Monday.

Five died in Cabot, a community in central Arkansas 20 miles northeast of Little Rock. The sixth victim in Arkansas was killed when a tornado struck the town of Dresco, about 100 miles north of Little Rock.

State police earlier said six persons had died in Cabot, but officials reported today that a man listed as dead was later found alive there.

Most of Cabot's business district was demolished, and state police said 65 buildings on an eight-block stretch of Main Street were either destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Mississippi, five persons were killed when a tornado tore through the town of Canton.

Mississippi National Guard troops joined local police late Monday in patrolling the debris-lined streets of Canton and enforcing the 10 p.m. curfew ordered to prevent looting of the town's demolished businesses.

In Arkansas, the Lonoke County sheriff's office said, "The whole main street of Cabot has been flattened."

The Arkansas governor, who arrived in Cabot a few hours after the tornadoes hit, ordered 60 National Guardsmen to the storm-ravaged town. Thirty-five Air Force security policemen and 40 state troopers were brought in to help sift through the debris, direct traffic and prevent looting.

Portable generators supplied electricity for rescue crews and other officials, and utility company crews worked to restore telephone, gas and electric service.

Cabot Mayor Willie Ray said he was at City Hall when the National Weather Service telephoned a warning about 3:15 p.m. Ray said he saw the tornado coming and told city officials to "blow the whistle," a warning device which can be heard several blocks from City Hall.

Ernie Bailey, 37, a Cabot real estate salesman, said he watched the tornado approach a school filled with children. Then, he said, the twister "just sort of hopped to the side of the school and went on by."

In Canton, an agricultural town of 10,000 about 20 miles north of Jackson, the tornado cut a five-mile-long swath through residential, business and industrial areas.

Witnesses said it touched down on Interstate 55, about two miles west of town, overturned a tractor-trailer truck and sent two cars tumbling through a nearby pasture. The twister moved northeastward, tearing up a poultry processing plant and a casket company, wrecking trailers and frame houses and ripping roofs from other dwellings.

The storm hit the town's business district and wrecked a large cotton compress, damaged roofs and shattered windows in shops and offices. At the town square, it uprooted large oak trees and ripped away part of a cupola atop the Madison County Courthouse.

The storm then skipped by a residential neighborhood before destroying a furniture plant where authorities said one of the town's five victims was killed by a falling steel beam. Several injured persons were trapped for a while under the plant's wreckage.

Most of the homeless in Canton were lived on the east side of town. Some moved in with friends and others went to a Red Cross shelter at a local school.

One of the refugees at the school was Joe Styles, a farm laborer whose apartment was demolished.

"You can just say that 183 North Hickory Street ain't there no more," Styles said. He pointed to the tattered clothes he was wearing and said, "This is all I've got."

Another tornado touched down in the Mississippi town of Newton, injuring nine persons and damaging between 150 and 200 houses.

pink slipped teachers are not rehired, the average class size in the district will increase from about 26 to 30.

This year, the school district had 154 full-time teachers with a student population of 3,108.

He said some programs may also have to be cut, but he did not know yet which ones or how many.

The board also approved a proposed budget of $3,838,809 for 1976-77 which will be sent to the county tax allocation board. The budget reflects a $267,564 increase over the present operating budget of $3,571,245.

The preliminary budget is used by the county to set the school district's allocated millage. Barrett predicted the allocated millage would be about the same as it was in 1975, 9.376 mills.

In another area, the board instructed Barrett to prepare a study on the costs involved in establishing a new voter precinct for Hagar township.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — W. Wallace Smith, president of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, says he plans to step down in two years and turn the reins of the church over to his son. ## Watervliet May Drop 13 Teachers WATERVLIIET — Thirteen teachers were notified by the school board here last night they will not be rehired after this school year unless financing and staff openings materialize.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said the action was taken because of the uncertainty of the district's income next year and because of a requirement that teachers be notified 60 days in advance if they are to be laid off at the end of the school year. The school year ends in June.

Gravitt said he hopes to recall all of the 13 for next year if financing is available and if positions become available through normal departures of others in the teaching staff.

Gravitt said he was projecting a teaching staff of 87 or 88 next school year instead of the current 92-member level. The decrease, he said, was due in part to a gradual decrease in enrollment.

The board's action was similar to that of other school districts in southwestern Michigan in preliminary efforts to prepare for the 1976-77 school year. According to Gravitt, he expects to make a recommendation to the school board in April on how much should be sought in a property tax millage election this year.

In another financial area, the board adopted a tentative 1976-77 school year budget for submission to the Berrien county tax allocation board. The budget amounts to $2,083,744 compared to the present revised budget of $1,950,000.

Gravitt said the increase was to meet inflation-swelled operating costs and some equipment needs.

The board also voted to permit a high school senior to finish his senior year in the high school although his family recently moved to Coloma. It denied the request of the students' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Imler, to permit three younger children to finish their education in the district.

Gravitt said the board's action was in keeping with its no tuition student policy.

Coloma Eyes June Vote, 'Pink Slips' 25 Teachers

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night voted to notify 25 teachers they will be laid off in June and may not be rehired next fall because of a possible lack of finances.

Supt. William Barrett said the majority of the pink slipped teachers will not be rehired if voters in June turn down a request for additional operating millage. He said the district will seek an additional 2.4 to 2.8 mills in June.

Barrett said the additional millage would raise the total operating levy next year to 25.5 to 26 mills. In 1975, the operating levy was 23.376 mills and an additional 2.304 mills were levied for debt retirement.

If approved, the additional millage would raise about $230,000 to $240,000 from local taxes and increased state aid.

The pink slipping action was taken last night because the school district is required by state law to give its probationary teachers 60 days notice when they are laid off.

Kay Erickson, school board president, said all 25 teachers would be needed next year to maintain the existing educational programs. He said the board's action was only a "precaution" in the event voters fail to approve a millage increase.

Barrett said he did not know yet exactly how much revenue the school district will receive for next year from local and state sources. He said the state has not yet approved a school aid formula for the 1976-77 year, and he said he does not know what the total equalized valuation (SEV) will be for the district in 1976.

Without knowing the SEV, he said he could not determine exactly how many mills will be needed for operations.

Students Take Part In Chamber Session

SOUTH HAVEN — Approximately 100 South Haven high school students and area businessmen were participating in a "Youth-Business Dialog" program today sponsored by the Greater South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce.

The program, held at Fidelman's resort, is designed to explain the American free enterprise system to high school age youth, according to A. W.

Roberts, Chamber executive vice president.

The program involved 80 high school students and 20 businessmen. Featured speakers included John Wengen, comptroller of South Haven Rubber company; State Rep. Ed Fredericks; South Haven Mayor Richard Lewis and Frohman Johnson of the state Chamber of Commerce.

Speedy Session

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In one of their speediest Monday night sessions ever, legislators called it quits after 15 minutes to watch the Michigan-Indiana game. Earlier Monday, members of the House were asked to be in their seats by 7:50 p.m. — 15 minutes earlier than usual — so that they could take attendance, act on routine business and leave to watch the game. In the Senate, a resolution was adopted proposing that the Senate not resume until Michigan becomes National Collegiate Athletic Association champion.

Jury Award

CARO, Mich. (AP) — A six-person circuit court jury returned a $330,000 verdict Saturday night in favor of an Owendale woman whose husband was killed in a 1972 auto fatality.

The jury found the Tuscola County road commission was negligent in not replacing a traffic warning sign that had been knocked down three or four years before the fatal accident.

The award went to Mrs. Kathy Deming whose husband, Peter, was killed when his car failed to negotiate an S-turn on a county road.

Attorneys for Mrs. Deming said lack of the warning sign caused the crash.

County officials said they would decide within a week whether to appeal.

Govatos Slayer Asks New Trial

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A motion seeking a new trial for convicted killer George Lacy Jr. was argued Monday in Berrien Circuit court but Judge Julian E. Hughes said it will probably be July before he rules on the matter.

Lacy, 23, of Benton Harbor, was convicted in March of 1975 of the Jan. 4, 1973, murder of Hagar township store owner John Govatos and was sentenced to life imprisonment for first degree murder.

The 66-year-old Govatos was shot three times in the head at his Oasis party store on US-33, during a robbery.

Lacy's appellate counsel, Atty. Roman T. Plaszczak of Kalamazoo, argued his client should be granted a new trial, contending the verdict went against "the great weight of evidence" and against the law. He also argued that a change of venue should have been granted due to pre-trial publicity, that Lacy did not receive a fair trial because of alleged threats to jurors, and that the prosecution alluded to other crimes which Lacy allegedly committed but were never proven or tried.

Plaszczak also contended Lacy's acquittal during a 1973 trial of a charge of uttering and publishing a bad check, in which Govatos testified against Lacy and was the complainant, should not have been introduced during the murder trial. He argued that without that, no premeditation would have been shown and the case could only have gone to the jury on charges of second degree murder or manslaughter.

The prosecution, represented by Prosecutor John Sniatanski, did not offer oral arguments yesterday, choosing to answer the motion in briefs.

Hughes took the motion under advisement, and predicted a ruling wouldn't come until at least July.

Credit Union Sets Record With 28% Hike In Assets

increased over 28 percent during 1975 for the largest single year's growth in its 22-year history according to a reported presented to members at their annual meeting held last week at the DANK hall.

Price Hikes Approved

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — The Central Michigan University board of trustees approved Monday an increase in board and room on campus.

It said that for halls with full meal service the cost would be raised about five percent or $68 to a new figure of $1,418. The scale varied for other singles and married student dormitories.

New Buffalo Board Will Send 17 Layoff Notices

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board voted last night to give 17 teachers preliminary notification that they will not be rehired for the 1978-79 school year.

The action came as the board adopted a preliminary budget for the coming school year of $1,622,800, about $38,533 less than the current budget, according to Supt. Walter Schwarz.

The superintendent said the layoffs will be necessary to balance the budget made leaner by projected lower revenues.

The preliminary budget contains no provisions for raises for teachers or other employees in the coming school year and hinges, even in its reduced level, on the voter renewal in the June school election of a 14.634 property tax levy that expired with the last tax collections.

The board will also seek additional millage in the election but has not made public yet how much more it will seek.

Schwarz said some of the teachers may be rehired next year if the millage issues are approved by voters.

Schwarz said positions that would be cut by the staff reductions would be those of elementary guidance, speech correctionist, middle school physical education, resource room teachers; (2) at the elementary level, home economics at the high school level, an English and a math teacher, science, vocal music and art teachers, and one teacher each in the sixth, fourth and third grades.

Homosexuals Vow New Court Effort

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homosexual activists, "bitterly disappointed" by a rebuff from the Supreme Court, are vowing continued efforts to have state laws prohibiting private homosexual relations between adults declared unconstitutional. The court affirmed without elaboration on Monday a 2 to 1 decision by a panel of three federal judges upholding the Virginia sodomy law.

The lower court upheld the law on grounds that homosexual conduct "is likely to end in a contribution to moral delinquency."

Bruce Voeller, executive director of the National Gay Task Force in New York, said his group would seek "different avenues" to bring the question before the nation's highest court again. "We are bitterly and deeply disappointed," Voeller said.

Thirty-six states and the District of Columbia make homosexuality a crime in all circumstances. This is also the law on federal reservations, although Congress is considering repeal. The other 14 states have passed bills since 1961 exempting private homosexual relations between consenting adults from criminal laws. These states are Illinois, Connecticut, Colorado, Oregon, Hawaii, Delaware, Ohio, Washington, California, New Mexico, Maine, Arkansas, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The Virginia law provides for a prison term of up to five years, or a jail term of up to 12 months, a $1,000 fine, or both. It applies to either heterosexual or homosexual sodomy.

The law was challenged in a civil suit by two Richmond, Va., homosexuals using the names "John Doe" and "Richard Roe." "John Doe," who now lives in New York, said Monday that he was "still pretty devastated" by the court's decision. In a telephone interview, "Doe" asked that his anonymity be preserved.

Voeller said the most likely avenue for efforts to bring the question before the justices again would be through current challenges to the New York law. New York, like several other states, penalizes oral or anal sex outside of wedlock but not between married persons. In two cases now on appeal to New York state courts, the task force maintains this is unconstitutional discrimination against the unmarried.

The Virginia law was attacked on grounds that it violated the right of privacy. In a frequently cited 1965 decision on privacy, the Supreme Court struck down regulations on the use of contraceptives by married couples, saying marriage involved "a right of privacy older than the Bill of Rights."

In the decision upheld by the justices Monday, the lower court held that the 1965 ruling established "no authoritative judicial bar" to the proscription of homosexuality — since it is obviously no portion of marriage, home or family life. The high court had not heard arguments in the case and did not issue an opinion explaining its reasoning. Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens said the court should have held a hearing before deciding the question.

Salary Raises Scrubbed In BH

mayor and commissioners. Atty. Hughes had said that the city charter, which calls for $5 a meeting salaries for mayor and commissioners, should be followed. The state law superseded the charter, Gavin said.

Contrary to Atty. Hughes' ruling, Gavin said that Commissioner Charles Shepherd was not in conflict of interest when he continued to serve on the compensation commission after he was elected to the city commission on Nov. 4, 1975.

Gavin said Shepherd had "constructively resigned" from the compensation commission before he was sworn in as a city commissioner. Shepherd was sworn in on Dec. 28 — the same day the pay board recommendations were filed — and submitted his resignation from the compensation commission Jan. 5 "as of Dec. 28."

Gavin also disagreed with Atty. Hughes that it is mandatory that all members of the compensation commission be named within 30 days of passage of the city ordinance setting up the commission, which was in February of 1974.

The commission actually was not formed until August, 1974, but Gavin said that is not improper. The 30-day limit is "directory, not mandatory," he said.

The commission last night passed a second resolution in connection with Gavin's report. It asked the attorney general to consider only the points on which Gavin and Hughes disagreed. Previously the commission asked the attorney general, and Gavin, to rule on all questions.

When it came Yarborough's turn to vote on that resolution he apparently wanted to ask a question. Mayor Joseph said questions are out of order during a vote, he and Yarborough argued and Yarborough said "I refuse to vote."

Commissioner Arnold Bullin voted against the resolution, saying that since the full opinion has been sought it should be received, but all other members voted for and passed the resolution.

Said Commissioner Helen Ford: "I'm delighted to have this issue resolved." She, Shepherd and Edlie Thomas were the three members of the compensation commission who recommended the pay increases.

Others appointed to compensation commission were Dorothy Hudson, Helen Fair, Rev. T.N. Wilkins and Vertis McManus, but Mrs. Ford earlier said they took no part in preparing the recommendations.

Price Hikes Approved

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — The Central Michigan University board of trustees approved Monday an increase in board and room on campus.

It said that for halls with full meal service the cost would be raised about five percent or $68 to a new figure of $1,418. The scale varied for other singles and married student dormitories.

New Buffalo Board Will Send 17 Layoff Notices

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board voted last night to give 17 teachers preliminary notification that they will not be rehired for the 1976-77 school year.

The action came as the board adopted a preliminary budget for the coming school year of $1,622,869, about $58,533 less than the current budget, according to Supt. Walter Schwarz.

The superintendent said the layoffs will be necessary to balance the budget made leaner by projected lower revenues.

The preliminary budget contains no provisions for raises for teachers or other employees in the coming school year and hinges, even in its reduced level, on the voter renewal in the June school election of a 14.624 property tax levy that expired with the last tax collections.

The board will also seek additional millage in the election but has not made public yet how much more it will seek.

Schwarz said some of the teachers may be rehired next year if the millage issues are approved by voters.

Schwarz said positions that would be cut by the staff reductions would be those of elementary guidance, speech correctionist, middle school physical education, resource room teachers (2) at the elementary level, home economics at the high school level, an English

Homosexuals Vow New Court Effort

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homosexual rights activists, "bitterly disappointed" by a rebuff from the Supreme Court, are vowing continued efforts to have state laws prohibiting private homosexual relations between adults declared unconstitutional. The court affirmed without elaboration on Monday a 2 to 1 decision by a panel of three federal judges upholding the Virginia sodomy law. The lower court upheld the law on grounds that homosexual conduct "is likely to end in a contribution to moral delinquency."

Bruce Voeller, executive director of the National Gay Task Force in New York, said his group would seek "different avenues" to bring the question before the nation's highest court again. "We are bitterly and deeply disappointed," Voeller said.

Thirty-six states and the District of Columbia make homosexuality a crime in all circumstances. This is also the law on federal reservations, although Congress is considering repeal. The other 14 states have passed bills since 1961 exempting private homosexual relations between consenting adults from criminal laws. These states are Illinois, Connecticut, Colorado, Oregon, Hawaii, Delaware, Ohio, Washington, California, New Mexico, Maine, Arkansas, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The Virginia law provides for a prison term of up to five years, or a jail term of up to 12 months, a $1,000 fine, or both. It applies to either heterosexual or homosexual sodomy.

The law was challenged in a civil suit by two Richmond, Va., homosexuals using the names "John Doe" and "Richard Roe." "John Doe," who now lives in New York, said Monday that he was "still pretty devastated" by the court's decision. In a telephone interview, "Doe" asked that his anonymity be preserved.

Voeller said the most likely avenue for efforts to bring the question before the justices again would be through current challenges to the New York law. New York, like several other states, penalizes oral or anal sex outside of wedlock but not between married persons. In two cases now on appeal to New York state courts, the task force maintains this is unconstitutional discrimination against the unmarried.

The Virginia law was attacked on grounds that it violated the right of privacy. In a frequently cited 1965 decision on privacy, the Supreme Court struck down regulations on the use of contraceptives by married couples, saying marriage involved "a right of privacy older than the Bill of Rights."

In the decision upheld by the justices Monday, the lower court held that the 1965 ruling established "no authoritative judicial bar to the proscription of homosexuality — since it is obviously no portion of marriage, home or family life." The high court had not heard arguments in the case and did not issue an opinion explaining its reasoning. Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens said the court should have held a hearing before deciding the question.

Salary Raises Scrubbed In BH

mayor and commissioners. Atty. Hughes had said that the city charter, which calls for $5 a meeting salaries for mayor and commissioners, should be followed. The state law supercedes the charter, Gavin said.

Contrary to Atty. Hughes' ruling, Gavin said that Commissioner Charles Shepherd was not in conflict of interest when he continued to serve on the compensation commission after he was elected to the city commission on Nov. 4, 1975.

Gavin said Shepherd had "constructively resigned" from the compensation commission before he was sworn in as a city commissioner. Shepherd was sworn in on Dec. 29 — the same day the pay board recommendations were filed — and submitted his resignation from the compensation commission Jan. 5 "as of Dec. 29."

Gavin also disagreed with Atty. Hughes that it is mandatory that all members of the compensation commission be named within 30 days of passage of the city ordinance setting up the commission, which was in February of 1974.

The commission actually was not formed until August, 1974, but Gavin said that is not improper. The 30-day limit is "directory, not mandatory," he said.

The commission last night passed a second resolution in connection with Gavin's report. It asked the attorney general to consider only the points on which Gavin and Hughes disagreed. Previously the commission asked the attorney general, and Gavin, to rule on all questions.

When it came Yarborough's turn to vote on that resolution he apparently wanted to ask a question. Mayor Joseph said questions are out of order during a vote, he and Yarborough argued and Yarborough said "I refuse to vote."

Commissioner Arnold Bolin voted against the resolution, saying that since the full opinion has been sought it should all be received, but all other members voted for and passed the resolution.

Said Commissioner Helen Ford: "I'm delighted to have this issue resolved." She, Shepherd and Eddie Thomas were the three members of the compensation commission who recommended the pay increases.

Govatos Slayer Asks New Trial

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A motion seeking a new trial for convicted killer George Lacy Jr. was argued Monday in Berrien Circuit court but Judge Julian E. Hughes said it will probably be July before he rules on the matter.

Lacy, 23, of Benton Harbor, was convicted in March of 1975 of the Jan. 4, 1975, murder of Hagar township store owner John Govatos and was sentenced to life imprisonment for first degree murder.

The 66-year-old Govatos was shot three times in the head at his Oasis party store on US-33, during a robbery.

Lacy's appellate counsel, Atty. Roman T. Plaszczak of Kalamazoo, argued his client should be granted a new trial, contending the verdict went against "the great weight of evidence" and against the law. He also argued that a change of venue should have been granted due to pre-trial publicity, that Lacy did not receive a fair trial because of alleged threats to jurors, and that the prosecution alluded to other crimes which Lacy allegedly committed but were never proven or tried.

Plaszczak also contended Lacy's acquittal during a 1973 trial of a charge of uttering and publishing a bad check, in which Govatos testified against Lacy and was the complainant, should not have been introduced during the murder trial. He argued that without that, no premeditation would have been shown and the case could only have gone to the jury on charges of second degree murder or manslaughter.

The prosecution, represented by Prosecutor John Smietanka, did not offer oral arguments yesterday, choosing to answer the motion in briefs.

Credit Union Sets Record With 28% Hike In Assets

Assets of the Twin Cities Area Employees Credit Union increased over 28 percent during 1975 for the largest single year's growth in its 22-year history according to a reported presented to members at their annual meeting held last week at the DANK hall.

Treasurer Glen Fravard, in his report, also stated that membership increased 36 percent, loans 34 percent, and shares 26 percent.

Total assets of the organization stood at $1,758,227.33 at the close of 1975, which was a $390,405.56 gain for the year.

Fravard also reported loans outstanding increased $383,432.11 to a total of $1,480,702.23, shares increased $294,684.39 to $1,415,730.98 and membership from 1,720 to 2,343.

The Credit Union, which was chartered in January of 1954, now serves 40 plants and business establishments in the greater Twin Cities area under a payroll deduction system.

After the annual meeting, elections were held.

Election results for the board of directors were: Charles Randall of V-M Corporation, re-elected president for his 13th term; James Vidt of Shepherd Products, re-elected vice-president; Mary Jane Hiler of Michigan Fruit Cannery, elected secretary; Glen Fravard re-elected treasurer for his 21st term. Maynard Burleson of Michigan Fruit Cannery, James Chism of Paramount Die Cast, and Charlene McFarland continue to serve as directors.

Richard Weber of Shepherd Products, who was re-elected chairman of the credit committee, reported that during 1975, 1,109 loans were processed, amounting to $1,145,262.85. Emma Freeman of V-M was re-elected clerk of the credit committee; Hilda Mann of Michigan Fruit Cannery, Susan Stewart, office manager of the Credit Union, and Jerry Fulbright of Modar Corporation, also continue to serve on the credit committee.

James Gillette of Benton Harbor Engineering was re-elected chairman of the supervisory committee. Anna Miller of Modar Corporation and Floyd Corteville of Coca-Cola continue to serve on the supervisory committee.

CANDLES LIGHT OLD COURTHOUSE: Electric bills were no problem, but the candle bill was terrific in Berrien county's 1839 courtroom. As it once was, the big room today is lighted by 48 candles in four candelabra in a restoration of the 137-year-old original. Since the courtroom doubled as a county meeting place, political rallies, lectures, musical programs and social gatherings were commonly held there in the evening. Over the years the old room gained fame as the site of many weddings. The restored courtroom today occupies the second floor of the county's 1839 Courthouse Museum at Berrien Springs.

Berrien Girl Wins National 4-H Trip

By NICK SMITH

Cindy Brown, 18, of Berrien Springs, has been named to a seven-member Michigan 4-H delegation which will attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C., April 24 to 30. The delegation was chosen from 250,000 Michigan 4-H'ers, according to Michael Tate, Berrien 4-H agent. Attendance at the national conference is the highest honor any 4-H member can attain, he said.

Miss Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Brown, Lennon Creek road, is a senior at Berrien Springs high school. She also works at the Southwestern Medical clinic and hopes to study nursing next year at Michigan State university.

At the Washington, D.C., meetings several hundred 4-H'ers will talk about problems affecting the nation's youth, and suggest ways that 4-H can prepare members to face the problems.

Miss Brown and the other members of the delegation were chosen from Michigan 4-H members who participated in Michigan's Teen Enrichment and Maturity program. Chris Kerner, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerner, Buchanan, was also in the teen program in Berrien county.

Off-Campus Enrollment Sets Record

Lake Michigan college reports that its off-campus enrollment in a single year has increased by a record 51 per cent—from 382 students the second semester last year, to 578 students this semester. And the number of extension centers has increased from seven to nine at high schools in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties.

Jim Fent, director of continuing education at LMC, reported the expansion on "mini-camppuses," and commented:

"Our goal for the past several years has been to provide students with a chance to complete two full years of college work at our off-campus centers, and we will reach that goal in the near future, perhaps by the second semester of next year."

Fent said the off-campus centers offer "bonafide transferable college courses."

All but two of the centers have permanent on-site directors, who are educators in their communities. They include: Charles Lake, Niles elementary teacher; Bernie Strother, Covert high school teacher; Larry Fisher, River Valley school district community education director; and community education directors Wayne Writer, Buchanan; Mrs. Tania Hunerjager, Gullen; Robert Gabel, South Haven; and Julie Lancaster, Fennville.

Fent said extension centers at Allegan and Cassopolis are administered from the LMC main campus in Benton township. Fent said directors at the off-campus centers are in frequent contact with his office "to assure maintenance of quality college-level work and uniformity of grading and reporting procedures."

Fent cited LMC as the first public college in southern Michigan to branch out into outlying communities to establish a full, two-year basic associate degree curriculum at each center. The sequence of courses enables outlying students "a chance to obtain a degree without putting a foot on the school's main campus," Fent said.

He explained that the community college has to branch out because "our constituents are too diversified, their problems too varied, their lifestyles too different to enable all of them to flock to the main campus."

Besides college credit courses at off-campus sites, LMC offers a variety of short-courses on the main campus. These are for people who are not interested in obtaining a college degree. Goals of short-courses include perfection in the start of hobbies. LMC this year offers 53 such courses, compared to 41 last year. Current enrollment is 861, compared to 305 last year.

LMC develops new short-courses at the request of residents, and continues those that remain popular, Fent said.

Information about the kinds of courses to be offered at LMC off-campus centers, and short-courses to be taught next summer may be obtained by writing or phoning the continuing education center on the main campus.

Berrien Jobless Rate Dips Full Point

Berrien county's unemployment rate in February dropped a full percentage point from January's 15.4 per cent as employment increased, and unemployment decreased.

The 14.4 per cent unemployment rate maintained a falling rate which began in December, when the figure was 15.1 per cent, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

While the labor force held constant at 74,200 workers, employment in February rose to 63,500 from January's 62,800 and unemployment dropped from January's 11,400 to 10,700 unemployed in February.

The MESC noted that the same figure for the labor force in the first two months of 1976 halted a downward trend in the labor force which had been in effect during most of the past six months. The labor force peaked at 80,400 in July, 1975, after a number of consecutive years of expansion. The MESC added the labor force was 77,200 at the same time a year ago.

The MESC also noted February was the first month of employment gains after six months of continuous declines. The county's wage and salary employment increased 600 during February to total 58,200, with most of the gain, some 500 workers, in the manufacturing sector, the MESC reported.

A year ago the county unemployment rate was 16.1 per cent.

The balance of the county had 3,975 unemployed, a rate of 12.8 per cent.

Eau Claire School Chief Will Leave

EAU CLAIRE — Dr. William F. Schaefer III, superintendent here since July, 1975, is resigning effective May 17 to accept the superintendent's position with the Lake Zurich Community schools in Lake Zurich, Ill. The Eau Claire school board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to accept the resignation.

In his resignation letter to the board, Schaefer said he "...has truly enjoyed being a part of the outstanding educational growth made by the Eau Claire school system."

"While I do regret leaving the Eau Claire system, the professional advancement offered by becoming superintendent of one of the recognized outstanding school systems in Illinois was an opportunity that I felt I could not afford to pass up," Dr. Schaefer said.

Girls, 16, Headed To Court

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire police said yesterday they had petitioned two 16-year-old Dowagiac girls into juvenile court in connection with the forging of at least four checks.

Chief Robert Wohler said the checks ranged from $10 to $70 and had been passed in several Eau Claire businesses March 12, 13 and 14.

According to Wohler, the girls were petitioned on a charge of uttering and publishing a bad check. Wohler said the girls were taken into custody after his department was contacted by the merchants and with cooperation of the Dowagiac police.

Wohler commended Dowagiac police for their assistance. He said several bad checks had also been passed in Dowagiac and that the Dowagiac department had petitioned the girls also.

Schaefer, 33, is presently paid $23,500 as Eau Claire superintendent. His salary at the Lake Zurich system will be $36,500 annually, he said.

The Illinois school system has 2,900 students, 180 teachers and an annual budget of $4,730,000, Schaefer said.

Eau Claire has about 1,367 students this year.

Dr. Schaefer came to Eau Claire in 1971 serving as elementary principal and administrative assistant prior to assuming the Eau Claire's superintendent post on July 1, 1975, upon the retirement of Donald McAlvey. He had been selected by the Eau Claire school board in 1974, while he was on a leave of absence from the school district, completing work on his doctorate. He has been elementary school principal three years prior to the leave.

He and his wife, Patricia, have one son, Derek.

In other business last night, the school board tabled until its next meeting a decision on whether to build a school bus garage.

School officials said a bus garage would save most or all of the present bus repair bills.

Wednesday Is Final Day To Buy '76 License Tags

By Associated Press

Michigan motorists have until midnight Wednesday to buy 1976 automobile license plates, the Secretary of State's office said. To buy plates, motorists must go to a Secretary of State's branch office bringing the mailed license plate application, proof of no-fault auto insurance and money to pay for the plates. Motorists who do not have the prepared application must prove ownership of the car by bringing in the car title or last year's registration.

Right-On-Red Becomes Legal Turn Wednesday

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Starting Wednesday, drivers can make right turns on red lights at most intersections, Michigan State Police remind motorists. The new law makes it legal for motorists to turn right on a red light after coming to a full stop. At the some 200 intersections where the turn is not allowed, there will be signs to that effect. These are intersections next to schools or major school crossings, where there are signals with special turning phases for left-turning vehicles, or where the sight distance is restricted, State Police said. Also under the new law, motorists will be able to turn left on a red light after a full stop from the proper left lane of a one-way street onto another one-way street. Supporters of the change say it will reduce traffic congestion and save motorists time and fuel.

Eau Claire School Chief Will Leave

EAU CLAIRE — Dr. William F. Schaefer III, superintendent here since July, 1975, is resigning effective May 17 to accept the superintendent's position with the Lake Zurich Community schools in Lake Zurich, Ill. The Eau Claire school board, in a special meeting last night, voted unanimously to accept the resignation.

In his resignation letter to the board, Schaefer said he "...has truly enjoyed being a part of the outstanding educational growth made by the Eau Claire school system."

"While I do regret leaving the Eau Claire system, the professional advancement offered by becoming superintendent of one of the recognized outstanding school systems in Illinois was an opportunity that I felt I could not afford to pass up," Dr. Schaefer said.

Girls, 16, Headed To Court

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire police said yesterday they had petitioned two 16-year-old Dowagiac girls into juvenile court in connection with the forging of at least four checks.

Chief Robert Wohler said the checks ranged from $10 to $70 and had been passed in several Eau Claire businesses March 12, 13 and 14.

According to Wohler, the girls were petitioned on a charge of uttering and publishing a bad check. Wohler said the girls were taken into custody after his department was contacted by the merchants and with cooperation of the Dowagiac police.

Wohler commended Dowagiac police for their assistance. He said several bad checks had also been passed in Dowagiac and that the Dowagiac department had petitioned the girls also.

Schaefer, 33, is presently paid $23,500 as Eau Claire superintendent. His salary at the Lake Zurich system will be $36,500 annually, he said.

The Illinois school system has 2,900 students, 160 teachers and an annual budget of $4,750,000, Schaefer said.

Eau Claire has about 1,367 students this year.

Dr. Schaefer came to Eau Claire in 1971 serving as elementary principal and administrative assistant prior to assuming the Eau Claire's superintendent post on July 1, 1975, upon the retirement of Donald McAlvey. He had been selected by the Eau Claire school board in 1974, while he was on a leave of absence from the school district, completing work on his doctorate. He has been elementary school principal three years prior to the leave.

He and his wife, Patricia, have one son, Derek.

In other business last night, the school board tabled until its next meeting a decision on whether to build a school bus garage.

DR. WILLIAM F. SCHAEFER III
Resigns

which have amounted to $17,593 for the district's 16 buses so far this school year.

On Dean's List

KALAMAZOO — Sandra Rach, the 1975 valedictorian at Berrien Springs high school, has been named to the dean's list at Parsons Business School here with a 3.9 academic average. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rach, Linco road, Berrien Springs.

Wednesday Is Final Day To Buy '76 License Tags

By Associated Press

Michigan motorists have until midnight Wednesday to buy 1976 automobile license plates, the Secretary of State's office said. To buy plates, motorists must go to a Secretary of State's branch office bringing the mailed license plate application, proof of no-fault auto insurance and money to pay for the plates. Motorists who do not have the prepared application must prove ownership of the car by bringing in the car title or last year's registration.

Hoosiers National Champs!

By KEN RAPPOPORT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Indiana Hoosiers dashed Michigan's hopes for the national basketball championship Monday night with a business-like 86-68 victory over the Wolverines in the NCAA finals.

Bitterly disappointed Michigan Coach Johnny Orr, whose Wolverines had led the Hoosiers at halftime, 35-29, said his team "just got tired" in the closing moments.

"We just couldn't get the running game going in the second half," said Rickey Green, Michigan's high scorer with 18 points. "They were making their shots and we couldn't get the rebounds. We've got to get the rebounds to run. I think we ran pretty well in the first half and that was the difference."

Orr, who almost beat Indiana during the regular season, found the Hoosiers much stronger in their third meeting — in fact, downright indestructible in the second half.

"They played a great second half," noted Orr. "I don't know what else we could have done."

Indiana's brightness didn't shine until after the Hoosiers were hit by adversity. Bobby Wilkerson, one of the few starting guards in the country at 6-foot-7, suffered a concussion in the early going and had to be carried from the court on a stretcher.

"When Bobby got hurt we knew we had to go at it tougher," said Indiana guard Quinn Buckner. "Bobby's a big part of our team. We did go at it."

Actually, the Hoosiers didn't really "go at it" until after the start of the second half. The Wolverines kept ahead of their Big Ten colleagues with a brilliant fast break and by intermission, led by six points.

Kent Benson, a blond giant with a pacifist temperament off the court and a killer instinct on, said "I was a little tight in the first half. I knew I had to take the ball stronger to the hoop in the second half. It was just a matter of gathering myself."

Benson pulled himself together in the second half — and in the process, pulled Michigan apart. The All-American center took charge of things, scoring 15 of his 25 points and collecting six of his nine rebounds.

With the help of their tower of strength, the Hoosiers went from a 51-51 tie with 10:15 left in a 73-68 lead at the 3:31 mark. Indiana only had to run out the clock after that overpowering 22-8 burst.

Scott May also had a high-powered second half for Indiana, scoring 18 of his game-high 26 points and pulling down all of his eight rebounds.

The splendid season 32-0 season for Indiana matched the 32-0 perfection of North Carolina in 1957, the best undefeated record in NCAA history.

"For two years, this (NCAA championship) has been our objective," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "Not just this year, but for two years these kids have worked hard — and no one knows how hard any better than I do."

The Wolverines, who went into Monday night's game ranked ninth nationally, finish the season 25-7.

The Hoosiers survived several pitfalls on the road to the championship — including a mild mid-season slump that relegated Buckner to the bench. During this time, they struggled to beat Michigan twice by close scores — 80-74 and 72-67 in overtime.

"I had my troubles in mid-season," said Buckner. "But I just kept trying. You've got to work harder when that happens, that's all."

Despite what Buckner called "peaks and valleys," Indiana made it through the Big Ten season undefeated, a performance Orr called "unbelievable."

The Hoosiers, playing in one of the toughest regional tournaments in NCAA history, defeated St. John's, Alabama and Marquette to win the Midwest and advance to the gold-plated Final Four in Philadelphia.

"It was very physical all through the Big Ten and just as physical in the regionals," pointed out Indiana strongman Benson. "It was as physical as I can remember."

UCLA's Bruins, the defending champions, presented no problem to peaking Indiana in Saturday's semifinals at the Spectrum. The Hoosiers, who had beaten UCLA by a shocking 20 points on opening day, handled them with almost as much ease the second time.

For a change, Benson and Player of the Year Scott May took a backseat to two lesser lights — Tom Abernethy and Wilkerson. Abernethy scored 14 points and shut down UCLA's Richard Washington and Wilkerson grabbed a career-high 19 rebounds. And Indiana won, 63-51.

While the Big Ten champions were disposing of tall and talented UCLA, Michigan was laboring Rutgers. Indiana's Big Ten colleagues handed the Scarlet Knights their first defeat of the season after 31 victories, 86-70, and set up a unique NCAA finale. It was the first time in NCAA playoff history that two teams from the same conference met in the championship game.

"It'll probably be the last time in our lifetime that we ever see something like this again," said Orr. "Take a good look at it."

Kent Benson MVP

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kent Benson, the Most Valuable player of the 1976 National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship, might best be described as a Dave Cowens in a college uniform.

The 6-foot-11 Benson bulls to the basket and seems to have a nose for the ball, just like Cowens, the star center of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

Benson, a 245-pounder with the moves of a guard, scored 25 points, grabbed nine rebounds and handed out two assists as he muscled the unbeaten Indiana Hoosiers to the national collegiate basketball championship.

Indiana crushed Michigan 86-68 Monday night, and both winning Coach Bobby Knight and loser Johnny Orr put the finger on Benson as the major difference between the two Big Ten rivals.

Benson, a junior from New Castle, Ind., didn't allow a little thing like a cast on his left wrist to deter him. He's been playing with torn ligaments, and has plans for an operation during the off season.

And to hear Knight tell it, Benson has yet to reach his peak.

Benson said. "I was a little tight in the first half. I knew I had to take the ball stronger to the hoop. I had to do my job rebounding and defending."

Then, Benson provided the understatement of the night. "I guess I just played harder in the second half," he noted.

Benson credits God with his development as the best center in college basketball.

"Coach Knight helped me considerably, but everything I've done goes back to my faith in Jesus Christ. I played tonight (Monday) not for myself, or for my teammates, but for the glory of God. I get my emotional energies from Jesus Christ. He's my only audience. I try to play for him."

Michigan Ran Out Of Steam

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Michigan knows it for sure now — three strikes and you're out.

"We made a great effort," said Wolverine Coach Johnny Orr Monday night after the Indiana Hoosiers had snatched his hopes for a national championship at the NCAA playoffs.

"There is no question Indiana is No. 1," Orr said. "We are proud to have lost in one hell of a basketball team...they're damn good. I'll tell you that."

Indiana won 86-68 as Michigan ran out of steam with 10 minutes to go, and began backing off from the boards because of foul trouble.

"They were getting the shots, and we were fouling them before the ball dropped in," Orr said, "and they just wore us down."

Wayman Britt, a senior forward and one of Michigan's captains who fouled out, said he was not crying sour grapes but, "I thought maybe the refs could have called a better game. They hit us with some cheap fouls that gave Indiana the confidence it needed."

Orr said his club built a 35-29 halftime edge with a superlative running attack and then "just got tired. They (Indiana) became more aggressive."

"I'm not satisfied when I lose, but I am satisfied with the team effort. The players tried, but their performance wasn't as good as Indiana's."

Forward John Robinson said, "The key to our game is rebounding, and when we stopped doing it in the second half, it really hurt."

Steve Grote, another key guard, said Michigan's first half was its best effort of the year against Indiana. "I couldn't believe how easily we ran the offense," Grote said. "But they killed us in the second half. I'd say this was the first time they really beat us. The others were close."

In two regular-season games, the Hoosiers had beaten Michigan 80-74 and then 72-67 in overtime.

"I just wished it had went our way," said Britt, the lone senior in the starting five. There's only one other graduating player on the club, which Orr thinks will be back in the NCAA playoffs again next year.

"My goal is to win the national championship," Orr said. "I'm optimistic. I think we'll get the chance."

Now, just about any steel belted radial cured in a standard sectional mold will probably perform better than one that was not. However, every Pirelli Cinturato CN76 steel belted radial is cured in a patented two piece sectional mold, which is even more precise than the standard type. And then every one is X-ray inspected, just to be on the safe side. # Tigers Blast White Sox In Doubleheader

Bare, Laxton Team For No-Hitter

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the State of Michigan, there was some good news out of Florida to go with the bad news from Philadelphia Monday night, which is the route you might expect Florida-Philadelphia news to go.

While the University of Michigan Wolverines were winding down the basketball season by bowing to Indiana in the national championship game, the Detroit Tigers prepared for the upcoming baseball season by sweeping a pair of seven-inning games from the Chicago White Sox, 6-3 and 1-0.

And the nightcap produced a near-perfect no-hitter by Ray Bare and Billy Laxton while most of the sports writers in the press box at Lakeland, Fla.,

were watching the basketball on television.

Bare hurled five innings and only one Chicagoan reached base when shortstop Tom Veryzer committed a throwing error on Alan Bannister's third-inning grounder. Bannister was rubbed out attempting to steal and Billy Laxton finished up with two perfect rounds.

The good news-bad news syndrome also hit the Boston Red Sox camp. Cecil Cooper hit a two-run homer and Bill Lee pitched five scoreless innings in a 5-1 decision over the Houston Astros. But Jim Rice spiked himself in the left ankle trying to make a diving catch.

Rice, who missed the 1975 playoffs and World Series with a broken wrist, suffered a deep puncture and needed three stitches. Trainer Charlie Moss said the slugging outfielder would be out for two or three days barring complications.

Texas' Jeff Burroughs raised his spring average to .500 with three singles and a three-run homer in the Rangers' 12-7 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

Dan Sutton, rumored bound for the Mets in a swap for Tom Seaver, allowed one run and six hits in seven innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers bowed to the Montreal Expos 3-2 on Bomba Rivera's ninth-inning pinch double.

Ex-Dodger Jimmy Wynn hit his first spring homer, a three-run shot that helped the Atlanta Braves defeat the winless Mets 8-1.

Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a homer and single in a seven-run third inning that lifted the St. Louis Cardinals over the Cincinnati Reds 11-4. Brent Strom and Bill Greif combined on a five-hitter and Willie Davis and Dave Winfield homered to lead the San Diego Padres over the Cleveland Indians 7-0.

The Oakland A's posted their first spring triumph, downing the Chicago Cubs 8-4 as Bill North collected a single, double, triple and four RBI. Chris Arnold, trying to win his way back onto the San Francisco roster, belted a grand slam homer to help the Giants beat the Milwaukee Brewers 9-3.

The New York Yankees turned back the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 on 14th-inning RBI singles by Willie Randolph and Fred Stanley. Another hand of Phillies bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-1 as Bill Robinson slugged a three-run homer.

Phil Ruff hit a two-run homer as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles 8-5 and the California Angels manged only three hits off a trio of collegians and bowed to UCLA 2-1 in 10 innings.

NL Fighting AL's Toronto Addition

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The National League, unable to agree on expansion, has asked Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to block the American League from putting a new franchise in Toronto next season.

"We'd like him to hold off on American League expansion," said Chub Feeney, National League president, after a four-hour meeting Monday in which the 10 owners in favor of expansion failed to sway Cincinnati and Philadelphia, which are opposed. A unanimous vote is required.

"That's very interesting," said an American League spokesman when advised of the NL action, "but we have no further comment."

"Unless Kuhn steps into the picture, the National League will remain at 12 teams in 1977 while the American League jumps to 14 with expansion franchises in Seattle and Toronto. Such a move apparently would leave Washington, D.C., out in the cold and might put baseball in hot water if certain members of Congress decide to press the point. Kuhn has been politicking for expansion to the nation's capital.

The AL, which needed only nine affirmative votes to expand, beat the NL to Toronto last week.

Feeney said the following resolution was forwarded to Kuhn:

"Resolved that the commissioner be advised that the National League clubs wish him to consider the failure of the NL Toronto-Washington, D.C., expansion plan by a 10-2 vote in light of the best interest of baseball and that he is requested to take such action as may appear to him to be appropriate and in the best interests of baseball with regard to such subject."

"It puts him in a helluva spot," said Charles Bronfman, board chairman of the Montreal Expos. "It suggests he take the voice of 10 and use his powers in the best interest of baseball and go along with the National League."

Gymnats' Gail Benton Takes First

Gail Benton of the Southwest Michigan Gymnats took first in floor exercise in the Michigan Association of Gymnastics state qualifying meet over the weekend in Ludington.

Benton, who competed in the elite and under class, also shared third in the vault with teammate Marie Finch.

Finch qualified in all events. She was third in beam, sixth in all-around, sixth in floor exercise and fourth on the parallel bars.

Becky Leedy also took ninth in floor exercise in the elite and under division while moving on to the state meet April 24 in Grand Rapids.

Others placing were Laura Woodrick, Svetlana Schreiber, Kim Edwards and Terry Bohanek.

In the 15 and over class, Woodrick was ninth in all-around and 10th in vault while Schreiber took ninth in vault.

Edwards was ninth on the balance beam in the 12-14 division, and Bohanek was sixth in all-around, fourth in vault, fifth in floor exercise, eighth on the beam and ninth on the uneven bars in the 10-11 class.

'Hunted' Boston Favorite In AL East

NEW YORK (AP) — In the age-old tradition of every team that ever made a draft pick, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks selected "the best players available" as the National Football League stocked its 27th and 28th teams today.

Those available may have included some familiar names made expendable by age, salary or a combination of the two.

League officials were on hand to supply pertinent information on factors such as salaries and bonus arrangements in the contracts of possible draft choices as the two teams began making their selections.

There were reports that such veterans as linebackers Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards of Dallas, running back Essex Johnson of Cincinnati, offensive linemen Joe Schell and Charlie Cowan of Los Angeles, quarterback Len Dawson and former All-Pro receiver Otis Taylor of Kansas City, all-longtime NFL performers, would be on the lists of players eligible for selection by the new teams.

But the draft carried a standard warning of caveat emptor — "let the buyer beware."

If Tampa Bay or Seattle chose a player coming off the injured reserve list who cannot perform or a veteran who chooses to retire instead of moving to a new team, they're stuck.

That's why officials of the two clubs sifted carefully through the draft lists supplied to them by the league at noon EST Monday. They had 12 hours to study the names before Seattle made the opening expansion selection at 9 a.m. EST today.

The two new teams were to choose 38 players each, with each of the 26 established NFL teams losing three men in the draft. Each time a team lost a player, it was permitted to add another player to its protected list. Going into the draft, the 26 established teams were permitted to protect 32 players — 30 from their active rosters and

NFL Holding Expansion Draft Today

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — As the defending American League champions, the Boston Red Sox figure to be the hunted rather than the hunter in the East Division.

"Everyone will be gunning for us, but it's kind of nice to be chased instead of doing the chasing," Manager Darrell Johnson said with cautious optimism.

Just a year ago, the Red Sox were picked to finish no better than third, behind the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees. They surprised everyone by holding off Baltimore, sweeping Oakland three straight in the championship playoffs and then taking Cincinnati down to the wire in the World Series.

"We became a good solid ball club last year, and we're even better this year," Johnson said. "For one thing, we'll have Carlton Fisk from the start. Then we helped ourselves by getting Ferguson Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner, and a left-handed reliever, Tom House."

Johnson shies away from predicting another pennant. However, he says: "If I were a fan, I probably would think we'd win again."

After fighting on virtually even terms with Cincinnati before bowing to the Reds in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series last October, the Red Sox are loaded with confidence.

"Barring injuries, there's no reason we shouldn't do it again," says captain Carl Yastrzemski as he prepares for his 10th season in Boston.

The Red Sox are loaded with talent at just about every position, with the only possible weakness being a capable backup shortstop for Rick Burleson.

Fisk, plagued by injuries during his career, is in top shape and being counted upon to play 135 or 140 games. He appeared in only 79 games last season, but hit .331 with 10 homers and 52 runs batted in. Yastrzemski is set at first with Cecil Cooper or deon Johnson ready to give him a rest when needed. Veterans Doug Griffin and Denny Doyle, acquired from California last June, probably will share the second base job. Rico Petrocelli is set at third and Burleson all short.

The Red Sox boast one of the top outfields in baseball. Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, who combined for more than 300 RBIs last season, could be even better. And Dwight Evans is on the brink of stardom. Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller are looking for more work.

Jenkins and House join a proven pitching staff. Jenkins will be in a starting rotation with Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee. Reggie Cleveland and Dick Pole are counted upon for both starting and relief duty.

Jim Willoughby, acquired last July, will be No. 1 right-handed reliever. Southpaw Jim Burton will help House in the left-handed relief department.

Bowling Champs Crowned

Lelia Roberts has claimed the singles title and Bonnie Probst and Nancy Johnson have captured doubles honors in the Southwestern Michigan Women's Bowling Association city tournament.

Roberts rolled a 681 in the handicap event at Lakeshore Lanes. The doubles champs had a 1270, including a 443 by Johnson and a 633 by Probst.

The team portion of the tournament starts this weekend at Theo's Lanes.

Following Roberts in the final singles standings were Rebecca Schramm 677, Sandra Clay 688, Marianne Shelby 658, Betty Fender 657, Deb Sisk 654, Mary Bell Smith 653, Eleanor Hoge 652, Pat Macholtz 652, Marian Deja 647 and Janice Junatzke 647.

Shelby also has the tournament's high game, a handicap 271. The high scratch singles series is a 581 by Carol Pender.

ten behind Probst-Johnston are Sharon Jones-Deborah Boldt 1283, Bonnie McDonald-Mary Payne 1249, Winnie Smith-Becky Ferega 1245, Jean Morgan-Virginia Johnson 1244, Jean Kison-Terril Haven 1244, Melba Lewis-Linda Beckwith 1241, Opal Ecker-Shirley Lewis 1240, Dorothy Dinges-Elsie Niedlinger 1238 and Sue Moser-Virginia Hammond 1231.

The high scratch doubles score was a 1000 by Barbara Hersh (541) and Janitta Blesser (517).

League officials were on hand to supply pertinent information on factors such as salaries and bonus arrangements in the contracts of possible draft choices as the two teams began making their selections.

There were reports that such veterans as linebackers Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards of Dallas, running back Essex Johnson of Cincinnati, offensive linemen Joe Scibelli and Charlie Cowan of Los Angeles, quarterback Len Dawson and former All-Pro receiver Otis Taylor of Kansas City, all longtime NFL performers, would be on the lists of players eligible for selection by the new teams.

But the draft carried a standard warning of caveat emptor — "let the buyer beware."

If Tampa Bay or Seattle chose a player coming off the injured reserve list who cannot perform or a veteran who chooses to retire instead of moving to a new team, they're stuck.

That's why officials of the two clubs sifted carefully through the draft lists supplied to them by the league at noon EST Monday. They had 21 hours to study the names before Seattle made the opening expansion selection at 9 a.m. EST today.

The two new teams were to choose 39 players each, with each of the 26 established NFL teams losing three men in the draft. Each time a team lost a player, it was permitted to add another player to its protected list. Going into the draft, the 26 established teams were permitted to protect 32 players — 30 from their active rosters and

NFL Holding Expansion Draft Today

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — As the defending American League champions, the Boston Red Sox figure to be the hunted rather than the hunter as the favorite to repeat in the East Division.

"Everyone will be gunning for us, but it's kind of nice to be chased instead of doing the chasing," Manager Darrell Johnson said with cautious optimism.

Just a year ago, the Red Sox were picked to finish no better than third, behind the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees. They surprised everyone by holding off Baltimore, sweeping Oakland three straight in the championship playoffs and then taking Cincinnati down to the wire in the World Series.

"We became a good solid ball club last year, and we're even better this year," Johnson said. "For one thing, we'll have Carlton Fisk from the start. Then we helped ourselves by getting Ferguson Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner, and a left-handed reliever, Tom House."

Johnson shies away from predicting another pennant. However, he says: "If I were a fan, I probably would think we'd win again."

After fighting on virtually even terms with Cincinnati before bowing to the Reds in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series last October, the Red Sox are loaded with confidence.

"Barring injuries, there's no reason we shouldn't do it again," says captain Carl Yastrzemski as he prepares for his 16th season in Boston.

The Red Sox are loaded with talent at just about every position, with the only possible weakness being a capable backup shortstop for Rick Burleson.

Fisk, plagued by injuries during his career, is in top shape and being counted upon to play 135 or 140 games. He appeared in only 79 games last season, but hit .331 with 10 homers and 52 runs batted in.

Yastrzemski is set at first with Cecil Cooper or deron Johnson ready to give him a rest when needed. Veterans Doug Griffin and Denny Doyle, acquired from California last June, probably will share the second base job. Rico Petrocelli is set at third and Burleson at short.

The Red Sox boast one of the top outfielders in baseball. Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, who combined for more than 200 RBI as rookies, could be even better. And Dwight Evans is on the brink of stardom. Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller are looking for more work.

Jenkins and House join a proven pitching staff. Jenkins will be in a starting rotation with Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee. Reggie Cleveland and Dick Pole are counted upon for both starting and relief duty.

Jim Willoughby, acquired last July, will be No. 1 right-handed reliever. Southpaw Jim Burton will help House in the left-handed relief department.

Bowling Champs Crowned

Leila Robards has claimed the singles title and Bonnie Probst and Nancy Johnson have captured doubles honors in the Southwestern Michigan Women's Bowling Association city tournament.

Robards rolled a 681 in the handicap event at Lakeshore Lanes. The doubles champs had a 1276, including a 643 by Johnston and a 633 by Probst.

The team portion of the tournament starts this weekend at Theo's Lanes.

Following Robards in the final singles standings were Rebecca Schramm 675, Sandrus Clay 668, Marianne Shelby 658, Bette Ender 657, Deb Sisk 654, Mary Bell Smith 653, Eleanor Hoge 652, Pat Macholtz 652, Marian Deja 647 and Janice Jonatke 647.

Shelby also has the tournament's high game, a handicap 271. The high scratch singles series is a 581 by Carol Fender.

ten behind Probst-Johnston are Sharon Jones-Delores Boldt 1263, Bonnie McDonald-Mary Payne 1249, Wilma Smith-Becky Ferega 1245, Jean Morgan-Virginia Johnson 1244, Jean Kasun-Terri Hazen 1244, Melba Lewis-Linda Beckwith 1241, Opal Ecker-Shirley Lewis 1240, Dorothy Dinges-Elsie Niedlinger 1236 and Sue Moser-Virginia Hammond 1231.

The high scratch doubles score was a 1060 by Barbara Hersh (543) and Juanita Blosser (517).

Allegan Pike Marshes Set

Fry Going In Miner, Hutchins Lakes

Pike marshes on Miner and Hutchins Lakes in Allegan county are slated to receive plants of 100,000 and 50,000 northern fry, respectively, within a couple of weeks.

The fish will be in the marshes four to six weeks, depending on how the food supply holds up. They will then be released into the main lakes as fingerlings, hopefully at a length of about three inches.

The Allegan pike plants are part of a Department of Natural Resources program for southern Lower Michigan (Region III) which will involve about 1.5 million northerns.

DNR workers hope to reach the 1.5 million goal from about four million eggs now being hatched at the Wolf Lake Fish Hatchery in Van Buren county.

The eggs were taken from pike netted from a Barry county lake.

The DNR had obtained their pike eggs in the past from southern Michigan rivers, including the Kalamazoo, but that has been abandoned because of a fry dieoff from the river source, a problem tentatively blamed on high levels of PCB's (an industrial pollutant) in the fish.

Meanwhile, the DNR is now setting nets to obtain eggs for its muskie program.

Most of the eggs have come from the east side of the state in the past, but because the muskie effort is being geared up, additional eggs are now needed. So the DNR is netting Bankson Lake in Van Buren county in an effort to obtain mature muskies.

Audubon's Bird Tally Range Big

The National Audubon Society's annual Christmas Bird Count this winter covered the biggest high-low spread of its 76-year history.

At the top of the list, 11,703 birds of 213 species were sighted in Calexico, Mexico, while at the other end a frost-bitten crew from Point Barrow, at the northernmost tip of Alaska, couldn't find a single bird.

The '75-'76 results of the biggest event of the birders' season are still unofficial; more than 26,000 participants organized into 1148 "count areas" (circles of 15-mile diameter) are involved, and the massive job of checking and editing this data for publication in the April issue of the Society's ornithological magazine, "American Birds," is not yet complete. But it is highly unlikely any recount can nose out Calexico — and there is no way of coming in lower than Point Barrow.

Count areas are organized wherever qualified teams can be put together, from Alaska and Canada as far south as Venezuela, and the teams list the numbers of all the birds they can find of each species during one calendar day during the Christmas holiday season.

Counts in the Far North aren't always as sparse as Point Barrow's empty sheet indicates; some of the other Alaskan teams this winter reported more than 50 different species. But generally it is true that many birds head south for the winter and that therefore count teams in the warmer climes tend to find more species.

Highest count in the United States this year, according to the unofficial figures, was compiled in the Freeport, Tex., area: 216 species. Farther north in the U.S., a hundred species would be a most respectable number, whereas south of the border the teams are pushing toward 300. In the previous year's count, total of almost 80 million birds were tallied, representing 603 species.

Fish, Wildlife Survey Starts

A National Wildlife Recreational Survey to determine how many people participate in outdoor activities related to wildlife is underway. Interior's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced.

The survey, the fifth in a series that began in 1935, will collect telephone interviews from more than 100,000 households in all 50 States. The interviews will be conducted by a professional opinion research company and will be gathered in communities varying in size from the largest urban centers to the smallest rural areas. Those interviewed will be asked to speak for their household in answer to such questions as whether any household members have hunted or fished in recent years, have engaged in recreational (target) shooting, or have been active in wildlife photography.

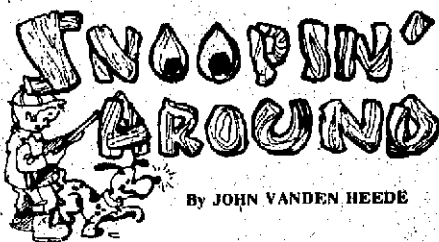

Just as past surveys have, the present survey will obtain a broad range of information that will be extremely valuable to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and to state fish and game directors in managing wildlife resources.

Orienteering Meet Slated

The sixth National Orienteering Championships will be hosted by the Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo Orienteering Club on May 1 and 2.

Interested persons should contact Idolina van Staveren, Goldsworth Valley Apt. R-1, Kalamazoo, Mich. 49008.

Orienteering is the art of navigating over unfamiliar terrain with the use of a topographic map and compass.

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

The American Salmon Derby is no longer a one-sided contest. This year's derby is expanding to Lake Michigan's western shoreline, after being limited in just the east shore through its first four years.

"We've cut the derby into two zones this year through the efforts of some hard-working people in Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin," states Derby chairman Terry Mack of Ludington.

"In the area we call zone one, which goes from the south at Waukegan, Ill., to the north at Algoma, Wis., we'll be holding a $25,000 contest from July 18 through the 25th. And in zone two, from Aug. 28 through Sept. 8, the Labor Day weekend again, we'll have our $25,000 contest with Burns Harbor, Ind., on the south to Onekama on the north."

Mack says that the move to include the western side of Lake Michigan in the contest was prompted through efforts of a number of sportfishermen, plus a desire to "do something for our friends around Lake Michigan."

The derby, which also includes a $5,000 trout contest in zone two during the June 12-July 10 period, will actually have over $35,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds and merchandise prizes... items like downriggers, fish smokers, depth gauges and other fishing tackle.

The prize list in both $25,000 salmon contests include the $10,000 first prize, $2,500 for the second largest, $1,500 for the third, $1,000 for fourth and a $500 bond to the fifth largest salmon.

In the trout contest, which includes all trout, it's $1,000 for the largest, $750 for runnerup, $500 for third and $250 for fourth, plus 10 $50 bonds weekly for five weeks to the 10 heaviest trout of the week weighed in.

The winner of the $10,000 first prize in the salmon contest last year was 49-year-old Mrs. Dorothy Runney of Grand Haven... the first woman to ever win the contest.

Mack says a lie detector will again be used to protect against possible cheating.

"Everyone who enters the derby agrees to take the lie detector test if we want it given to them," Mack explains. "Naturally, we only do it for prize winners and sometimes there is enough verification where we don't have to give it. But we have eliminated a couple of attempts to cash in on prizes, major prizes, through the tests along with our investigations. This contest will be run fairly and squarely."

Fishermen wishing to participate in the derby can realize savings through early registration. Before June 12, anglers will be able to enter all three contests for the price of one.

To purchase tickets, send $10 payable to American Salmon Derby, along with self-addressed stamped envelope to: American Salmon Derby, Inc., P.O. Box 70, Ludington, Mich. 49431.

Long Winter Hard On Some Whitetails

The spring thaw is underway in Michigan's North Woods deer country, but the long winter is believed to have already created hardships on the whitetails.

Department of Natural Resources deer specialist Dave Arnold reported that there was still almost two feet of snow on the ground in some areas last week.

"By way of contrast, the snow was almost gone from the major portion of the northern deer range at this time last year and pretty much so in the last three years," noted Arnold.

"There's still a lot of winter north of Houghton Lake, where our winter severity index is the highest in five years. In the Upper Peninsula, the index is above 100 already."

The DNR says index levels above 100 in the Upper Peninsula are "critical." Biologist record snow depth, wind chill factors and hourly temperatures (throughout the winter) to arrive at the index. Northern Lower Peninsula index levels are in the mid-70's, the highest since 1971.

Arnold says a few reports of deer starvation have come from DNR biologists, in the field, primarily in Alcona, Gladwin and Wexford counties in the western Upper Peninsula, but states that it is too early to assess the damage to the herd in general.

As usual, deer in southern Lower Michigan suffered very little winter hardships.

Conservation officers report that dogs are claiming more deer than starvation. Mio district law chief Bernie Morgan reported one incident where eight deer were found killed in one day. A single pack of dogs was thought responsible.

Fishing Report

Southwestern Michigan fishermen will soon be springing into action on all fronts.

Sucker dip-netting starts Thursday on area rivers. Smelt should also be coming in soon along the area's Lake Michigan shoreline. And out on the Big Lake, trolling for salmon should soon be in full swing.

Meanwhile, steelhead fishing on the St. Joseph River is almost over for this spring, according to St. Joseph charter boat captain Ken Neidlinger.

Neidlinger says many of the fish have spawned and are returning to Lake Michigan.

Housing Endangered Species Refuges Playing Landlord

Playing landlord to 44 different birds and animals on the brink of extinction is a tough task for 138 national wildlife refuge managers in 39 states.

The biggest challenge is faced by the joint management of the Hanalei and the Hawaiian Islands National Wildlife Refuges in Hawaii. Between them they host eight endangered species, including four on the Hawaiian Islands Refuge — the Laysan duck, Laysan finch, Nihoa finch and Nihoa miller.

bird. They are found nowhere else in the world.

"Two refuges in Florida come next, with each hosting six endangered species. Merritt Island National Refuge on the Kennedy Space Center is home to concentrations of the Florida manatee, the alligator, the southern bald eagle, the brown pelican, the dusky seaside sparrow and the American peregrine falcon. The National Key Deer Refuge is the home of the endangered Key deer, the smallest of all forms of the whitetailed deer. Alligators and manatees also inhabit the refuge, which is also visited regularly by southern bald eagles, brown pelicans and American peregrine falcons.

Thirteen other refuges in Florida, Maryland, South Carolina, Texas and California also face multiple wildlife management challenges because of either four or five endangered species being dependent on each.

Some, like the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas, protect vital wintering habitat for nationally symbolic endangered migratory birds such as the whooping crane. More than 50 national wildlife refuges support southern bald eagles each winter.

The red-cockaded woodpecker is a year-around resident on nine refuges in the Southeastern United States.

A long-term forestry planting plan has been put into effect in Maryland to provide nest trees for the Delmarva fox squirrel. Nesting trees for bald eagles are marked and protected from cutting on 50 national wildlife refuges.

The needs of endangered species are given first consideration in decisions regarding manipulation of the aquatic environment. For example, the Florida everglade kite, found on the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge in Florida, is dependent upon one animal — the apple snail — for food. Experiments are presently being conducted to determine how water management and fertilizer applications can enhance production of this particular snail. The management of two paddies on the Hanalei National Wildlife Refuge is conducted especially for the Hawaiian still, Hawaiian gallinule, Hawaiian oot and the Hawaiian duck.

In Michigan, the Fish and Wildlife Service lists the Seney refuge as home for the endangered American peregrine falcon and the Eastern timber wolf.

Court Rules State's Ethics Law Technically Invalid

and
SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writers

Issues.

On a 5-2 vote, the court ruled the law was technically invalid because it attempted to include too many things in one act.

The court did not rule on nine other issues dealing with the substance of the controversial law, adopted last year after long and heated political debate in a post-Watergate attempt to reform Michigan politics.

The court's opinion was requested by the House as the bill was passed.

The first question dealt with the technical validity of including campaign spending and donation rules, lobbyist regula-tional, partial public funding of gubernatorial elections and financial disclosure all in the same bill.

The court said the new law violated a constitutional provision which states that "no law shall embrace more than one object."

Voting to rule the law unconstitutional were Justices G. Mennen Williams, Mary Coleman, John Fitzgerald, Lawrence Lindemer and James Ryan.

Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh and Justice Charles Levin disagreed, saying all aspects of the bill could constitutionally be contained in one law. Levin, Kavanagh and Ryan voted to return the whole matter to the legislature, but the others voted to issue another opinion later on the remaining nine issues requested by the House.

The court said it was exactly this type of wide-ranging law which prompted the drafters of the Constitution to include such a requirement. And it noted that the whole law must fall because of the deficiency.

The court said it could not "engage in idle speculation" whether the legislature would have enacted separate laws had it divided the issues among several bills.

"Some of the concepts sought to be obtained by the enactment have no necessary connection with each other," the majority opinion said. "For example, the creation of a state campaign fund for gubernatorial candidates is foreign to and incongruous with regulation of lobbying activities; the financial disclosure provisions aimed at preventing unethical conduct are foreign to and incongruous with the organization of a campaign committee."

"The tying together of these diverse sections resulted in the legislature being confronted by an all-or-nothing dilemma to which the framers of the Constitution directed their attention."

"This court is mindful of the worthy purpose and high motivation of the legislature and the proponents of the act," the court said.

But, it added, the test was one of constitutionality, not policy, and "on that test, the act must fall."

Justices Kavanagh and Levin dissented, however, said "To regulate the political activity of candidates, electors, appointed and elected public officials, lobbyists and others is one object."

Quoting an 1880 state Supreme Court opinion, Kavanagh and Levin implied that requiring separate laws to accomplish the regulation of political activity would "not only be senseless but would actually render legislation impossible."

"The (majority opinion) poses more questions than it answers" and "will encourage costly and time-consuming litigation" by not specifying which of the act's five major goals can be legally included together in law, said Kavanagh and Levin.

While the majority opinion found it "foreign and incongruous" to tie together the creation of a state gubernatorial campaign fund with the regulation of lobbyists, Kavanagh and Levin said that is not any more foreign and incongruous than tying together no-fault automobile liability with fire insurance as does the Insurance Code.

The Political Ethics Law, they said, is a codification like the state Penal Code and Uniform Commercial Code.

"The object of a codification, like a mosaic, is many-faceted," they said.

The court's ruling apparently leaves Michigan operating under its old campaign laws, which are so broad as to be nonexistent, according to many experts.

But one legislative staff member said the state might be under an earlier ethics law which was enacted but preempted by the law struck down Monday.

That earlier law covered only campaign financing, however, and not the other issues addressed by the latest bill. Passage of the ethics act came after two years of attempting to regulate campaign financing.

It was passed only after a citizens' lobby, Common Cause, threatened to campaign for an even tougher measure to be placed on the ballot. Fearing likely stricter regulation by a public vote, the legislature thrashed out the final bill.

During its debate, some observers speculated that lawmakers would attempt to make the law unconstitutional so it would be struck down and they could operate under the old system. But the constitutionality of each provision — including the sweeping approach of one bill — was debated.

The law provided for partial public funding of gubernatorial campaigns; limits on campaign donations and expenditures; and requirements that officeholders and candidates disclose their financial interests — although not the dollar amounts.

It also required lobbyists to register and disclose their spending; and set up an ethics commission to administer the law and rule on complaints.

The law was due to take effect Wednesday, but an Ingham County Circuit Court judge already had blocked enforcement of the reporting requirements for 40 days to give the ethics commission time to get set up.

Some Feel Bill Dead This Year

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Disappointment on one hand and glee and relief on the other greeted the state Supreme Court's ruling Monday that Michigan's political ethics law is unconstitutional.

"There's a collective sigh of relief around the legislature," House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne, R-Manistee, said.

State Republican officials and legislators greeted the action as a chance to rewrite the parts of the bill they don't like without any time pressure.

But Democratic officials and citizens lobby spokesmen said the legislation should be rewritten quickly to meet the technical questions of constitutionality.

Gov. William Milliken called for an immediate reassembling of the law's "elements of reform" so they would be in place for this year's elections.

"The people of Michigan—including public officials and candidates—should know under what ground rules they will be operating in the 1976 elections," Milliken said.

"We must not lose the momentum for reform," he said, calling the law "an important landmark in the field of election reform despite this setback," which he said should be temporary and brief.

Lawmakers, however, generally agreed the measure was dead for this year. Some indicated it may not be reworked in the current session, which ends at the end of 1976.

The legislature began working on the law last year after the citizens group Common Cause threatened to take the issue to the voters if lawmakers ignored it.

The high court's ruling erased months of work and put Michigan back under the old law, which justices said is so broad as to be meaningless.

The Supreme Court majority opinion said the law tried to cover too many areas and thus violated the constitutional requirement that it cover only one subject.

"We're certainly disappointed," Democratic State Chairman Morley Wingard said. He said his understanding was that the court "did not object to the substance of political reform. We would certainly hope some constitutionally acceptable method of accomplishing that could be done."

But he said he thought it would be "difficult" to have the legislation rewritten and passed in time for the November general election.

State Republican Party Chairman Willis McLaughlin applauded the Supreme Court ruling. "I hope we will use the rest of this year to now give good thought without intense pressures to write a real political reform law in this state," he said.

He said he thinks the financial disclosure provisions went too far.

"Obviously many hundreds, maybe thousands of public officials were ready to resign," he said.

McLaughlin said he also disagreed with a section that requires the governor to choose the members of the Political Ethics Commission, which would have overseen the law through nominations by legislative leaders. He said the governor should have complete control over who is appointed.

Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, said he was "saddened" and has instructed his staff to look at ways to re-enact the law in accordance with the Supreme Court ruling.

House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison, said of the ruling, "I'm put off by it because of the work that went into it. A lot of us put ourselves on the line for it."

"It's going to be extremely difficult to get it passed again this session before we break for the summer."

House Minority Leader Robert Davis, R-Gaylord said he was pleased.

"I think now we'll be able to go back and look at political reform in all aspects in a very rational manner without the threat of Common Cause and other groups who really pressured the legislature into taking action," Davis said.

House Minority Leader Cawthorne said one good thing about the decision is that "the legislature will now be able to sit down away from the white heat of Watergate and write a much more workable bill."

Doug Ross, co-director of the Michigan Citizens Lobby, was executive director of Common Cause when the political reform bill went through the legislature.

"Sure, there might be an attempt to change it," he said. "There never was anything you could characterize as a consensus."

Ross said he thinks Common Cause probably will try to get the measure rewritten and revitalized through the legislature first before attempting a petition drive.

Ironically, the court's ruling satisfied many lawmakers and lobbyists who attempted to get unconstitutional provisions written into the law — although it focused on an issue supported by Common Cause.

It was the lobbyist group and supporting Democrats who wanted the whole issue controlled in one bill, so the legislature could not "divide and defeat" the measures. It was that insistence that killed the law in the end.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's new political ethics law was struck down as unconstitutional Monday by the state Supreme Court, just two days before it was intended to take effect.

The court, ruling on a technicality in an advisory opinion, left the constitutionality of the basic provisions of the law up in the air. The majority of the bench said it would issue another opinion later on those issues.

On a 5-2 vote, the court ruled the law was technically invalid because it attempted to include too many things in one act.

Jehovah's Witnesses Report Mounting Persecution In Africa

Persecution of Jehovah's Witnesses for refusing to purchase political membership cards in the East African republic of Malawi has grown steadily worse, according to Paul Lindsey, president of the Fairplain congregation of the evangelist sect.

Quoting from reports gathered by Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, the international voice of the Witnesses, Lindsey noted about 30,000 adults and children are not allowed to buy food, draw water from public wells, live in their homes or have police protection because of their refusal to buy the cards.

The Witnesses maintain strict neutrality in political party participation. They pay taxes, take part in community improvement programs and obey all laws of the land, Lindsey noted.

Pioneers, a political youth group, are used to enforce decrees against all persons known to be Jehovah's Witnesses, according to reports.

Malawi has a one-party political system under Dr. H.K. Banda, head of the Congress party.

An estimated 5,000 Witnesses are being held in Malawian prison camps under intolerable conditions, Lindsey said, quoting from reports.

The Witnesses have been conducting a world-wide information program to bring the plight of its members in Malawi to the attention of Christians everywhere, Lindsey said.

Paw Paw Man Sent To Prison

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw man was sentenced yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to serve from 18 months to seven years in state prison as a result of his earlier guilty plea to a charge of delivery of cocaine.

Sentenced was Dennis Tinker, 22, route 2, CR-374, who had been charged with delivering cocaine to a police undercover agent on Jan. 15, 1975 in Lawrence township.

The sentence was handed down by Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

In arraignments, Edgar J. Pullen, 21, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of property, a pick-up truck owned by Van Buren Sheriff Richard Stump, on Oct. 19, 1974. The truck was damaged after Stump's daughter, Carla, had parked it at Paw Paw high school.

Rogelio Machado, 25, 301 South Haven, Hartford, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to conceal stolen property, a citizens band radio, Feb. 11 in Keeler.

Robert L. Brown, 31, Kalamazoo, pleaded innocent to a charge of arson of a motor vehicle. He is accused of burning his own pick-up truck near Paw Paw Feb. 4 in order to collect the insurance money.

Awaiting Sentence

PAW PAW — A Kalamazoo man was placed on pre-sentence investigation yesterday after pleading no contest to a reduced charge of assault in Van Buren Seventh district court.

Steve Goresy, 48, had originally been charged with assault with a deadly weapon, an automobile, in connection with a complaint Sept. 13 by James Kerr, Mattawan, that a man had tried to run him down with a car.

Slaying Suspect's Bond Bid Denied

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Judge Meyer Warshawsky of Van Buren circuit court yesterday denied a motion to set bond for a man charged with murder in the slaying of a South Haven city councilman's wife during a hold-up last Dec. 1.

Judge Warshawsky denied the request for bond made by Atty. Andrew Burch of Coloma on behalf of Edwin Lamar Langston, 23, of South Haven, has been held without bond since the shooting death of Mrs. Arretta Lou Inghram, wife of Councilman Wilbur Inghram, during a robbery of the couple's grocery store.

Burch had argued that Langston was being held unfairly on the basis of "flimsy" evidence produced at an earlier preliminary examination.

Warshawsky also denied a motion by Burch that information in the charge against Langston be amplified, but granted a motion ordering the prosecutor's office to give the defense statements made by two witnesses and a co-defendant.

Burch argued that information contained in the charge was not specific enough, but Warshawsky ruled that it was. Briefly, the information stated that Langston is alleged to have murdered Mrs. Inghram during the commission of a robbery.

The statements that Judge Warshawsky ordered Burch be supplied with were of Ronnie Wilson, 27, Gary, Ind., who is also charged with murder in connection with the slaying, and two witnesses, Nelson and Alta Madry.

No trial date has been set.

Blossomland K Of C To Seek Donations For The Retarded

Blossomland council 1120 of the Knights of Columbus has announced plans for a fund drive April 9-10 to benefit mentally retarded children and adults in Michigan.

Knights of Columbus members will be stationed at various locations in the Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and Stevensville areas and will offer 15-cent Tootsie Rolls in return for donations to the mentally handicapped, Grand Knight Arden Pidgeon announced.

The local effort is part of a state-wide project for the Palm Sunday weekend endorsed by Gov. William Milliken, according to Robert Tibbitts, past grand knight and chairman of the fund drive here.

A first-year goal of $150,000 statewide has been established for the campaign, which previously has been adopted by the Catholic men's fraternal society in other states.

Tibbitts said 70 per cent of the local donations can be earmarked for local needs while the rest will be used for contributions voted by state officers and for campaign expenses.

In addition to the public solicitation, donations also will be sought among Catholic church congregations on Palm Sunday, April 11.

Bicentennial Commemorative Items Go On Sale In Berrien

HARBERT — Bicentennial commemorative items sold by the Berrien county Bicentennial Pageant, Inc., are now on sale in eight communities in the county.

Paul McAdams, president of the pageant corporation, said proceeds from the sale of the items will be used to help finance the pageant to be staged in Berrien Springs at the county youth fairgrounds July 21-24.

Businesses in some of the cities have donated space to display the items and will make no profit from sale of the items, McAdams added.

The eight communities where the items are now on sale are Benton Harbor, Bicentennial commission office, 777 Riverview drive; Berrien Springs, old courthouse building, Cass street; Bridgman, school superintendent's office; Buchanan, chamber of commerce, 118 Main street; Harbert, pageant office; Niles, Niles Bicentennial office, central school building; 730 Broadway street, and Garthwohl's Bath Shop, 603 North second street; St. Joseph, St. Joseph Art Center, 800 State street, and county court house, Roger Petrie's office, and Stevensville, Stanek's Village Drug store.

Sale locations for Coloma and New Buffalo will be announced later, McAdams said.

The pageant corporation was formed by the county Bicentennial commission in order to prepare and promote the Bicentennial celebration for the county, McAdams said.

Jehovah's Witnesses Report Mounting Persecution In Africa

Persecution of Jehovah's Witnesses for refusing to purchase political membership cards in the East African republic of Malawi has grown steadily worse, according to Paul Lindsey, presiding overseer of the Fairplain congregation of the evangelical sect.

Quoting from reports gathered by Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, the international voice of the Witnesses, Lindsey noted about 30,000 adults and children are not allowed to buy food, draw water from public wells, live in their homes or have police protection because of their refusal to buy the cards.

The Witnesses maintain strict neutrality in political party participation. They pay taxes, take part in community improvement programs and obey all laws of the land, Lindsey noted.

Pioneers, a political youth group, are used to enforce decrees against all persons known to be Jehovah's Witnesses, according to reports.

Malawi has a one-party political system under Dr. H.K. Banda, head of the Congress party.

An estimated 5,000 Witnesses are being held in Malawian prison camps under intolerable conditions, Lindsey said, quoting from reports.

The Witnesses have been conducting a world-wide information program to bring the plight of its members in Malawi to the attention of Christians everywhere, Lindsey said.

Paw Paw Man Sent To Prison

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw man was sentenced yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to serve from 18 months to seven years in state prison as a result of his earlier guilty plea to a charge of delivery of cocaine. Sentenced was Dennis Tinker, 22, route 2, CR-374, who had been charged with delivering cocaine to a police undercover agent on Jan. 15, 1975 in Lawrence township.

The sentence was handed down by Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

In arraignments, Edgar J. Pullen, 21, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of property, a pick-up truck owned by Van Buren Sheriff Richard Stump, on Oct. 19, 1974. The truck was damaged after Stump's daughter, Carla, had parked it at Paw Paw high school.

Rojerio Machado, 25, 301 South Haver, Hartford, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to conceal stolen property, a citizens band radio, Feb. 11 in Keeler.

Robert L. Brown, 31, Kalamazoo, pleaded innocent to a charge of arson of a motor vehicle. He is accused of burning his own pick-up truck near Paw Paw Feb. 4 in order to collect the insurance money.

A charge of writing a no account check against Ruth Barry of Paw Paw, was remanded back to Seventh district court for preliminary examination. Mrs. Barry, who is accused of writing a no account check for $30 drawn on a Lawton bank, originally waived preliminary examination, but did not have an attorney at the time.

Brennan: Let's Rein In 'Bad, Bad Government'

BY MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
(Second in a Series)
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Checking growth of the federal government may require "a new constitutional convention to set up a new federal system," says Thomas Brennan.

The latest entry into the crowded race for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination blames government growth for much of what is wrong with the nation. He contends Washington has stepped into areas never contemplated by the Constitution and the result "is bad, bad government." The 44-year-old former chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court insists federal spending "has to be cut." But he would not get down to specifics, saying only he'd do so in the future. Meanwhile, he says the country's economy is "living off its own monetary system" and the dangerous practice of accepting small amounts of inflation. Brennan, running for the seat to be vacated by retiring U.S. Sen. Philip Hart, says he hopes during the campaign to be "a pretty good spokesman" for a "conservative economic view." But he acknowledges former Congressman Robert Huber also appeals to a similar cross-section. Entering the Senate campaign despite a reputation as a maverick among party regulars does not concern Brennan. "I don't perceive any ill will," he insists. Even if he did, it might matter only a little. After all, Brennan gave up his Supreme Court post — under gubernatorial pressure — for the risky attempt to develop a private law school. The Thomas Cooley Law School in Lansing, where he serves as dean, succeeded. Brennan won election to the Supreme Court, Wayne County Circuit Court and the Detroit Court of Common Pleas. But his other bids for office failed in the 1950s when he ran twice for the Michigan House and once for Congress.

Still, he says, "I have always harbored the taste for public service and the political arena." He admits he may be "terminally" ambitious politically. One of Brennan's few clearly expressed stands is against abortion. A Roman Catholic and father of six, he says he sees that stance "as being a more traditional, old-fashioned stand. I like to call it principle." But he insists his opposition to abortion won't lead him into a "one-issue campaign."

He also opposes busing for school desegregation and says he would support a ban on "educating people by racial quotas."

On other top Michigan issues, Brennan, interviewed a few days after he entered the campaign, was less clear.

He says he has no viewpoint on Project Seafarer and must study the controversy surrounding that proposed underground antenna system the Navy would like to build in the Upper Peninsula.

Talk about repealing the auto trade treaty between the U.S.

Network Mogul Writes Off-Tube Picture Of TV

By JAY SHARRITT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Shanks, a genial native of Lebanon, Ind., began in TV here in the mid-1950s as an actor. He later became a "gofer," as in, "go fer coffee, kid," a talent booker, producer, writer and director.

Currently ABC's vice-president for late night and dawn programs, he now has a new credit, author, having written a 306-page book called "The Cool Fire: How to Make It in Television."

It's a remarkably thorough, yet humorous explanation by an insider of how big-league television works, from what function a producer performs to network structure, from contracts to cable TV.

It even includes such things as what to expect when presenting a program idea to an advertising agency committee. The part of it (the committee) with grey hair will do most of the talking.

"Where it is young, it will carry a manila folder and frown. It will arrange itself around a huge conference table, buffed to a shine as if waiting for the Potsdam conference rather than for the frat television idea that you are rapidly losing faith in. And the silence is deafening."

Shanks, who among other things produced "The Merv Griffin Show" for four years, got into the management side of

BOB SHANKS
An insider's tale

TV as a hire of talent for the "Tonight" show back when Jack Paar headed it.

He says he got into the how-to-make-it-in-TV book business as a result of teaching a night class about TV last year at a scholarly Fun City emporium known as the New School for Social Research.

"I was telling an editor friend of mine about the class one night and he said, 'Hey, there might be a book in that,'" Shanks recalled. He said the editor introduced him to another editor and work commenced. "I was rather intrigued by the idea," he said. "I'd read some other books about television, and while they're valuable to a certain extent, I didn't think they were always very realistic as far as having an inside point of view."

He said that while teaching several other college courses on TV before holding forth at the New School he often was struck "at how little they (college TV departments) know about the inside picture."

"They pretty well know the nuts-and-bolts stuff, how to put together a show and all that, because they have the equipment. But they have no sense of the business side of it or even the structure of a network."

He said he hoped to remedy that with his book, which goes on sale in April. He thinks the tome will have its biggest sales among college students who are studying broadcasting and intend to get into it.

Shanks, who joined ABC in 1972 as vice-president in charge of East Coast program development, was asked if his bosses were a little worried about one of their executives writing about the industry.

"Not at all," he said. "They were most gracious about it. That had crossed my mind, but I notified the people I should have notified about what I was doing, and everyone was delighted about it."

MEAT SELECTION

A recent survey showed that Mrs. Homemaker makes decisions on what meat to buy 74.1 percent of the time... her husband, 6.5 percent... and that it's a joint husband-wife decision 18.4 percent, totaling 89 percent, which leads me to guess that the other 11 percent of the time is spent in deciding who should decide.

Deciding what to buy isn't half the problem as deciding how much meat to prepare to suit each member of the family. While we do not have figures like the above to determine who prefers small, medium, or large servings, we do have some interesting facts about a thing called "meat."

I have you have attended a party at banquet where everyone was served a steak and noticed that every piece of meat was like every other piece and not a single complaint was heard about the quality of meat.

The sameness in size and quality is not a matter of chance. It's planned that way and accomplished through a unique service of the United States Department of Agriculture. It's called Acceptance Service and it is operated by the Meat Grading Branch of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Its purpose is to see to it that volume buying operations like airlines, hotels, hospitals, restaurants, etc., get exactly what they want, be it quality, weight, trim, thickness or all of these.

Who pays for this extra service? The purchaser. And apparently it is well worth it. At one airline just two years ago after some passengers complained that their steaks were smaller than those being served to other passengers.

Well, here at Schneck's we have our own kind of "acceptance service" where everyone gets the same size quality, service and savings.

I know you have attended a party or banquet where everyone was served a steak and noticed that every piece of meat was like every other piece and not a single complaint was heard about the quality of meat.

The sameness in size and quality is not a matter of chance. It's planned that way and accomplished through a unique service of the United States Department of Agriculture. It's called Acceptance Service and it is operated by the Meat Grading Branch of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Its purpose is to see to it that volume leading operations like airlines, hotels, hospitals, restaurants, etc., get exactly what they want, be it quality, weight, trim, thickness or all of these.

Who pays for this extra service? The packer. And apparently it is well worth it. As one airline put it... they started buying the USDA service five years ago after some passengers complained that their steaks were smaller than some being served to other passengers.

WMU Tuition Hike Looms

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — The Western Michigan Board of Trustees will vote in mid-April on requested hikes in tuition and room and board rates. The tuition request is for between $1.50 and $3.50 more per credit hour. The requested increase for room and board rates is $30 per semester. It is the second year in a row that rate increases have been requested at Western.

Test 'Admissible'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A blood alcohol-level test is admissible in a criminal trial even if taken from an unconscious person when an arrest has been made, the Court of Appeals has ruled.

The court upheld an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling which refused to suppress the result of the blood test in a manslaughter case. The order was appealed to the Court of Appeals, while the case is still pending in Oakland County.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Profit Taking Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in on Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped about a point in the early going, and declines took a broad lead over advances among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said many would-be buyers had stepped back in the belief that the market had lost its upward energy for the moment.

Some brokers also suggested that renewed civil conflict in Lebanon had put investors on their guard.

Today's early prices included: Warman, down 1/4 at 10 1/2; AMP, up 1/4 at 3 1/2; Chemical New York, off 1/4 at 36 1/2; and J. Walter Thompson, down 1/4 at 11 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.80 to 997.40, ending a three-day stay above 1,000.

Losers held a 3-2 edge on gainers among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was off .23 at 54.64.

Big Board volume, at 18.10 million shares, sagged to its lightest level in nearly three months.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .14 to 104.38.

GM's Opel Ups Prices By 4.7%

RUESSELSHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Adam Opel AG, a unit of General Motors Corp., announced a 4.7 per cent price increase for the domestic auto market, effective Thursday.

The announcement followed similar increases at Volkswagenwerk AG and Ford of Cologne earlier this month.

Bond Issue Rejected

ZEEFELD, Mich. (AP) — By a margin of nearly 3-to-1, Zeefeld voters refused Monday to issue $4.8 million in bonds to build a new high school.

The bond issue was defeated 3,331 to 1,221. Election officials said the turnout represented nearly two-thirds of the district's voters and was the highest ever.

HOW MILK PRICES ARE FIXED

"Federal regulation has pervasively contributed to declining consumption (of milk) by creating a price beyond the financial means of those who need it most," — Jonathan Rose, deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's anti-trust division. Translated, this means the government has pushed prices of milk so high that the poor no longer can afford to buy it.

And so, with this accusation, Rose joined mounting numbers of spokesmen for consumer groups, for small dairies and government economists urging reform of the federal system of controlling milk.

How does the U.S. government regulate the price you pay for milk and milk products?

During the depression '30s, Congress passed laws that directed the Agriculture Department to set up a two-class pricing system for milk. Under this, USDA issues marketing orders setting a minimum price which dairy plants must pay farmers for bottling quality (grade A) milk. This price is higher than that dairy non-fat dry milk and other dairy products (grade B).

The price an individual dairy farmer receives for his milk therefore depends on how dairy plants in his area use the milk they buy. The more milk that goes for bottling and the less for manufacturing, the greater the farmer's return.

By enforcing a premium on milk used for drinking, this system raises the price of milk.

The USDA also bolsters the price of manufacturing milk by purchasing cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk when the going market price falls below the support price set by the department.

Currently, the support price is at about 77 per cent of parity (parity is a price calculated to give a farmer a fair return in relation to the things he must buy).

In sum, the support program establishes a floor beneath the price of manufacturing milk too, and helps keep up milk prices all along the line. It raises prices farmers receive, thereby encouraging them to increase the milk supply; the excess supply goes for manufactured dairy products, which the government purchases; the milk products purchased by the government go into the school lunch program and are distributed among the poor and overseas.

As for us, America's consumers, we "get a smaller amount of milk products than in the absence of supports."

ICC Official To Address Dinner

Robert J. Corber of Washington, D.C., an Interstate Commerce commissioner, will be keynote speaker April 13 at the Delta Nu Alpha transportation fraternity dinner at the Hoffman house, 4101 28th street, Grand Rapids.

Corber is replacing Commissioner Dale W. Hardin and will speak on proposed changes in regulation of the transportation industry.

Kenneth De Vries of Holland, dinner chairman, said President Ford has submitted legislation to Congress which, if passed, would completely change the transportation industry and result in some deregulation.

The meeting in Grand Rapids is open to the public. Reservations can be made by contacting William Starbuck, Holland Motor Express representative in Benton Harbor.

Ambulance Firms Set Deadline

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's commercial and volunteer ambulance companies will refuse to accept nonemergency Medicaid calls starting April 5, a spokesman said. Rad Palmer, president of the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services and Emergency Medical Technicians, said Monday the moratorium will be followed, up April 6 by a demonstration in front of the Capitol. "The state has placed us in jeopardy, asking us to subsidize the Medicaid program," Palmer said. He said the statewide association has been protesting an 11 per cent reduction in allowable Medicaid charges. The group has filed suit against the state Department of Social Services, asking that the reduction be set aside, he added. He said the reduction means a loss for each call of more than $12 for each private company, and $12.18 for each volunteer company. Palmer said the state expects the ambulance industry to raise its rates to the non-welfare patients or pay out of its own pocket to compensate for losses in transporting Medicaid patients. "State government is playing political patty-cake with the lives of the poor and the old," he added.

Check For Food Arrives

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The federal government has given Michigan a $900,213 check to buy food for school breakfast and lunch programs, the state Board of Education said Monday. The U.S. Department of Agriculture grant makes up for a shortfall in surplus food donations for the programs in Michigan public and nonpublic schools, the board said. Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction, said the agriculture department normally provides more than $12 million annually in surplus foodstuffs to Michigan schools. He said recent shortages required the federal government to make a cash donation instead.

Free Calls To Capitol

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Detroit lawmaker wants the state to pay the bill for Michigan residents' calls to state legislators. Rep. Dennis Hertel said Monday he will introduce legislation to provide toll-free telephone service for constituents calling state lawmakers. "It is essential to our democratic Republic form of government that citizens be involved in government decisions and voice their opinions on pending legislation and other matters before final action is taken," said Hertel, a Democrat. Hertel said callers often get the run-around from Capitol operators, who refer them to people other than their state representatives or senators. He also said many people don't like to write letters, and some lawmakers can't spend much time in their home districts.

Visitors End Up In Jail

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Three Detroit men who went to Southern Michigan Prison Sunday to visit a friend wound up as prisoners at the Jackson County Jail. A fourth, a youth, was lodged in the county's juvenile home. State Police at the Jackson post said the incident occurred while the four were in their car in line waiting for admittance to the jail parking lot. Another car also heading for the prison backed into them, causing minor damage and touching off an argument. Police said the dispute ended when one of the four pulled a gun, robbed a passenger in the second car of $80 and his driver's license and fled. Police set up roadblocks and Washenaw County deputies hunted the four occupants on Interstate 94 near Chelsea. Charges of armed robbery were lodged in 12th District Court against the three Detroiters — Leroy Willis, 27; Larry Buttram, 20; and Willie Dawson, 22.

National Cemetery Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say they're looking at a 600-acre plot of government land near Battle Creek as a site for a national cemetery in Michigan. The land is part of old Fort Custer. John Mahini, director of the National Cemetery System, said work could begin on the cemetery as early as October 1977, with a possible opening in 1979. Michigan is one of 13 states without a national cemetery for military veterans.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Profit Taking Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in on Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped about a point in the early going, and declines took a broad lead over advances among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said many would-be buyers had stepped back in the belief that the market had lost its upward energy for the moment.

Some brokers also suggested that renewed civil conflict in Lebanon had put investors on their guard.

Today's early prices included Warnaco, down 1/4 at 10 3/4; AMP, up 1/4 at 31 1/4; Chemical New York, off 1/4 at 36 1/4; and J. Walter Thompson, down 1/4 at 11 1/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.80 to 997.40, ending a three-day stay above 1,000.

Losers held a 5-3 edge on gainers among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was off .23 at 54.64.

Big Board volume, at 16.10 million shares, sagged to its lightest level in nearly three months.

GM's Opel Ups Prices By 4.7%

RUESSELSHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Adam Opel AG, a unit of General Motors Corp., announced 4.7 per cent price increases for the domestic auto market, effective Thursday.

The announcement followed similar increases at Volkswagenwerk AG and Ford of Cologne earlier this month.

Bond Issue Rejected

ZEELAND, Mich. (AP) — By a margin of nearly 3-to-1, Zealand voters refused Monday to issue $4.8 million in bonds to build a new high school.

The bond issue was defeated 3,331 to 1,221. Election officials said the turnout represented nearly two-thirds of the district's voters and was the highest ever.

HOW MILK PRICES ARE FIXED

"Federal regulation has pervasively contributed to declining consumption (of milk) by creating a price beyond the financial means of those who need it most." — Jonathan Rose, deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's anti-trust division. Translated, this means the government has pushed prices of milk so high that the poor no longer can afford to buy it.

And so, with this accusation, Rose joined mounting numbers of spokesmen for consumer groups, for small dairies and government economists urging reform of the federal system of controlling milk.

How does the U.S. government regulate the price you pay for milk and milk products?

During the depression '30s, Congress passed laws that directed the Agriculture Department to set up a two-class pricing system for milk.

Under this, USDA issues marketing orders setting a minimum price which dairy plants must pay farmers for bottling quality (grade A) milk. This price is higher than that dairy non-fat dry milk and other dairy products (grade B).

The price an individual dairy farmer receives for his milk therefore depends on how dairy plants in his area use the milk they buy. The more milk that goes for bottling and the less for manufacturing, the greater the farmer's return.

By enforcing a premium on milk used for drinking, this system raises the price of milk.

The USDA also bolsters the price of manufacturing milk by purchasing cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk when the going market price falls below the support price set by the department.

Currently, the support price is at about 77 per cent of parity (parity is a price calculated to give a farmer a fair return in relation to the things he must buy).

In sum, the support program establishes a floor beneath the price of manufacturing milk too, and helps keep up milk prices all along the line. It raises prices farmers receive, thereby encouraging them to increase the milk supply; the excess supply goes for manufactured dairy products, which the government purchases; the milk products purchased by the government go into the school lunch program and are distributed among the poor and overseas.

As for us, America's consumers, we "get a smaller amount of milk products than in the absence of supports," concludes the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability — and we pay higher retail prices for milk and milk products as well.

To protect the support program, the government also fixes quotas that limit imports of dairy products. (Such countries as New Zealand, Australia and Canada could profitably export milk products to the U.S., which would lower prices for American consumers.)

On top of federal regulations, many states set minimum prices that farmers must receive for their milk — and some establish minimum wholesale and/or retail milk prices. As you might expect, this additional layer of controls boosts retail dairy prices and cuts further into milk consumption.

Yet, in the face of all this, the well-financed dairy industry lobbies exert unrelenting pressure on Congress to raise support prices for milk and to compel the government to buy more dairy products. Recently, for instance, both the House and Senate passed a bill that would have boosted the price support level to 85 per cent of parity. Although dairy prices were soaring as farmers' feed costs were declining, the bill passed with little debate. Had not President Ford vetoed the bill, it would have allegedly resulted by now in a 6-cent increase in the retail price of a gallon of milk.

No one denies that federal regulation of milk marketing has contributed to a stable and ready supply of dairy products — but the system has gone awry. It is keeping up prices to a point that pushes demand down and forces thousands of producers to go out of business. It is costing an estimated 200 to 700 million dollars in overcharges for milk to consumers per year.

Our federal milk pricing system must be overhauled in a way that will do the least harm to farmers, while bringing long-overdue relief to the consuming public.

Tomorrow: The clout of the dairy co-ops.

ICC Official To Address Dinner

Robert J. Corber of Washington, D.C., an Interstate Commerce commissioner, will be keynote speaker April 12 at the Delta Nu Alpha transportation fraternity dinner at the Hoffman house, 4101 28th street, Grand Rapids.

Corber is replacing Commissioner Dale W. Hardin and will speak on proposed changes in regulation of the transportation industry.

Kenneth De Vries of Holland, dinner chairman, said President Ford has submitted legislation to Congress which, if passed, would completely change the transportation industry and result in some deregulation.

The meeting in Grand Rapids is open to the public. Reservations can be made by contacting William Starbuck, Holland Motor Express representative in Benton Harbor.

Ambulance Firms Set Deadline

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's commercial and volunteer ambulance companies will refuse to accept nonemergency Medicaid calls starting April 5, a spokesman said. Rod Palmer, president of the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services and Emergency Medical Technicians, said Monday the moratorium will be followed up April 6 by a demonstration in front of the Capitol. "The state has placed us in jeopardy, asking us to subsidize the Medicaid program," Palmer said. He said the statewide association has been protesting an 11 per cent reduction in allowable Medicaid charges. The group has filed suit against the state Department of Social Services, asking that the reduction be set aside, he added. He said the reduction means a loss for each call of more than $12 for each private company and $32.18 for each volunteer company. Palmer said the state expects the ambulance industry to raise its rates to the non-welfare patients or pay out of its own pocket to compensate for losses in transporting Medicaid patients. "State government is playing political patty cake with the lives of the poor and the old," he added.

Check For Food Arrives

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The federal government has given Michigan a $900,213 check to buy food for school breakfast and lunch programs, the state Board of Education said Monday. The U.S. Department of Agriculture grant makes up for a shortfall in surplus food donations for the programs in Michigan public and nonpublic schools, the board said. Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction, said the agriculture department normally provides more than $12 million annually in surplus foodstuffs to Michigan schools. He said recent shortages required the federal government to make a cash donation instead.

Free Calls To Capitol

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Detroit lawmaker wants the state to pay the bill for Michigan residents' calls to state legislators. Rep. Dennis Hertel said Monday he will introduce legislation to provide toll-free telephone service for constituents calling state lawmakers. "It is essential to our democratic Republic form of government that citizens be involved in government decisions and voice their opinions on pending legislation and other matters before final action is taken," said Hertel, a Democrat. Hertel said callers often get the run-around from Capitol operators, who refer them to people other than their state representatives or senators. He also said many people don't like to write letters, and some lawmakers can't spend much time in their home districts.

Visitors End Up In Jail

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Three Detroit men who went to Southern Michigan Prison Sunday to visit a friend wound up as prisoners at the Jackson County jail. A fourth, a youth, was lodged in the county's juvenile home. State Police at the Jackson post said the incident occurred while the four were in their car in line waiting for admittance to the jail parking lot. Another car also heading for the prison backed into them, causing minor damage and touching off an argument. Police said the dispute ended when one of the four pulled a gun, robbed a passenger in the second car of $80 and his driver's license and fled. Police set up roadblocks and Washtenaw County deputies halted the four occupants on Interstate 94 near Chelsea. Charges of armed robbery were lodged in 12th District Court against the three Detroiters — Leroy Willis, 27; Larry Buttrum, 20; and Willie Dawson, 23.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Seize Suspected Cocaine

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported suspected cocaine that would have a value of nearly $5,000 was seized early today from a car that a computer check showed was stolen.

Two men in the car were arrested. Troopers Ralph Drumm and Joseph VanOosterhout reported the 1974 Lincoln Continental was stopped about 3:45 a.m. on I-94 between Coloma and Watervliet. The troopers said a little more than 1 1/2 ounces of alleged cocaine were confiscated. According to the post, cocaine has a street value of about $150 per gram with 28 grams per ounce. The car was reported stolen from Roseville last week, the post said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of possession of stolen property and possession of cocaine were two men who identified themselves as Michael Barber, 22, and Barrett Diggs, 25, both of Chicago. Troopers said the two had no identification with them.

An estimated $150 in change from a soft drink machine and two leather coats, valued at

State police of the Benton Harbor post said the soft drink machine was located in the employe lunch room at the Pepsi Cola Bottling company, 3905 M-139, Royalton township. Troopers said the office was entered through a rear door and that the soft drink machine was severely damaged.

Two employes at Sears, 640 West Main street, told Benton Harbor police, their leather coats were stolen from the coat room at the store Saturday. Reporting the thefts were Tracy Weirs, 161 Eloise drive, Fairplain, and Colleen Myers, route 1, Box 19-A, Baroda.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A lamp, four small rugs and a tape player, all valued at $285, from the home of Francis Smith, 567 McAllister avenue.

—A wallet containing $75 in cash, from the apartment of Percy Runyon, 470 Broadway.

—A $500 public address amplifier and microphone, from a storage room at the Claremont Nursing home, 1385 East Empire avenue.

—A citizen's band radio, valued at $200, from the van of Steve Gaundier, 210 Ward avenue, St. Joseph, parked on a lot on Meadowbrook road.

Brother Suspects Ask For Hearing

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Two brothers accused of beating a man with a pool cue Sunday night outside a Berrien Springs tavern demanded preliminary examinations yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Demanding examinations on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder, were Feliciano Saenz, 31, of 517 Main street, Berrien Springs, and Robert E. Saenz, 47, of 210 South Mary street, Harford.

The victim of the alleged assault, J.T. Mabry, was treated and released from a hospital following the incident. The brothers were jailed under bonds of $5,000 and $2,500, respectively.

Others demanding examinations were: William Felton, 28, of 301 Stevens street, Benton Harbor, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, a knife, against Freddie L. Robinson March 27 in Benton Harbor. He did not post $1,000 bond.

Joe Leslie Henderson, 22, of 1092 Highland, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking into an auto March 23 in Benton township. He was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail.

William Dudley, of 433 Washington street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in Benton Harbor March 14. Bond of $2,000 was posted.

Paul E. Meyer, 22, of Plainwell, on a charge of possession of amphetamine March 28 in Lincoln township. He failed to post $2,500 bond.

William Radford Moss, 35, of 504 Territorial, Benton Harbor, charged with writing an insufficient funds' check for $128.87 in Benton Harbor March 26. $500 bond was not posted.

Bound over to Circuit court on felony charges were:

Milton D. McGee, 18, of 1043 Agard, Benton Harbor, charged with unarmed robbery of cash from Joe Pratt at the corner of Broadway and Empire, Benton Harbor, March 18. He continued free on $1,500 bail.

Linard E. Smith, 28, of 356 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, charged with larceny of merchandise from a building, the Brooklyn tavern, in Benton Harbor March 18. He waived examination and was jailed under $3,000 bond.

The driver of a car allegedly chased at high speeds by police Sunday in New Buffalo was sentenced to fine and costs of $100 or 30 days in jail yesterday. Sentenced for reckless driving was Kevin Housler, 20, of Jackson. He and a passenger in the auto, Terence L. Easton, 18, of Huron, were also sentenced to $122 for petty larceny of gasoline from a Union Pier service station. The pair also pleaded innocent to charges of possession of marijuana. Easton was freed, and Housler jailed, under bonds of $1,000.

Others sentenced were: Robert Lee Taylor, 41, of Manteno, Ill., $100 and restitution of $30 for possession of a nine-pound steelhead trout illegally taken by a spear March 24 in Berrien township.

Marvin M. Evans, 19, of 794 Buss, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for malicious destruction to property valued under $100, reduced from a charge of attempted breaking and entering, March 18 at Calvin Britain school, Benton Harbor.

Christine Baggett, of 2391 Butler, Benton township, $10 for failure to clean debris from property at 2266 Butler. The ticket states that debris remained after the completion of house remodeling.

William Bledsoe, 17, of 240 Bridgman avenue, Benton Harbor, $60 for assault and battery against Ron Kettlehut in Bainbridge township Oct. 17.

Andrew Daniel Jackson, 63, of Summer street, Benton township, $152 for impaired driving March 28 in Bainbridge township.

Donald P. Grant, 28, of Southgate, two days in jail and $250 for possession of marijuana March 28 in St. Joseph township.

Diane Boyce, 19, of 350 Colby street, Benton Harbor, $122 or 30 days in jail for petty larceny of clothes from K-Mart, Benton Harbor, Feb. 8.

Gene K. Craven, 28, of 402 Lincoln avenue, Benton Harbor, and Sandra L. Craven, 27, of 1335 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, $105 each for receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100 Oct. 13 in Benton Harbor.

Sentenced for the following violations were: Use of marijuana — William C. Ralph, 23, of Hammond, Ind., two days in jail, $100 and six months probation; Michael A. Werner, 23, of 1425 East John Beers road, Stevensville, $100 and one year probation; Roland R. Catenacci, 18, of Kalamazoo, $100 and 18 months probation; Dennis M. Grega, 22, of 822 Wisconsin, St. Joseph, $101; Raymond L. Richardson, 18, of 214 North Main, Galien, $50 or 10 days in jail.

Driving while license suspended — Hurley Lee Thompson, 21, of 291 Kirby avenue, Benton Harbor, three days in jail and $62; Gerald R. Boyd, 37, of 20 West Ash street, Three Oaks, three days in jail and $80 or 30 days in jail total and, for driving while intoxicated, $155 or 30 days in jail.

Driving while intoxicated — $155: Ronald L. Polling, 23, of Michigan City, Ind., and William D. Young, 81, of 5064 Pipestone road, Benton Harbor. $152 and six months probation: Johnny W. Sulesbee, 37, of 2912 Lemon Creek road, Berrien Springs; Annie Mae Anderson, 27, of 406 Brunson, Benton Harbor; Charles Lee Casper, 22, of 28 South Chicago street, New Buffalo; Edward L. Samelton, 34, of 122 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor.

Pleading innocent to two disorderly person charges stemming from an incident in Benton Harbor March 28 was Barbara A. Pucio, 17, of 797 Colfax, Benton Harbor. Charged with creating a disturbance and obstructing police, she was jailed under bonds totaling $1,000. Because the charges are misdemeanors, and require only 10 per cent of the bond to be posted in order to free the suspect, she needs to post $100 in bonds, according to District Judge Ronald J. Taylor.

Break-In Suspects Enter Guilty Pleas

Two men whose accomplices were killed during unrelated break-ins at businesses in Benton township and Niles pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering charges when arraigned yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Pleading guilty before Judge Julian E. Hughes were Larry Douglas Horan, 29, of 1342 Silverbrook avenue, Niles, and Steven A. Dowell, 19, of South Bend. Each faces a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment.

Horan was accused of a Dec. 14 break-in at Muir's drug store in the Fairplain Plaza in which a companion, Billy K. Gober, 33, of Niles, was killed by a shotgun blast fired by a police officer while the suspects and police were on the roof.

Dowell was charged in connection with a Feb. 9 break-in at the office of Dr. Durwood Dill, at 1707 Broadway, Niles, in which Ronald Forrer, 19, of South Bend, shot himself rather than surrender to police. His death was ruled a suicide by a county medical examiner.

A co-defendant in the Muir's case, Daniel M. Williams, 33, was sentenced to 6 to 10 years in prison earlier this month after pleading guilty to breaking and entering.

Otis E. Hartz, 21, of 871 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, drew a one-year probation for entering Benton Harbor high school without breaking Aug. 18.

Pleading guilty during arraignments before Hughes were:

Darel K. Bankston, 26, of 1331 Country Club drive, Niles, to fourth degree criminal sexual conduct (sexual contact while using force of coercion) with a 27-year-old woman Sept. 19 in Niles township.

Terry Palms, 20, of 251 Apple drive, Coloma, to attempted larceny in a building—the attempted theft of a calculator Oct. 27 from Miller Radio in Coloma township.

Lee Edward Williams, 39, of 113 Townline road, Benton township, to conspiracy to possess an unregistered gun—a pistol—Nov. 28, on M-140 in Pipestone township.

Terry A. Stockton, 18, of Blue Creek road, rural Benton Harbor, to attempted larceny in a building—the attempted theft of a lantern and jacket June 7 from the home of Leonard Goldstein, at 4590 Bailey road, Pipestone township.

Willie G. Humphreys, 34, of Flint, to attempted carrying a concealed weapon—a revolver—Feb. 3 on I-94 in Benton township.

Entering a plea of no contest to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Roosevelt Harris, 40, of 614 Baird street, Benton Harbor. He was accused of assaulting Sessie Fields with a knife Feb. 13 at 425 Territorial road, Benton Harbor.

Metro Unit

Arrests

Baroda Man

Berrien County Metro Crime Unit officers arrested a Baroda man Monday on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property after six allegedly stolen citizens' bond radars were recovered.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Douglas Royer Corr, 25, of 1558 West Shawnee trailer park, Baroda.

Metro officers said the six CB radars were identified as having been reported stolen to police in St. Joseph, St. Joseph township, Benton township and Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Grand Rapids Man

Demands Hearing

By TOM RENNER

SOUTH HAVEN Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Gary Nelson, also known as Francis Holmes, 28, of Grand Rapids demanded a preliminary examination yesterday when arraigned in Seventh District court here on a charge of auto theft and three warrants charging violation of probation.

Nelson was arrested early Saturday by South Haven city police officers following a high speed chase.

Nelson was arraigned on warrants from the South Haven state police post alleging violation of probation on previous convictions of entering a building without permission, possession of marijuana and using marijuana.

He was ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bond pending the April 7 preliminary examination.

In other cases, Blanche Mitchell, 22, 80 North Shur drive, South Haven was sentenced to five days in the county jail after pleading guilty to a charge of aggravated assault. Miss Mitchell was arrested by South Haven police in connection with a March 24 incident in which another woman, Marion Hamilton, alleged she had been bitten and scratched on the face during an argument.

Phillip Barnes, 17, of South Haven was bound over to Van Buren circuit court on two counts of larceny and two counts of breaking and entering. He is charged with the attempted theft of money from coin boxes at a laundromat on March 12, and the theft of tires from a junkyard and the burglary of two homes. Bond was reduced from $17,000 to $4,000.

Metro Unit Arrests Baroda Man

Grand Rapids Man Demands Hearing

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Gary Nelson, also known as Francis Holmes, 28, of Grand Rapids demanded a preliminary examination yesterday when arraigned in Seventh District court here on a charge of auto theft and three warrants charging violation of probation.

Two men in the car were arrested. Troopers Ralph Drumm and Joseph VanOosterhaut reported the 1974 Lincoln Continental was stopped about 3:45 a.m. on I-94 between Coloma and Watervliet. The troopers said a little more than 1 1/2 ounces of alleged cocaine were confiscated. According to the post, cocaine has a street value of about $115 per gram with 28 grams per ounce. The car was reported stolen from Roseville last week, the post said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of possession of stolen property and possession of cocaine were two men who identified themselves as Michael Barber, 22, and Barrett Diggs, 25, both of Chicago. Troopers said the two had no identification with them.

An estimated $150 in change from a soft drink machine and two leather coats, valued at $260, were among seven thefts reported Monday to Twin Cities area police.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said the soft drink machine was located in the employe lunch room at the Pepsi Cola Bottling company, 3905 M-139, Royalton township. Troopers said the office was entered through a rear door and that the soft drink machine was severely damaged.

Two employees at Sears, 640 West Main street, told Benton Harbor police their leather coats were stolen from the coat room at the store Saturday. Reporting the thefts were Traci Weirs, 161 Eloise drive, Fairplain, and Colleen Myers, route 1, Box 19-A, Baroda.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were: —A lamp, four small rugs and a tape player, all valued at $288, from the home of Francis Smith, 567 McAllister avenue. —A wallet containing $75 in cash, from the apartment of Percy Runyon, 470 Broadway. —A $500 public address amplifier and microphone, from a storage room at the Claremont Nursing home, 1385 East Empire avenue. —A citizen's band radio, valued at $200, from the van of Steve Gaundier, 210 Ward avenue, St. Joseph, parked on a lot on Meadowbrook road.

Others demanding examinations were: William Felton, 28, of 301 Stevens street, Benton Harbor, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, a knife, against Freddie L. Robinson March 27 in Benton Harbor. He did not post $1,000 bond.

Joe Leslie Henderson, 22, of 1092 Highland, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking into an auto March 23 in Benton township. He was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail.

William Dudley, of 433 Washington street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in Benton Harbor March 14. Bond of $2,000 was posted.

Paul E. Meyer, 22, of Plainwell, on a charge of possession of amphetamines March 28 in Lincoln township. He failed to post $2,500 bond.

William Radford Moss, 35, of 504 Territorial, Benton Harbor, charged with writing an insufficient funds' check for $129.97 in Benton Harbor March 26. $500 bond was not posted.

Bound over to Circuit court on felony charges were: Milton D. McGee, 19, of 1043 Agard, Benton Harbor, charged with unarmed robbery of cash from Joe Pratt at the corner of Broadway and Empire, Benton Harbor, March 18. He continued free on $1,500 bail.

Linard E. Smith, 29, of 356 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, charged with larceny of merchandise from a building, the Brooklyn tavern, in Benton Harbor March 19. He waived examination and was jailed under $3,000 bond.

The driver of a car allegedly chased at high speeds by police Sunday in New Buffalo was sentenced to fine and costs of $100 or 30 days in jail yesterday. Sentenced for reckless driving was Kevin Housler, 20, of Jackson. He and a passenger in the auto, Terence L. Easton, 19, of Homer, were also sentenced to $122 for petty larceny of gasoline from a Union Pier service station. The pair also pleaded innocent to charges of possession of marijuana. Easton was freed, and Housler jailed, under bonds of $1,000.

Others sentenced were: Robert Lee Taylor, 41, of Manteno, Ill., $103 and restitution of $30 for possession of a nine-pound steelhead trout illegally taken by a spear March 24 in Berrien township.

Marvin M. Evans, 19, of 794 Buss, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for malicious destruction to property valued under $100, reduced from a charge of attempted breaking and entering, March 18 at Calvin Britain preliminary examination.

In other cases, Blanche Mitchell, 22, 90 North Shore drive, South Haven was sentenced to five days in the county jail after pleading guilty to a charge of aggravated assault. Miss Mitchell was arrested by South Haven police in connection with a March 24 incident in which another woman, Marion Hamilton, alleged she had been bitten and scratched on the face during an argument.

Philip Barnes, 17, of South Haven was bound over to Van Buren circuit court on two counts of larceny and two counts of breaking and entering. He is charged with the attempted theft of money from coin boxes at a laundromat on March 12, and the theft of tires from a junkyard and the burglary of two homes. Bond was reduced from $17,000 to $4,000.

Christine Baggett, of 2391 Butler, Benton township, $10 for failure to clean debris from property at 2266 Butler. The ticket states that debris remained after the completion of house remodeling.

William Bledsoe, 17, of 240 Bridgman avenue, Benton Harbor, $60 for assault and battery against Ron Kettlehut in Bainbridge township Oct. 17.

Andrew Daniel Jackson, 63, of Summer street, Benton township, $152 for impaired driving March 28 in Bainbridge township.

Donald P. Grant, 29, of Southgate, two days in jail and $250 for possession of marijuana March 28 in St. Joseph township.

Diane Boyce, 19, of 350 Colby street, Benton Harbor, $122 or 30 days in jail for petty larceny of clothes from K-Mart, Benton Harbor, Feb. 6.

Gene K. Craven, 28, of 402 Lincoln avenue, Benton Harbor, and Sandra L. Craven, 27, of 1335 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, $105 each for receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100 Oct. 13 in Benton Harbor.

Sentenced for the following violations were: Use of marijuana — William C. Ralph, 23, of Hammond, Ind., two days in jail, $100 and six months probation; Michael A. Werner, 23, of 1425 East John Beers road, Stevensville, $101 and one year probation; Roland R. Catenacci, 18, of Kalamazoo, $100 and 18 months probation; Dennis M. Grega, 22, of 822 Wisconsin, St. Joseph, $101; Raymond L. Richardson, 18, of 214 North Main, Galien, $50 or 10 days in jail.

Driving while license suspended — Hurley Lee Thompson, 21, of 251 Kirby avenue, Benton Harbor, three days in jail and $62; Gerald R. Boyd, 37, of 20 West Ash street, Three Oaks, three days in jail and $90 or 30 days in jail total and, for driving while intoxicated, $155 or 30 days in jail.

Driving while intoxicated — $155: Ronald L. Poling, 23, of Michigan City, Ind., and William D. Young, 61, of 5664 Pipestone road, Benton Harbor. $152 and six months probation: Johnny W. Solesbee, 37, of 2912 Lemon Creek road, Berrien Springs; Annie Mae Anderson, 27, of 406 Brunson, Benton Harbor; Charles Lee Casper, 22, of 28 South Chicago street, New Buffalo; Edward L. Samelton, 34, of 122 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor.

Pleading innocent to two disorderly person charges stemming from an incident in Benton Harbor March 28 was Barbara A. Poole, 17, of 797 Colfax, Benton Harbor. Charged with creating a disturbance and obstructing police, she was jailed under bonds totaling $1,000. Because the charges are misdemeanors, and require only 10 per cent of the bond to be posted in order to free the suspect, she needs to post $100 in bonds, according to District Judge Ronald J. Taylor.

Homan was accused of a Dec. 14 break-in at Muir's drug store in the Fairplain Plaza in which a companion, Billy K. Gober, 33, of Niles, was killed by a shotgun blast fired by a police officer while the suspects and police were on the roof.

Dowell was charged in connection with a Feb. 9 break-in at the office of Dr. Durwood Dill, at 1707 Broadway, Niles, in which Ronald Forrer, 19, of South Bend, shot himself rather than surrender to police. His death was ruled a suicide by a county medical examiner.

A co-defendant in the Muir's case, Daniel M. Williams, 33, was sentenced to 6 to 10 years in prison earlier this month after pleading guilty to breaking and entering.

In sentences by Hughes: David R. Grundy, 23, of 209 South Clinton street, New Buffalo, was placed on two years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for attempted assault with a deadly weapon—a knife—Jan. 16 against Wesley A. Konkey at the Buffalo lounge in New Buffalo.

Otis E. Hartz, 21, of 871 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, drew a one-year probation for entering Benton Harbor high school without breaking Aug. 18.

Pleading guilty during arraignments before Hughes were: Darel K. Bankston, 26, of 1331 Country Club drive, Niles, to fourth degree criminal sexual conduct (sexual contact while using force or coercion) with a 27-year-old woman Sept. 19 in Niles township.

Coloma Developer Tells Building Plan

COLOMA — A proposal to build three low-rent apartment buildings off Paw Paw Lake road was presented to the Coloma township planning commission last night.

The proposed developer, Al

Kolberg of Coloma, said the 48, one- and two-bedroom apartments would rent for between $120 and $140 monthly and would be located on 6.7 acres of land he owns across from the WU-O-Paw bowling alley which he formerly owned.

John Steele, planning commission chairman, told Kolberg to make a second presentation accompanied by drawings and plans.

He added that the land also has to be rezoned to permit construction of multiple-family housing units. It is now zoned for single-family units, Steele said.

In another area, the planning commission recommended that the Coloma township board approve plans for a 13-lot subdivision at Paw Paw Lake road and Beech avenue.

The proposed Luke Pointe subdivision plan plans were outlined to the commission by Neil Berndt of Neil Berndt and Associates, representing John Yerington of Benton Harbor, according to Steele.

The township is expected to act on the subdivision proposal this coming Monday night.

CONCERT PLANNED

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Rolling Stones are scheduled to appear at Three Rivers Stadium in July, and stadium officials predict the concert by the superstar rock group will draw 60,000 to 80,000 fans.

SENTENCED TO LIFE: Four Black Muslims convicted of the so-called "Zebra" murders and assaults two winters ago in San Francisco, Calif., were sentenced to life in prison Monday in San Francisco. The defendants are, left to right: Larry Craig Green, 23; J.C. Simon, 29; Manuel Moore, 31; and Jessie Lee Cooks, 30. (AP Wirephoto)

'Vicious, Terrifying Crimes'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four Black Muslims convicted of some of the random Zebra street slayings that terrified city residents during the winter of 1973-74 have been sentenced to life in prison.

Superior Court Judge Joseph Karsch ordered the maximum punishment Monday, saying that the more than 20 attacks, 14 of them fatal, were "vicious and terrifying crimes."

Larry C. Green, 23, J.C. Simon, 29, Manuel Moore, 31, and Jesse Lee Cooks, 30, showed no emotion as Karsch sentenced them individually.

Green spoke briefly to assuage reports that police officials were concerned about the safety of Anthony Harris, a former companion of the defendants who was the key prosecution witness against them.

"We have nothing to gain by the death of Anthony Harris, but the San Francisco police department does," said Green. He did not elaborate.

Karsch solemnly read the names of the 14 persons who were killed either by gunfire or stabbing. The defendants, however, were charged with only three of the slayings.

The four were convicted of murder, conspiracy and assault on March 13 after one of the longest trials in California history. It lasted 376 days, and 181 witnesses testified. The jury deliberated 3 1/2 days.

The prosecution argued that the Zebra killings, named after a police radio band, were the work of a racist black cult bent on slaying whites.

Attorneys for all four filed notices of appeal as soon as sentences were imposed.

Hartford Teacher Jobs Ruling Expected In April

HARTFORD — An arbitration panel's decision is expected by April 30 on whether two men get reinstated in Hartford school teaching jobs they lost in June, 1976.

The three-man panel heard arguments on Feb. 20 in the grievances filed by former teachers Joel Kooyers and John McLellan and final written briefs were filed last Friday, according to Robert Nichols, head of the Bangor office of the Michigan Education association.

Nichols said the binding decision on whether the teachers are reinstated is expected by April 30.

The panel consisted of Harold Leach, a Hartford school board member; James Domske, a middle school teacher; and Samuel Shaw, a professional arbitrator from Grand Rapids.

The Hartford school board in March, 1975, voted not to grant tenure to Kooyers, a teacher at the school since 1973, and McLellan, a teacher in the district since 1972.

They subsequently were not rehired for the 1975-76 school year.

Before leaving the district, the pair filed a grievance asking to be reinstated.

They also filed a suit in Van Buren circuit court, asking the court to award them tenure, reinstatement and monetary damages.

That suit was dismissed by then Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr.

Baby Saved From Fire Still Critical

A six-month-old boy remained in "critical" condition today as a result of smoke inhalation sustained in a mobile home fire in Berrien township Sunday that took the life of his father.

Brandon Ebbeskotte was transferred to Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, Monday morning from Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center. His father, Harold Ebbeskotte, 27, died of smoke inhalation in the 1 p.m. blaze that burned out their mobile home on the east side of the St. Joseph river just below Berrien Springs dam.

Capt. Ronald Immoos of the Berrien sheriff's department said today cause of the fire is still under investigation. Preliminary investigation indicated the fire apparently started in the kitchen area, possibly the result of an explosion in the gas stove. Witnesses reported hearing an explosion prior to the fire.

Ebbeskotte died while trying to reach his son who was rescued by Berrien Springs Fireman Robert Bauer. Bauer's wife, Elizabeth, a registered nurse, gave the baby mouth-to-mouth resuscitation en route to Berrien General hospital.

Hartford Teacher Jobs Ruling Expected In April

HARTFORD — An arbitration panel's decision is expected by April 30, on whether two men get reinstated to Hartford school teaching jobs they lost in June, 1975.

The three-man panel heard arguments on Feb. 20 in the grievances filed by former teachers Joel Kooyers and John McLellan and final written briefs were filed last Friday, according to Robert Nichols, head of the Bangor office of the Michigan Education association.

Nichols said the binding decision on whether the teachers are reinstated is expected by April 30.

The panel consisted of Harold Leach, a Hartford school board member; James Demske, a middle school teacher; and Samuel Shaw, a professional arbitrator from Grand Rapids. The Hartford school board in March, 1975, voted not to grant tenure to Kooyers, a teacher at the school since 1973, and McLellan, a teacher in the district since 1972.

They subsequently were not rehired for the 1975-76 school year.

Before leaving the district, the pair filed a grievance asking to be reinstated.

That suit was dismissed by then Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr.
